KING ALFONSO STAKES CROWN TO PACIFY SPAIN

Yields Power to Popular Wish.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MADRID, Feb. 16.—Kins Alfonso, sitting in his great palace tonight, may not feel badly about it, but he has hardly twelve hours left as king of Spain with full sovereign rights.

José Sanchez Guerra, probably his most powerful enemy, will present himself at that gleaming monument to the Bourbon rule of Spain tomorrow at noon with a group of other graybeards and a young and vigorous general ready to take over the prerogatives of the crown.

That is, if between now and tomorrow noon the present proprietor of the throne does not decide to go back on the agreement he made today when he called 72 year old Señor Guerra to form a government and convoke a constitutional assembly in which representatives of 22,000,000 Spaniards, freely elected, will debate in all liberty the kind of government they want.

Gives Reason for Choice.

In an official statement King Alfonso explained that he had asked his political opponent to form a government to pacify the popular spirit and facilitate the constitutional reforms sought by the left groups. His statement follows:

"After the first extension of uncertainty provoked by the crisis, his majesty the king has begun to pacify the popular spirit by restoring ample and complete constitutional liberty, and facilitating the constitutional reforms sought by the leftist groups. Sanchez Guerra has been charged by his majesty with the forming of a government. He has the collaboration of the Count de Romanones, the Marquis de Alhucemas and Melquiades Alvarez. Tranquillity throughout Spain is absolute."

Premier Designate Guerra has his ministry about formed tonight, and however, he has full support, although not the actual participation, of both the Republican and Socialist elements, which brought about the December revolution. He has also received full assurance that the general strike, which was to have thrown Spain into turmoil tomorrow, is off.

Will Sign "Abdication."

Therefore, when Señor Guerra dons his silk hat and frock coat and goes to present his fellow ministers to King Alfonso there is little doubt that the monarch, in the 45th year of his life and 25th year of actual regin, will sign what amounts practically to an abdication. His people can accept it or not four months hence in a national assembly.

The understanding tonight is that the king will be called upon to sign over his sovereignty to a regency composed of none other than the Guerra government, and that he will undertake on his honor to remain aloof from the political life of the nation pending its verdict on him. He will continue to be his majesty Alfonso XIII., but he will have no prerogatives that count.

Thus the revolution triumphed in Spain today without a shot being fired, it was done so simply. The king, finding himself at the end of his rope, with no politicians willing or able to fight his battle and help him back to his own idea of normality, and no general willing or able to save him from humiliation by implanting a new dictatorship, gallantly did, and with that dark smile of his, a logical thing.

His Surrender Unconditional.

He called his old servitor, Don Guerra, who had forsaken him, to hear his resolution to throw himself on the mercy of his people and charge him, "the rock of incorruptible Spanish politics," with handling the operation. His surrender was as unconditional as it was debonaire. It may have been slightly precipitated by the knowledge that 300,000 workers, with the help of an undertermined number of the soldiery, were ready to go to any end to drive him out with blood and turmoil.

And that was scheduled for tomorrow—leaving him but very little time. Once he saw he was beaten, he lost no time in making a gesture rarely equaled in the history of the Bourbon family. Asking nobody's advice, he called the chieftain of that astonishing abstentionist movement which has blocked his plans to seek shelter under the constitution he himself tore down.

Arch Enemies Embrace.

Arch enemy of the king in truth is this statesman, but as man to man they embraced again when they met this morning and again when they

GANGSTERS RIDE ON CITY HALL'S VOTE, WARNING

Judge Appeals for Cleanup at Polls.

BY PARKE BROWN.

"Capone wins!"

That's the way, Judge Lyle said last night, that the newspapers of the United States and Europe will headline the result if Mayor Thompson should be renominated at the Republican primary next Tuesday.

Judge Lyle began his direct attack on "Scarface Al" at his noon meeting in the Garrick theater, where he displayed copies of official documents tracing the history of the gang leader in Chicago from the time that he was a keeper of a brothel, the "Four Deuces," in the days of the old red light district.

He continued his recital in his evening meetings, charging that the strongest political force behind Thompson is Capone and asserting that Thompson is receiving financial backing to the extent of $150,000 from that source in this campaign. He said the "ante" had been raised since four years ago when Capone chipped in $50,000 in the primary campaign alone, to say nothing of the election campaign.

Stories Amaze World.

Judge Lyle told his auditors that he had seen newspapers from all over this country and from nearly every country in Europe headlining Capone ever since he rose to the height of his power in Chicago following the election of Thompson four years ago. He said that the gang history of Chicago had amazed the world.

"The Associated Press and other national and international news services," Lyle said, "have carried to every city the stories of Chicago's gangland fights and murders.

"The people of the world have read of the St. Valentine's day massacre when seven gangsters were slaughtered in a garage. Worse than that, they have read of the slaying of honest citizens who chanced to be in the line of fire in gang battles.

A Record of Extortion.

"They have read of the racketeering and extortion of the Guziks, the Morans, the Capones, Maddox, and the rest and of how they have open headquarters and clearing houses in some of our hotels.

"They have read of how Two Finger Jack White and Red Barker, with shotguns and revolvers, have taken possession of union headquarters, locking up the honest officials who spent their lives building up organizations that had the respect of employers and employés alike.

"They have read how Fur Sammons with a 30 year criminal record including 14 charges of robbery, three charges of blackmail, two charges of assault to kill, two charges of murder, once was sentenced to be hanged and escaped through the use of political influence. He is now serving thirty years for murder as a result of warrants I issued in the Felony court.

Mayor Says He Is Helpless.

"The whole world has read that we have 93 judges and 6,000 policemen and spend $20,000,000 a year to maintain our law enforcement machinery and also that the mayor of our wonderful city says over his own signature that he is helpless to check crime under the present conditions.

"Four years ago it was not generally known that Capone was behind the Thompson scenes. Now his face can be seen plainly peering from the wings, looking over the crowd to see whether his star performer is getting away with it. What are you going to do about it?

"You recall that when in the past the Capone forces have gained control of some of our villages, our newspapers spoke of it not as a victory for some political candidate for office but as a victory for Capone. That's what the press of the world will say if Thompson, who says nothing can be done to stop Capone, wins next week."

Recalls Capone's Record.

He told his audience at noon of the records against Capone.

"There is his indictment on Jan. 27, 1927, in two cases. There is his indictment on April 14, 1921, and his plea of guilty. There is the story of his arrest in September, 1923, charged with the killing of Jerry O'Connor, George Butcher, George Megan; the story of the murder of Joseph How-

TO BE OR NOT TO BE? THAT IS THE QUESTION

FORCED TO KISS HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW, HE CHARGES, SUING WIFE

In a crossbill for divorce filed yesterday in the Circuit court, Claude Erickson, 7133 South Harvard avenue, a chemist, asks for a separation from his wife, charging that she forced him to kiss his mother-in-law. The wife, Mrs. Lilliam B. Erickson, 21 years old, 5378 South Hoyne avenue, sued for divorce last October, alleging desertion.

Erickson's bill says that whenever he did kiss his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Bohi, it caused him "great mental anguish and brought upon a nervous breakdown." Erickson further alleges that his wife told him she loved her parents' Spitz dog better than him. He charges that she once struck him in the jaw with such force that his false teeth slipped down his throat, "almost choking me." The couple were married on June 29, 1929, and separated the following year.

N. Y. LEGISLATURE ASKS CONVENTION FOR DRY REPEAL

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The assembly tonight passed a bill petitioning for the calling of a national constitutional convention to be limited in scope to consideration of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The vote was 85 to 62. Sixteen Republicans voted with Democrats in favor of the measure.

Reply to Ohio Invitation.

Columbus, O., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Three letters were received tonight by State Senator L. L. Marshall [Rep.] of Cleveland in answer to his invitations to prominent leaders to appear next Wednesday before the Ohio senate judiciary committee on his resolution for a national constitutional convention.

United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa asserted that he was "opposed to the 'holding a convention' idea."

Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the Wickersham committee on law enforcement and author of the committee's minority report, said he did not desire to appear before any legislative committee on the subject of prohibition.

Joseph R. Nutt, Cleveland, treasurer of the Republican national committee, favors a constitutional convention, he told Senator Marshall.

Use Submarines to Fight Fire in Torpedo Factory

TOULON, France, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Submarines were used as fire fighters last night and today to combat a blaze in the torpedo factory of the Toulon arsenal. More than half submerged, four submarines were able to approach the blaze closely and use their hose effectively.

Witness Balks at Flood Quiz; Reveal Checks

The refusal of a Congress hotel official to testify concerning the payment of expenses of Mayor Thompson's so-called "waterway congress" at the hotel last month yesterday halted a hearing of charges before a master in chancery that Thompson improperly used funds contributed in 1927 by school children and others for the relief of starving victims of the Mississipi flood.

Before the hearing was thus abruptly terminated, however, Carl Granzow, assistant auditor of the Foreman State National bank, produced ledger sheets showing that in December, 1930, and January, 1931, three years after the fund was gathered for the flood sufferers, some $2,000 had been paid out of the fund for various purposes. Four canceled checks were shown which accounted for the disposal of a part of this $3,000.

Two Checks Produced.

Two of the checks had been cashed by Emil J. Wentzlaff, aid to Thompson, after they had been signed by Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works and countersigned by Thompson. One check for $102.75, dated Jan. 21 was cashed at the Hotel Sherman with Wentzlaff's notation, "received cash." The second check for $340, dated Jan. 7, was notated: "Paid to Wentzlaff for postage."

A third check for $250 was made out to James E. Reed, who was unidentified. It was dated Jan. 21. And the fourth check showed a payment of $239.79 to the Congress Hotel company. It was indorsed by Grover D. Edwards, secretary and treasurer of the hotel. Edwards was called as a witness.

"For what purpose was this check paid to the Congress hotel?" he was

BULLS AGAIN CONTROL STOCK MARKET AND PRICES SHOW ADVANCE

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The rejuvehated bull faction took control of the stock market today and prices throughout the list moved ahead on a resumption of the advance which started a week ago with a spectacular rout of the bears.

Gains of $4 to $19 a share were rolled up by a few fast moving issues, such as Auburn Auto, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, and Case Threshing Machine, and many new high prices for the year were recorded, notably among the steels, amusement shares, and motors.

United States Steel moved up more than 2 points, near its recent top around 148, while gains of 2 or 3 points were recorded by Vanadium, Republic, and American Rolling Mill. There has been talk recently in Wall street of another advance scheduled in prices of steel products.

Resumption of the advance at the start of the new week buoyed sentiment in Wall street and strengthened the belief that sponsors of the rise had something substantial in the way of unseen improvement in the business situation to promote their cause.

QUEEN MARIE ILL OF SMALLPOX, SAY COURT DOCTORS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Feb. 17.—The disease from which Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia has been suffering here for the last week, which was first announced as grippe and then measles, is now reported in court circles to be a light case of smallpox, complicated by bronchitis. Her temperature and pulse are satisfactory, so her doctors have no special anxiety. Queen Helen, mother of Crown Prince Michael, is recovering from grippe, which confined her to bed for more than a week.

Bandit Boards Train, Robs Passengers and Escapes

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A bandit who boarded the Crescent Limited at Newnan, Ga., tonight robbed seven passengers of $400 and escaped after an exchange of shots with the train's flagman. The bandit entered the observation car from the front door with his revolver, passengers said on their arrival here. The bandit, with a revolver in each hand, commanded the passengers to put up their hands and forced a Negro porter to collect money from them.

Gunman Dines, Then Holds Up Loop Cafeteria

A tall, well dressed man dined in a Harmony cafeteria at 214 South State street last evening and after he had finished his meal walked to the cashier's cage, where he threatened the cashier and the candy seller with a pistol and took between $500 and $800 from the cash drawer.

"If you girls are quiet there'll be nothing to it, but if you yell I'll have to shoot," the robber warned Miss Clara Moore, 4051 North Pallina street, the cashier, and Miss Hilda Dellerer, 3436 North Paulina street, the candy seller.

Diners Unaware of Holdup.

The gunman then walked behind the candy counter to reach the cash drawer. As he did so he knocked a drinking glass to the floor, breaking it. Several diners turned at the sound of the crashing glass and then went on eating, unaware that a robbery was in progress. When he had looted the cash drawer the gunman walked out calmly.

After he was out of sight, Miss Moore shouted that she had been robbed, but the robber had disappeared in the crowds in the street before he could be pursued. This was the second time in a few months that Miss Moore has been robbed. On Oct. 3, last year, she was held up in the cafeterio and forced to give up $861.

Bandits Hold Up Stores.

More than $700 was taken by bandits yesterday in three daylight robberies on the south side. On the north side two women and a boy were locked in an ice box by robbers, and they remained there fifty minutes.

The first robbery was at the Hartman furniture store at 5853 South Halsted street. One man walked to the cashier's cage as though to pay a bill. Another suddenly appeared at the door with a revolver and then the first one drew a gun and ordered Miss Mary Connellan, 5633 South Halsted street, the bookkeeper, to open the safe. Edward Beebe, 5631 North Artesian avenue, the manager, and Charles Hibbard, credit manager, were forced to stand with their hands in the air while the robbers took $320.

Pair Hold Up Drug Store.

Another robber pair obtained $350 from a Walgreen drug store at 7858 Essex avenue when they forced Travis Shankle, 4134 Berkeley avenue, the manager, to hand over the contents of the safe. At a filling station at 2825 West 63d street, bandits obtained $65 from William Krebb, 6222 South Francisco avenue, the attendant.

Three Locked in Ice Box.

Two gunmen held up the People's Flower Shop, 4607 Broadway, taking $107 from the cash register. Then they locked Mrs. Magaret Gibbons, a clerk, Vincent Munson, an errand boy, and a woman customer whose name was not obtained, in the ice box. No provision was made for their release, and it was nearly an hour before they were liberated by Peter Vaselogeorge, the proprietor, who had been away.

GERMANY BARS BEER STEINS; TOO MANY BATTLES

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Police today took steps to remove beer steins from the list of political weapons.

An order made public today provides that in the future beer may be served at political meetings only in paper cups. The order resulted from frequent stein fights, during which a number of persons were injured.

The order further provides that chairs and tables must be firmly screwed to the floors and no bottles be brought into the meeting halls.

HOUSE DESERTS HOOVER TO PASS BILL, 363 TO 39

Filibusters Loom

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—New filibuster threats to force an extra session were heard in the senate today as advocates of half a dozen proposals advanced their causes in the final two weeks campaign of this session.

The administration's $90,000,000 naval construction bill was swept aside when senate leaders determined to concentrate on the stack of appropriation bills, which must be passed before the March 4 adjournment.

As it moved ahead on one of these, Senator Black [Dem., Ala.] suggested a filibuster to force action by the senate and house conferees on Muscle Shoals. Conferees on this legislation meet tomorrow.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—By a vote of 363 to 39 the house of representatives today passed the bill increasing maximum loans on bonus certificates held by world war veterans from 22½ to 50 per cent of their face value. It was the most decisive rebuff for the Hoover administration thus far administered in the lower branch of congress, which has ordinarily stood by the President when the senate has been at odds with him.

The vote was so overwhelming as to cause sponsors of the bill to claim that it would be passed without question over President Hoover's veto. There were reports that the President might sign the bill because of its formidable backing, but this was doubted by many of his friends in view of the sweeping nature of the opposition expressed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Expect Early Passage in Senate.

The bill now goes to the senate, where arrangements are being made to secure prompt action as a means of preventing a "pocket veto" in the closing days of the session. The senate finance committee will hold a hearing on the bill on Wednesday with Secretary Mellon as a witness.

While administration forces may try to keep the bill in committee for a few days, its supporters will seek to get it to the floor of the senate by Thursday or Friday and to obtain its passage by Friday or Saturday. The disposition is to accept the house bill, except, possibly, as to the interest rate on loans, which may be reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent.

As a means of insuring quick action in the senate, Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] is blocking consideration of all appropriation conference reports until the bonus bill is taken up. He held up the treasury and post office appropriation conference report today. If the bill is not passed early enough in the senate to prevent the possibility of a "pocket veto," Senator Couzens said he would hold up appropriation bills until President Hoover either signs or returns it to congress with a veto message.

Passes Other Vets' Bills.

The house followed up its passage of the bonus loan bill by passing without roll calls a bill authorizing the expenditure of $12,500,000 for construction of veterans' hospitals and a bill authorizing the expenditure of $2,850,000 for additional facilities at national soldiers' homes. The hospital bill is designed to furnish about 3,300 additional beds.

Earlier in the day, the house veterans' committee reported favorably a bill for pensions for widows and children of deceased world war veterans. The bill is estimated to cost $18,000,000 the first year and $131,000,000 over a period of five years. The administration has sought to prevent action on this legislation at the present session.

Today's consideration of the legislation in the house attracted the largest attendance of members and the largest gallery crowds of the session. The house floor was filled with virtually a full membership, a rare occurrence, throughout the debate, which lasted for only 40 minutes under the restrictions affecting consideration under a suspension of the rules. On one occasion applause in the galleries, following an attack upon Secretary Mellon by Representative James A. Frear [Rep., Wis.], drew a rebuke from Speaker Longworth, who warned that there must be no demonstrations of approval or disapproval.

The debate was marked by sharp exchanges. The Republican side of the house showed a complete demoralization with Representative John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.], majority leader, and Representative W. C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the ways and means committee, heretofore members of the group in control of the house, on the defeated side. Most of the Republicans lined up against the administration, following the lead of Speaker Longworth, who was one of the most active in bringing about an agreement in the ways and means committee upon the bill as reported.

All Opposition by Republicans.

The 39 votes against the bill were all cast by Republicans. Of the 39, all but 10 were from eastern states. Those from central states voting against the bill were Representatives Carl R. Chindblom, Morton D. Hull, and E. W. Sproul [Rep., Ill.], Will R. Wood, and Richard N. Elliott [Rep., Ind.], and C. W. Ramseyer [Rep., Ia.].

Among those voting against the bill were two women members, Mrs. Ruth Pratt [Rep., N. Y.] and Mrs. Edith N. Rogers [Rep., Mass.].

Mrs. Rogers, although opposing this measure, was in charge of the hospital bill when it was passed later in the afternoon.

Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.] guided the bonus loan bill through the house. Representative Hawley had charge of the opposition.

Speakers for the bill included, besides Representative Bacharach and Representative Frear, Representatives Hamilton Fish, F. H. La Guardia, and Frank Crowther [Rep., N. Y.], Robert G. Simmons [Rep., Neb.], J. E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], and John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], the minority leader.

Speaking against were Representatives Hawley, Chindblom, A. T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.], and Franklin Fort [Rep., N. J.].

Calls Method Sound Financially.

Representative Bacharach said that the proposal for increased loans on bonus certificates will, in the judgment of some outstanding financiers and business men, put the least possible strain upon the finances of the country.

"Under the circumstances I am at a loss to understand why any one should be opposed to this legislation," said Mr. Bacharach. "As a matter of fact, we do not do full justice to the veterans in this measure, for, if the veterans had similar policies for the same length of time with any of the old line insurance companies, they would, at this time, borrow 53 per cent of the face value of the policy, while this measure only permits them to borrow 50 per cent."

Mr. Bacharach said that the suggestion of treasury officials that the increased loans should be granted only to veterans in need would mean in effect a dole for unemployed veterans.

"Once congress takes such a step for the unemployed veterans," said Mr. Bacharach, "it would only be a matter of time—should unemployment remain general throughout the country—when we would be forced to accept a general dole system to care for the unemployed."

Doubts Treasury Estimate.

Mr. Bacharach said that, in his opinion, the cost of the legislation would not be more than 350 million dollars, instead of 700 millions, the estimate based on loans to 60 per cent, or 2,000,000 of the 3,400,000 veterans holding bonus certificates.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the cost of this legislation can be financed without a bond issue," said Mr. Bacharach.

Representative Frear brought applause from the galleries when he asserted that "the secretary of the treasury never can understand the condition of the ex-service men."

Representative Fish described the bill as "the soundest, sanest piece of legislation affecting the interests of the veterans that has come before the house in the last ten years."

Representative Garner said that the four Republican members of the ways and means committee who voted against the bill originally were for it, but switched when "they heard their master's voice."

Chindblom Opposes Bill.

Representative Chindblom, in opposing the bill, brought out the fact that if a veteran holding a $1,000 bonus certificate borrows 50 per cent, the 4½ per cent compound interest will eat up all but $74 of the remaining value during the 14 years before the certificate matures.

"The whole purpose of the adjusted compensation system," he said, "thus will be destroyed."

Representative Hawley said the government already is spending 866 million dollars annually for veterans. He asserted that the loan scheme will not help the business situation.

"The loans proposed will probably have a temporary stimulating effect on business, afford some temporary relief, and that effect will vanish, unless there is otherwise a general economic recovery, so that the final effect will be serious and disappointing," said Mr. Hawley.

Discusses Government Finances.

"The discussion has proceeded on the supposition that securities would have to be offered only to the amount required by the loans. This is only a part of the picture. There are outstanding some three billion dollars of short term securities. There will be a deficit at the end of this fiscal year of some 500 million dollars.

"The outlook for the next fiscal year is not assuring. In order to reduce the short term paper to manageable proportions the treasury will need to offer in the next few months, in round numbers, one billion dollars of long term securities to effect a reduction of short term securities. If we add to this 740 million dollars to provide for the loans, if only 60 per cent avail themselves of them, this will create a situation unanticipated by the treasury and by the industries of the country, exceedingly serious in character, imperiling our economic recovery, and the extension of the present depression would have adverse results no one can now forecast. A material increase in taxation is in the offing."

Treasury I. O. U. Behind Bonds.

The fund of 700 millions which the veterans' bureau has on hand is in the form of an I. O. U. from the treasury and in order to convert it into cash it would be necessary to sell government securities to the public, treasury officials say.

Congress has appropriated $112,000,000 annually toward the redemption of the veterans' certificates. However, since the veterans' bureau, if it had received these funds in the form of cash, would have had to invest them in government securities, the treasury has simply given the veterans' bureau a certificate of indebtedness carrying 4 per cent interest and has employed the appropriation to reduce outstanding indebtedness.

The effect of this procedure, it is said, is that the veterans' bureau, in order to realize upon its holdings of treasury certificates of indebtedness, will have to sell them to the public, just as it would have had to sell any other form of government securities in which it had placed its funds.

Representative Fort said that the bill "is the prelude and preface to pension legislation."

Representative Treadway was jeered by the Democrats when he referred to Secretary Mellon as "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton."

The vote was quite similar to that when the house, on March 18, 1924, passed the original soldiers' bonus bill. The vote at that time was 355 to 54. Later, on May 17, 1924, the house passed the bill over the veto of President Coolidge, by a vote of 313 to 78.

Legion Head Denies High Cost.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, in a statement today regarding legislation for the payment of adjusted service certificates, said the proposal to permit the veteran to borrow 50 per cent of the value of his certificate would cost the government nothing.

"The press states that a bill has been prepared which will permit the veteran to borrow 50 per cent of the value of his adjusted compensation, but objections have been raised because such legislation would impair the nation's finances," said the statement.

"It is rather difficult to understand these objections, and I feel the nation should be thoroughly informed concerning this legislation.

Fund Set Aside.

"There is now 800 million dollars which has been set aside in a reserve fund for the payment of adjusted compensation certificates, more than the treasury department estimated will be required for loans under the bill. This reserve fund belongs to the veterans and the treasury department acts solely as trustee for the fund. The proposed legislation provides for loans at 4½ per cent, although the veteran is allowed only 4 per cent on this fund and the government can borrow money at less than one-half the interest the bill proposes to charge the veteran. This plan costs the government nothing. Why the objection? We will be most grateful for any assistance congress may see fit to grant the veterans in need, but we want the American people to know the actual facts."

HOW TO GET BONUS CASH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The world war veterans' loan bonus bill, as passed by the house today, applies to all holders of adjusted compensation certificates voted to the former service men in 1924 in place of a cash bonus sought at that time.

The bill provides simply that the loan value of these certificates, which are to be paid in full to the veterans in 1945, shall be increased from the present value of 22½ per cent of their face value to a basis of 50 per cent, at 4½ per cent interest compounded annually.

Provision is also made for veterans who are now paying more than 4½ per cent interest on loans already made, to refinance their loans at the lower rate.

If the bill becomes law, application for a new loan under it should be made to the regional manager of the veterans' bureau in the area where the veteran resides, and application for extending or refinancing an existing loan should be made to the regional manager where the original loan was negotiated.

Regional managers are located in the District of Columbia and in each of the states except Delaware. There are two each in New York, at New York City and Buffalo, and in Ohio, Texas, Pennsylvania, and California. Applications from Delaware should be made to the regional manager in Philadelphia.

The veterans' bureau has estimated that it would take about six months to set the necessary new loan machinery in motion. Full details of the procedure remain to be worked out, but will be set forth on forms which it is planned to mail to each applicant in the event the extension is granted.

ALBERT FORCES FIRE NEW BLAST AT THOMPSONISM

Prof. Merriam Speaks in Behalf of Alderman.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert and his campaign supporters, including State's Attorney Swanson, hammered the Thompson city hall crowd with redoubled energy yesterday before audiences at the Adelphi theater at noon and at four evening meetings on the south and southwest sides.

The alderman wound up his noon speech with the statement that Thompson, if defeated for the mayoral nomination, plans to skip out of Chicago on a yacht trip.

"He says I'm not interested in Chicago's progress," Albert declared. "I'm a better Chicagoan than he is. I have lived here all my life and I'm going to stay here. This yachtman says he'll run away if you don't elect him. Well, on Feb. 24 he can take his gang and his jackasses, put them on his yacht, and the further they sail the better. He can sail to England, get on his donkey, ride right up to Buckingham palace, and when King George opens the door he can smack him on the snoot."

Ridicules Thompson Pamphlet.

Albert ridiculed a Thompson rotogravure publicity pamphlet, bringing laughs from his crowds by pointing out pictures of Buckingham fountain, the Wrigley building and other structures the pamphlet indicates Thompson built.

"Thompson never built anything but a criminal oligarchy and a lot of private fortunes," he added.

The state's attorney repeated his previous assertions that Albert is an honest and competent candidate who deserves the nomination. He referred to Thompson and Lyle as "two mountebanks" who are too busy clowning to discuss the issues of the campaign. He declared that Albert's election would be a long step toward helping his office cope with the crime problem.

Prof. Merriam Aids Albert.

Prof. Charles E. Merriam, making his first appearance in behalf of Albert, suggested that if Thompson stays in office there should be two mayors, one the working mayor and the other the "lord mayor" to entertain the populace with circuses, the latter being Thompson.

"After twelve years of him the people of Chicago know whether they want any more of Thompson or not," said Prof. Merriam. "I don't think they do. They are going to put in Albert."

A third speaker at the Albert meetings was Mrs. Charles H. Parkes, co-chairman of the woman's division of the Albert organization. James A. Kearns, Deneen candidate for city treasurer, also appeared, stressing his views on economy and budgetary control of municipal finances.

The Albert headquarters during the day announced that the former Barrett ward organization in the 13th ward, headed by Frank G. Zelezinski and William Roessler, has joined the Albert forces.

Schmidt Continues Campaign.

George K. Schmidt, "nonfactional" candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, yesterday continued his handshaking campaign. He issued a statement deploring the tendency on the part of some Republican voters to stay away from the polls at the primary.

"Any Republican voter who refrains from casting a ballot next Tuesday is not doing his bit in the job of cleaning up his town, ending reckless spending and irresponsibility in the city hall, and taking the first step toward reduced taxes and stimulation of the building industry, which would help every other line of business," the Schmidt statement said.

INVESTIGATE SHOOTING OF BOY.

Maxwell street police last night were investigating the wounding of John Duray, 17 years old, 924 West 18th place, who was shot in the left leg in front of 977 West 19th street. Duray said that an unidentified man, apparently intoxicated, shot him without provocation.

JURY DIGS INTO THOMPSON RULE OF POLICE FORCE

Will Quiz Civil Service Officials Today.

Grand jury investigation into the methods of the Thompson administration in alleged manipulation of the civil service laws to punish policemen thought to be unfriendly to the city hall was rumored last night. Subpoenas were issued yesterday for the entire civil service commission, its former president, Thomas J. Houston, and Capt. Michael Hughes, who was named police commissioner by Thompson when reelected four years ago.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller refused to be interviewed regarding the possible scope of the investigation, but it was admitted by those connected with the jury that the administration is to be called on to explain the firing of Capt. Dennis J. Carroll and Daniel Murphy soon after Thompson took office. At that time it was announced that the captains were suspended because it was thought they were friendly to the Dever mayoral aspirations rather than those of Thompson.

Both Before Grand Jury.

Murphy, now a practicing attorney, and Carroll, a deputy coroner, spent several hours before the jury yesterday afternoon.

It was reported that both former captains told the jurors that they could not account for their dismissal from the department except on the grounds of politics. Murphy won reinstatement after a court fight and then refused to take back his position. Murphy at the time he was ousted was in charge of the Chicago avenue district.

J. A. Farmer, foreman of the jury, and his associates are reported to have decided in a short executive session that they would dig to the bottom of the Murphy and Carroll cases. They intend to start out by asking Houston, who was president of the Thompson civil service commission, for an explanation. The other commissioners, Archibald Carey, colored member, who is now under indictment for graft conspiracy, and Edward Denemark, will also be quizzed on the subject. Carlos Ames, now president of the commission, will probably be asked to produce any records which might be available. He was not involved in the Carroll and Murphy cases.

Capt. Hughes will be asked by the jurors, it is reported, whether he acted on his own initiative or on orders from some one else. He as commissioner of police preferred the charges against Carroll and Murphy.

The officials connected with the inquiry refused to say at this time whether there is a possibility of Thompson himself being called before the jury for an explanation. It was said by some that this depends on the testimony of the witnesses to be called today.

David E. Cohn, cigar store owner at 5603 South Halsted street, was expected to give the jury its first direct evidence of police corruption. He, however, refused to testify and announced that he was "standing on his constitutional rights." He had previously told Assistant State's Attorneys Mueller and Charles Lounsbury that he paid $25 per week to two policemen to protect his handbook, they said.

Taken to Jail for Night.

"Cohn refused to talk and said that he was 'standing on his constitutional rights,'" came the announcement from the jury room as Cohn was led away to a police station by detectives. "We have decided to let him sit on his rights in jail over night and see if he will change his mind."

It was announced that if Cohn does not change his attitude he will be taken before Chief Justice McGoorty for possible contempt action.

A second bookmaker who had previously confessed to the prosecutors that he paid $150 a month to police for protection failed to appear before the jury yesterday. His identity was kept secret while detectives searched for him. Still another bookmaker, supposedly in the East Chicago avenue district, is slated for appearance today.

Arrangements were also made yesterday for the jury to have the Jack Zuta records as found in hidden safety deposit boxes by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Rathbun and James McShane and Chief Investigator Pat Roche. Prosecutor Mueller was told by his associates that the jury is welcome to these records.

David Stansbury, who was a special assistant state's attorney under Frank Loesch, was also called before the jury yesterday to give any suggestions he might have to aid in the inquiry.

CHARGES CAPONE PUT UP $260,000 TO AID THOMPSON

Loesch Avers Bargain for Gangdom "Rights."

How much did Scarface Al Capone contribute to Mayor Thompson's campaign fund four years ago?

The sum contributed in the primary was $50,000, according to Judge John H. Lyle, who is combating the Thompson-Capone forces in the present campaign. But Frank J. Loesch of the national and Chicago crime commissions said yesterday that Capone contributed a total of $260,000 in the primary and election campaigns to insure the election of Thompson.

The deal, according to Mr. Loesch and the records of this investigation, was that Capone should have the unmolested right to run houses of prostitution and gambling houses, to operate slot machines, and control the sale of beer and booze in all the territory of the city south of Madison street."

Mayoralty Practically Purchased.

Mr. Loesch began his investigation as a special assistant attorney general and continued it as first assistant state's attorney and during the year he was so engaged he said he heard considerable about Capone's relations with Thompson. The mayoralty was practically purchased at that time with money taken from prostitutes and with booze and slot machine profits, the Loesch archives allege.

"Homer Galpin was then head of the Thompson organization and he fled from Chicago and remained away more than eighteen months to avoid being questioned before the grand jury," said Mr. Loesch yesterday in a message from Washington. "He is still away, fearful of being questioned about the money accepted by the Thompson machine. We wanted to know how much of Capone's money was given by Thompson and Galpin to Ben Morris Eller of the Bloody Twentieth ward. Galpin is still away, not daring to return."

Staff Recalls Alleged Deal.

The history of the Capone-Thompson deal, as recalled by the Loesch staff, was as follows:

"State's Attorney Crowe and Sheriff Crowe had control of the county, outside Chicago, and Capone's field of operations was limited to that territory while Dever was mayor. Capone had brothels, slot machines and liquor rights. A huge amount of money was needed to defeat Dever, who was honestly trying to stop crime and prevent gang rule.

"'Money was ladled out to Thompson workers from a bathtub in the Hotel Sherman, filled with packages of $5 bills,' committeemen declared.

"Thompson was elected and immediately Capone took over the south side, with all privileges. His man Hoodl opened a gambling joint on Clark street, south of Madison street. Crowe was still state's attorney. Capone took over beer territories from the Saltis and O'Donnell gangs. The slot machine racket later involved the indictment of six police captains. Capone got more than the $260,000 back.

Fights to Retain Crowe.

"Then Crowe was a candidate for reelection as state's attorney, and Thompson was anxious to keep him in office, saying publicly, 'Another state's attorney might indict me.' Thompson wanted to reelect his faithful ward committeemen, including Hoodl. On primary day Octavius Granady, only opponent of Eller, was killed.

"The public was aroused and the Loesch investigating staff was given authority to proceed. The Thompson officials were swept out of office, including Crowe, but the power of Thompsonism remained and Capone flourished until recently, when Loesch and Lyle joined forces to wage war on him."

The Loesch reports show that Capone, in the second year of Thompson's present administration, started encroaching on territories north of Madison street and the Valentine day massacre resulted. So powerful was Capone that police captains who would not grant him every concession were banished, according to investigators for Loesch.

DRY RAIDERS NAB DRUGGIST.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided two drug stores and two saloons. John D. Levitan was arrested in his drug store at 1938 West Chicago avenue, and Floyd Byers, the other druggist, at 3158 West Van Buren street. The saloonkeepers were Philip Krause, 3148 West North avenue, and John Kreiner, 1300 North Halsted street.

GANGDOM IS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Frank J. Loesch charges that the Capone gang contributed slush funds totaling $260,000 to elect Thompson mayor in his last campaign. Judge Lyle says Capone has put up $150,000 in this campaign.

CAPONE VICTOR IF CITY HALL WINS, LYLE SAYS

Tells of Gangland's $150,000 Slush.

ard, 2300 South Wabash avenue, on May 8, 1923.

"He left Chicago because of the shooting of Samoots Amatuna. There also are the stories of how he was indicted for conspiracy to steal votes and how that case was fixed. There is the story of graft paid to Cicero officials. There is the story of his indictment by a federal grand jury for conspiracy and his association with Frank Rio, 'Mops' Volpe, John Scalise, and other killers.

"You all know of his connection with two notorious dives, the Subway and the Ship; his organization of a scheme with Jack Zuta whereby gangsters demanded 25 per cent of the receipts from all joints for 'protecting' them.

"Before I get through this campaign I will tell how Capone, with the aid of the present administration, planned to seize the city bureau of streets and by creating a new department to control all the plumbing done in Chicago—two raids that would have given him control of 2,000 jobs to use in his political schemes and an annual profit running into millions of dollars."

Tells of Confidence.

Judge Lyle said that his confidence of victory is increasing steadily.

"I expect to be nominated next Tuesday," he said, "and I expect to be elected in April. The people are showing more and more they want me to go ahead with the job that I started with almost no power comparatively and are willing to give me an opportunity to show what can be done when one has real power with which to clean up the city.

"Last November they showed that was their attitude when, in spite of a Democratic landslide, I ran far ahead of any other candidate for the Municipal bench and was overwhelmingly reelected. I believe that the voters are awake now to the fact that in the crisis next week it will be the corrupt political gangsters on one side and the honest, law-abiding citizens on the other.

"As mayor I shall appoint at once a chief of police whose orders to the 6,000 policemen will be: 'If you want to hold your jobs go out and get the gangsters or drive them out of the city. They have shown no consideration for the constitutional rights of our people, so you needn't hold back on account of trivial technicalities.'

"One of the things I plant to do is to call in the service men on the force and say: 'Boys, you did valiant service abroad. I commission you to go out after this list of public enemies and their skulking assassins. Bring them in. Those that bring in an ace or a prima donna of gangland are likely to get handsome promotions.'

"How long do you think the gangsters would remain in Chicago? Why, they'll leave overnight.

"Citizens of Chicago, this fight is not merely a political controversy. Within the last few days it has concentrated and crystallized into the one issue—namely: whether gangsters and their political allies shall continue in power or whether these gangster organizations will end.

"It is not a fight between two persons, Thompson and myself. It is a fight between the law-abiding, home-loving people of Chicago and the Druggans, the Bugs Morans, and the Capones. Not one of the gangsters is with me in my campaign. I have followed the policy of 'treating 'em rough' at every opportunity and every one of them is with my big opponent.

"Why, one of the Guziks stood the other noon in front of a theater where I was speaking and said it was a case of do or die with them and that they were going to pour out their money in this campaign. But money alone cannot win. The people are aroused."

A Roorback Is Squelched.

A whisper from Thompson headquarters in the Hotel Sherman that reached Lyle headquarters in the Hotel La Salle was that a last minute roorback circular was being prepared against the judge. Because his boyhood home was in the south—in Tennessee—the Thompsonites, it was said, intended to flood the Negro sections with circulars picturing Negro lynchings.

"As a matter of fact," said County Chairman Snow, "that section of Tennessee was as loyal to the Union as any state in the country. It always has been Republican. It sent into the Union army a greater percentage of volunteers than did the large cities of the north. That action was against slavery. And there never have been any lynchings there."

Hoover Pardons Dry Law Offender with Good Record

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—David T. McElliott, Great Falls, Mont., police lieutenant, convicted of violation of the prohibition law, has been granted a full pardon by President Hoover, effective at once, granted on the ground that McElliott was convicted for indirectly violating the law after having served as a police officer with a good record for twenty years.

HUSBAND FIGHTS WIFE'S FRIEND ON PASSENGER TRAIN

Two men and a woman were arrested as the result of a fist fight which occurred on a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific passenger train as it entered Chicago yesterday. They are John G. Velie, 52 years old, 1650 Roscoe street, said to be wealthy, and Charles Chappell, 29 years old, and his wife, Dorothy, 25, an artist.

As the train pulled into the Union station a conductor jumped off and told Policeman Martin J. McCabe that a passenger had been seriously injured in a fight. McCabe investigated and found Chappell bleeding from several cuts about his face. Chappell accused Velie and the three were taken to the Des Plaines street police station.

Chappell said that he had become suspicious of his wife and when he learned that she was taking a train with Velie from Milwaukee he decided to go along. Seeing his wife pass through the train, he said, he followed her to her seat, where he saw Velie sitting. Then the two men fought in the aisle. Mrs. Chappell said that she planned to marry Velie after divorcing her husband.

The three were released on bond and will be arraigned in the Des Plaines street court today.

AL CAPONE MAY FACE U. S. COURT ON FEBRUARY 25

Al Capone must appear in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court on Feb. 25 for trial on a contempt charge, provided his motion to quash the criminal information is overruled next Thursday.

Judge Wilkerson set Thursday for arguments on the motion to quash yesterday. During the discussion, Capone's attorneys, William F. Waugh and Benjamin P. Epstein, pronounced the name differently. Judge Wilkerson asked which was correct, and Attorney Waugh declared the name was pronounced with the "e" silent.

Capone is charged with pretending illness in Florida to evade appearing before a federal grand jury investigating booze conditions in Chicago Heights.

Cement Industry Inquiry Is Ordered by Senate

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The senate today ordered a federal trade commission investigation of the cement industry to determine if it is operating in violation of the anti trust laws.

CERMAK URGES UNITED EFFORT TO OUST G. O. P.

Reviews Public Service in Radio Address.

Anton J. Cermak received a rousing sendoff in his mayoralty campaign yesterday at a luncheon of party chieftains in the Hotel Sherman. Last night the Democratic candidate delivered the first of 12 radio speeches to be broadcast between now and the mayoralty primary one week from today.

Cermak, speaking briefly at the luncheon, urged his followers to leave nothing undone toward getting all the Democrats to vote in their own party primary, and declared that if they all performed their duty "I don't care who the Republicans nominate, we can lick them all."

"We must not make the mistake we did a few years ago," Cermak said, "when we aided a certain Republican candidate in the primary only to have him beat us in the election. Our only task now is to impress upon our voters that if they only go to the polls and stand by their party there is nothing to keep us from rolling up the biggest Democratic vote in the history of the city."

Points to Public Record.

In his opening radio address the Democratic leader reviewed his record in public life as a member of the state legislature, in the city council, as bailiff of the Municipal court, and as president of the county board.

"I believe my record swayed the Democratic managing committee," Cermak said, "in unanimously indorsing me as the party candidate for mayor because the party leaders felt assured that if I gave the city of Chicago the same constructive administration as my record shows in the past, Chicago would soon be purged of its unsavory reputation for crime and the activities of gangsters and racketeers."

While a member of the city council, Mr. Cermak said, he was in a large measure responsible for the legislation that brought about the plans for the $200,000,000 lake front improvement, the details for the $130,000,000 Union station project, and similar improvements.

Cites Accomplishments in County.

"My fight for the consolidation of taxing bodies to reduce taxes, the unionizing of county institutions and highways, the wiping out of county deficits, extension of the forest preserves, public welfare bureau, county hospital and criminal courts, and the new facilities I have been able to install in connection with county charitable institutions are matters of record in the annals of our county," Mr. Cermak said.

Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and chairman of the Democratic managing committee; Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, and William H. Dieterich, congressman at large elect, addressed the luncheon meeting, joining in a "denunciation of Republican misrule."

Mr. Igoe ridiculed the Republican mayoralty campaign as "the silliest, nonsensical and most damaging sort of public sida show" and declared that "the Republicans have sunken so low they are on a level with the animals they are parading in their campaign. They have done enough damage to our city, and now is the time to repudiate them."

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, L. I., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—While passing an apple vender at Park avenue and 34th street in New York City, today, I got a swell idea, which I suppose I will have to turn over to the government, just the same as I do everything else. The sale of apples on street corners is supposed to relieve the unemployment situation. Well, if they sold watermelons instead of apples at the conventional price of five for a quarter, you would have to employ at least four more ladies or gents to help carry them home. RING LARDNER.

SMALL REGIME OFFICIAL TALKS FOR THOMPSON

Dan Hoan Replies to Mayor.

David H. Jackson, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission under former Gov. Small, spoke yesterday at the Thompson noon meeting at the Apollo theater. He delved into the police situation in Chicago and urged Mayor Thompson's renomination without attacking the other entrants in the mayoralty campaign.

Producing a list of 34 bandits whom he said were killed by the police and by citizens during 1930, Jackson said that these men are "permanently out of the way." "As I see it," he said, "even those put under high bonds are walking the streets soon."

Discusses Police Force.

"The police are not 100 per cent perfect," Jackson said, "but neither is any other business run perfectly. As a result of the 18th amendment the police have lined up against them the largest number of crooks ever recruited, who are financed by a vast amount of money."

In an announcement from Thompson headquarters it was indicated that some of the acts of the "jackass show" at the Cort theater have been dropped from the program. Before the announcement came out there were reports that the show was having financial troubles. Thompson, the announcement stated, will speak at the Cort each day after the regular noon meetings at other theaters.

Hoan Replies to Thompson.

An answer to his attack on Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee was received yesterday by Thompson. Thompson had denounced Mayor Hoan for criticizing the crime conditions in Chicago. In reply Mayor Hoan showed that the residence burglary insurance rates in Chicago are more than twice as high as in Milwaukee.

"The relative standing of the two cities [Chicago and Milwaukee] is more clearly shown," Mayor Hoan wrote, "by the fact that residence burglary insurance rates are $34.38 per thousand in Chicago, while only $15.13 in Milwaukee."

MAL DAUGHERTY BANK EXCEEDED LEGAL LOAN LIMIT

Washington Court House, O., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A state examiner's report showing that loans made by the Ohio State bank exceeded the legal limit was submitted by the state in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct institution, here today.

The examiner's report dealt with the bank's condition on March 27, 1930, several weeks before the failure that brought about Daugherty's indictment on charges of misappropriating funds.

Although loans are limited by law to 20 per cent of a bank's surplus and capital stock, Assistant Prosecutor Lewis Schendler said the report showed that the bank, with a capital stock of $200,000, had loaned its officers and directors more than $184,000, including $52,900 to Daugherty. Other figures in the report showed that overdrafts amounted to $6,352 and that the bank was $75,000 short in reserves.

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE; TRIES TO END OWN LIFE

John Mazunatis, 38 years old, a grocer, shot and killed his wife, Anna, 37, in their home at 1933 Canalport avenue late yesterday and then tried to commit suicide. Mrs. Mazunatis was the mother of two children.

According to police, Mazunatis suspected the friendliness of his wife with Frank Stein, 40 years old, a roomer. Yesterday he accused her of infidelity. She seized a butcher knife, Mazunatis told police later, and struck at him. In defense he grabbed a shotgun and fired, killing her instantly. He turned the gun on himself, but the charge missed.

Mazunatis was disarmed by George Battrositis, 48, and Alexander Lucas, 34, roomers, who heard the shooting. They were held for questioning, as was Stein when he returned home from work. Stein admitted to police he had been friendly with the slain woman.

IF EYES ARE CONCERNED

Precision in glasses is comparable to purity in drugs and medicine.

You would not buy drugs or medicines from an unskilled or an unvouched-for pharmacist whose only appeal is price!

Is it not therefore equally hazardous to buy from the unskilled, careless and ofttimes unscrupulous dealer in glasses?

You can no more be the judge of the one than of the other. Imperfect and inaccurate lenses, such as are rejected by us and destroyed, are oftentimes sold by others as "first" quality.

Precision made spectacles are not produced and sold at ridiculously low prices. And any other kind may be expensive at any price.

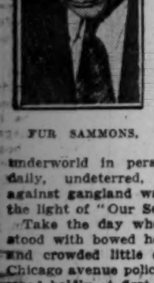
HOW JUDGE LYLE MAKES TOUGHEST GANGSTERS TAME

Goes Outside Formalities of Legal Procedure.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Judge John H. Lyle's record in the felony branch of the municipal court was indorsed by the people when they reelected him last November because he had expressed for them in a dramatic manner their own deep feelings upon the problem of Chicago's "public enemies."



FUR SAMMONS.

In the heart of the average peace-loving citizen reading the paper by his fireside, not at all anxious to face the sleek killers of Chicago's underworld in person, Judge Lyle's daily, undeterred, courageous war against gangland was looked upon in the light of "Our Secret Ambition."

Take the day when Fur Sammons stood with bowed head in the untidy and crowded little courtroom at the Chicago avenue police station. He had stood boldly at first before the judge, but had wilted when the judge put him under a bond of $50,000 for a vagrancy charge.

Taming a Gunman.

Fur Sammons is a rapist, murderer, and gunman, who had been notorious in his defiance of the law. An arrest had meant little in his life.

"Why are you gunmen afraid to look me in the eye?" asked the judge on this day.

"Look up!"

Sammons still hid his features.

"Look up or I'll send you to jail for six months for contempt," was the second command.

The eyes which had looked upon many a victim without mercy in their depths at last were raised to the face of Judge Lyle.

"It's time for men of your stripe to quit Chicago," said the court.

Not a judicial sentence at all, but a thought which echoed in thousands of hearts.

"I've heard that before," sneered Sammons, who has had much experience with judges and police.

An Unjudicial Sentence.

Judge Lyle held his gaze and then said slowly and deliberately, as one delivering a sentence:

"It will be a long time before you quit this territory. You are going to be put behind the bars until you forget how to use a gun."

A prejudiced judge, certainly. There had not even been a trial. His prediction, however, proved true. A few weeks later this machine gun killer was not only found guilty of vagrancy in another court, but was sent back to the penitentiary to serve out a sentence for murder, a sentence which, it was found in still another court, had been shortened illegally by parole.

How different had been Sammons' experience in other police courts, where continuances and disappearing witnesses had worn out more serious charges against him.

His "Judicial Temperament."

It was Judge Lyle's part, through the setting of picturesque bonds, colorful language addressed personally to individual gangsters on every occasion, and his persistent efforts to send them to the rock pile, to set in motion, or accelerate, other law enforcement agencies, and substantial results were obtained.

"Vigorous and independent but lacking in judicial temperament," the Chicago Bar association said of him. And the judge replied:

"If 'judicial temperament' means that I should be lenient with gangsters instead of severe, then I am glad that I am lacking in it. I have refused to mollycoddle criminals with lengthy records."

For weeks before he began the famous public enemy drive, through the issuance of vagrancy warrants on Sept. 17 against the chiefs of gangland, he had been appealing for help from grand juries and from the police.

Calls for Cleanup.

In August he called a conference of north side police captains.

"Go out and arrest every well known criminal character you can find," he told them. Throw them in jail. That will bring a flock of criminal lawyers into court, and if they try to make monkeys out of the court I'll throw them in jail, too.

"The public has an idea that judges are technical. Bring the prisoners before me and they will not be turned out. You have not had the proper support of the judiciary. I will take the responsibility. I will show you that hoodlums can be thrown into cells. I am not afraid of being reversed by the higher courts. Go around to these big hotels where these criminals have been loafing and bring them all in. Get their records. The idea that men like Druggan and Lake should be living under the same roof with decent people is intolerable."

The police dragnet did not yield any big fish as a result of this order, and Judge Lyle is found a few days later releasing half a hundred drunks, floaters, plain vagrants, and small gamblers brought in by the police.

"I have been in this police district 30 days and only one real criminal has been brought in," he said to the arresting police. "He was fined and sent to jail for a year. You have been very busy arresting drunks, park sleepers, and petty gamblers. I would like to see you send your men out for members of the Capone, Moran, and Aiello gangs.

"If I were down on the south side I think I would call in the captain and suggest to him that he surround a certain hotel and scuttle the place from top to bottom and take out Mr. Capone's cohorts and killers who are reputed to occupy an entire floor there with their leader."

Two weeks after this he took the situation more firmly in hand and issued vagrancy warrants for every important gang leader in the city, including Al Capone and George Moran. He made sure that the warrants were made returnable in his own court.

What the Records Show.

Judge Lyle ignored the petty offenders and concentrated upon the "big shots" of the crime world, harassing the police into action and issuing later a supplementary list of warrants for lesser lights in the list of "public enemies."

The records of his court show 702 persons held to the grand jury, 116 sent to jail, 56 fined, 31 bond forfeitures, 49 released on probation, 17 given jury trial, 76 discharged, 177 dismissed for lack of prosecution, and 138 nolle prossed by the state.

Notes of the Mayoralty Campaign

When Judge Lyle speaks at noon today in the Apollo theater Steve Sumner and other officials of the milk drivers' union will be on the platform.

Free refreshments will be served to service men at a Thompson meeting at the Huntinghouse academy, 4616 North Clark street.

Judge Lyle will speak over WEBM at 6:30 tonight. George K. Schmidt will be on WGES at 9:30.

Judge Lyle and his daughter, Miss Jane Lyle, will be in the receiving line at a woman's tea at the Hotel La Salle at 3:30 this afternoon.

Judson F. Going, former Municipal judge, told the Congregational Ministers' association yesterday that Judge Lyle is the only important mayoralty candidate brought out in many years without the suggestion of a single political organization.

Victims of gunmen will be on the platform at Mirror hall, 1136 North Western avenue, tonight when Thomas Brockmeyer, committeeman for the Twenty-fourth ward, stages a demonstration for Judge Lyle.

The Dovre club has indorsed the candidacy of James A. Kearns for city treasurer.

Two more candidates have withdrawn from the aldermanic race, Otto A. Richter in the Fourteenth ward and Vernon R. Henry in the Forty-second. The withdrawal of Henry leaves the field to Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe and Charles F. Henry in the Forty-second ward campaign.

Anton J. Cermak and candidates on the Democratic ticket will be guests today at a luncheon under auspices of the Illinois Woman's Democratic clubs, Cook county branch, in the Hotel Sherman.

Mrs. Lynn Stiles, a member of the Cook county organization of the Illinois League of Women Voters, addressed the Illinois League of Republican Women on "The Shorter Ballot" at a meeting in the Morrison hotel yesterday. Mrs. Walter Scudder Hart, president of the Illinois League of Republican Women, presided.

ANSWER SUMMONS PLEA

The state filed its answer yesterday in the Supreme court to the petition for a writ of habeas corpus asking for the release from the penitentiary of Fur Sammons, who was sent back to the penitentiary during the recent drive started by Judge John H. Lyle when it was found that his alleged commutation of sentence from life to fifty years by former Gov. Small was not within the parole law.

The prosecution in its answer yesterday says that the commutation, at the most, applied only to the murder sentence, and does not affect the robbery sentence of one year to life, which was imposed on Sammons at the time he was sentenced to death.

BALKY WITNESS HALTS HEARING ON FLOOD SUIT

Reveal Money Paid Out of Thompson Fund.

asked. The bill of complaint, filed last week by Charles S. Smith as a contributor to the fund in 1927, charged that Thompson spent "many thousands of dollars" from the fund in payment of expenses of the waterway convention at the hotel.

Refuses to Give Answer.

"I refuse to answer after consultation with the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt," said Edwards.

Attorneys Frederic O. Mason and Edward R. Adams, representing the complainant, then asked that Master in Chancery Harry Smitz order the witness to reply. Master Smitz did so and the witness still refused to testify. The hearing was then adjourned.

Attorneys Mason and Adams will obtain a certification of the testimony before the master in chancery today and then apply to a Superior court judge, probably Judge Denis E. Sullivan, who is hearing the call of Judge Robert E. Gentzel, for an order upon the witness to testify or be subject to contempt of court.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom announced his entrance into the case with a cross bill containing queries as to Thompson's disposal of the funds. Under the law the attorney general is responsible for the proper disposition of all charity funds. Attorney General Carlstrom ordered one of his assistants to be in court when the case comes up again, probably tomorrow.

"The attorney general in his duty of protecting charitable trusts has concurred in and adopted the cross interrogatories filed in Chicago," said Mr. Carlstrom at Springfield.

None of the defendants was present when the hearing opened in the master in chancery's office at 145 North Clark street. Commissioner Wolfe had been subpoenaed to appear and tell why the funds were now being spent during Thompson's campaign for mayor, but he did not show up.

Lawyer Protests Hearing.

The hearing opened with Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward C. Higgins, representing Thompson, vigorously protesting against an immediate hearing. He declared that a judge and not a master of chancery should hear the charges that Thompson has failed to disburse $103,855 of the $139,772 contributed in 1927 and also that Thompson has recently diverted large sums from the $103,855 for political purposes.

"You don't want this case heard until the primary is over," observed Attorney Adams.

"I didn't say that," replied Higgins. "What I said was that its having been brought now indicates it was not brought in good faith but for a political purpose."

"If that is true," returned Adams, "I believe it is a corollary that hesitation of the defendants to have the facts known is dictated by purely political purposes."

Higgins offered other objections. He pointed out that a date in the bill of complaint read "1930" when it should have read "1931."

"A supremely technical objection," commented Adams. "You say that all you want is to have this hearing in court. Do you mean you are willing to go into court tomorrow and have this case heard?"

Would Be Long Delay.

Higgins said that he was willing. It was pointed out later that certification of the evidence, as required by law, the hearing of arguments before a judge, and other technical delays, will probably delay actual airing of the charges until after the primary.

The bill of complaint presented at the hearing charged that thousands of dollars from the charity fund had been spent for the Thompson prosperity coupon scheme as well as for the flood conference at the Congress hotel.

Big Robberies Held Solved in Grilling of Captive Trio

Ten sensational jewelry and bank robberies, most of them in Chicago and the metropolitan area, were declared to have been solved late last night at the state's attorney's office as the result of admissions and identifications of three men who were arrested last week. The prisoners are Harry Powell, alias Lewis; George [Baby Face] Nelson, and Stanton J. Randall.

Among the holdups cleared, according to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury, are those of Charles Richter, 1418 Lake Shore drive, and of Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow, 5839 Sheridan road.

Mr. Richter, vice president of the Consolidated Magazines corporation, his wife, two children and four servants were held up by five bandits on Jan. 6, last year, in the Richter home in Lake Shore drive. After a siege of terror, the Richters were robbed of $25,000 in jewelry.

The Von Buelow holdup was staged by three men, posing as census takers, March 31, last year. Mrs. Von Buelow, her estranged husband, Enrique Von Buelow and four others were tied and blindfolded. The bandits escaped with a reported loot of $50,000. According to detectives the only loot in this robbery indicated in the admissions by the robbers consisted of a $550 ring and a 15 piece set of glassware of small value.

The other crimes solved, according to police, are:

The robbery of $5,000 in jewelry from the home of Stuart J. Templeton, wealthy attorney of 1388 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, Jan. 22, 1930. Two maids were gagged by the robbers.

The raid in the home of Frederick Babson of Riverside, and the theft of $22,000 in gems.

The $10,000 robbery of the Salins Jewelry company of Waukegan.

The $23,000 robbery of the Spritz Jewelry company of Danville, in which an employé was kidnaped and driven to Bellwood, where he was thrown from the bandit machine.

The robbery of $4,800 from the Itasca State bank on Oct. 3 last year. Two men were involved.

The holdup of the Plainfield State bank, in which no money was taken because of bullet proof windows which shielded employés.

The robbery of $4,155 from the Hillside State bank. Two revolvers were stolen from the bank, and one was found in Randall's home.

The holdup of the Rockton State bank, and the theft of $1,250.

Nelson, Randall and Powell were arrested last Friday by Sergts. Roy Steffens, Charles Touzinsky, and Edward Farr of the state's attorney's office, after an investigation of more than a month.

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Davis and John Stephens, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Meloni Nielsen and John Brassell, carrying concealed weapons, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge Philip Finnegan.

The One Indestructible Thing In Business

THE past year has proven once more that in times of business disturbance and distress, people turn irresistibly in their buying, as well as in their living, to the trustworthy and substantial things.

All men who hold fast to the conviction that the one indestructible thing in business is character and integrity of product and management, will rejoice that Pierce-Arrow is benefiting more largely than ever by this very human and almost universal disposition to be sure of the best.

The new Pierce-Arrow delivers superbly all of the old Pierce-Arrow satisfaction—even more vividly expressed than it ever has been by substantial engineering advances, of which free wheeling is not the least important.

If you will give to the matter of motoring the long thought of appraisal—subjecting the Pierce-Arrow to a careful evaluation of its dignified beauty, unapproached social acceptance, and regal riding qualities—the result can scarcely remain in doubt.

BLAME NEGLECT OF CITY IN CRASH FATAL TO FOUR

No Barricade or Lights on Torn Up Street.

While an augmented crew of city workmen was hurriedly trying to patch holes in the pavement of Western avenue between 76th and 77th streets yesterday witnesses were telling a coroner's jury how the failure of city employés to properly barricade the street had caused the deaths of four persons and the serious injury of two others in an auto accident Sunday night.

Five witnesses testified that at the time of the accident there were neither lights, barricade, nor signals to warn the ill fated motorists of the hazardous condition of the street at this point. Testimony also brought out that barricades were hurriedly put up after the fatal accident and that early this morning hurried efforts were being made to put the street in order.

Witness Tells of Crash.

"I was immediately behind the automobile and saw it traveling at about 30 miles an hour as the wheels struck the torn up stretch of street," said Nerman Scholefield, 21 years old, 6803 South Peoria street. "It bounced violently several times and as the driver tried to get it under control it careened against a northbound street car and crashed to the side of the road. There weren't any lights or guard rails of any kind around." His testimony was corroborated by four other witnesses.

"I don't know what happened to the red lights I put there," Charles Carlson, watchman for the city, told the jury. "Maybe somebody ran into them and knocked them off the street. I was in a shanty four blocks away when somebody came up and asked for three lights to put on the torn up spot. I didn't pay any attention to him, though. But pretty soon I thought maybe there was something to what he said and I went up there with lights. That was after the accident."

Two Fight for Lives.

Meanwhile two other victims of the accident, believed to be fatally injured, were fighting death at the Holy Cross hospital. They are Mrs. Emelia Budek, 21 years old, 3603 West 65th place, and Lawrence Ahrens, 3817 West 59th street. The dead were Joseph Budek, 3603 West 65th place; Frank Swiss, 3601 West 56th place; Mrs. Julia Ahrens, 3817 West 59th place, and Mrs. Sophie Swiss, wife of Frank Swiss and a sister of Budek and Mrs. Ahrens.

Deputy Coroner Ray Conerty continued the inquest until March 19 to await the outcome of the injuries of the two in the hospital.

Four deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 176. The victims:

C. H. King, 75 years old, 7516 Cornell avenue, a city watchman. Killed late last night by the machine of a hit and run driver in Stony Island avenue at 79th street.

Patrick J. Clancy, 70 years old, 7207 Cornell avenue, a retired railroad man. Killed at Stony Island avenue and 72d street by the automobile of Dr. Walter Bayard, 7314 Ridgeland avenue. Dr. Bayard took Clancy to the Jackson Park hospital. The doctor was exonerated by the police.

Vincent Shearin, 33 years old, 5053 Augusta street, an employé of the board of education. Died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries received on Feb. 8 when his auto collided with a street car on Elston avenue near Wade street.

Charles Needham, 26 years old, 3225 Eastwood avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries received in an auto collision on Saturday.

Death of Four Speeds City Street Repairs

Repairing Western avenue at 75th street along the street car tracks after auto accident in which four persons were killed had occurred owing to the rough pavement. At the inquest held yesterday there was contradictory testimony as to whether there were lights and barricades in place to warn autoists of the poor paving at the time the accident occurred. Six persons testified there were no lights or barricades. The inquest was continued to Thursday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Find Boy Police Killed Was Chasing Two Bandits

Thomas Barnett, colored, 14 years old, of 107 West 38th street, who was shot and killed by the police on Saturday as a suspected bandit, was revealed yesterday by a coroner's jury as a hero who was slain by error. The boy, gun in hand, chased two bandits after they had held up his employer, Isadore Mirshink, 3758 State street. Police joined the chase and, seeing Barnett with revolver in hand, commanded him to halt. The boy turned, accidentally discharging his weapon at the same time, and the police fired, killing him. Police were exonerated at the inquest.

HALF OF DOUGLAS $3,000,000 ESTATE IS LEFT TO WIDOW

The will of James H. Douglas, executive of the Quaker Oats company, disposing of an estate of $3,000,000, was admitted to probate yesterday by Probate Judge Martin Decker of Lake county. The will lists thirty legatees but the bulk of the estate is left to Mr. Douglas's widow and two sons. Mr. Douglas died Dec. 27 in his home in Lake Forest.

The will leaves a $20,000 trust fund to the Chicago Community trust, for distribution to charities, and $5,000 to the Chicago Evening club. One-half of the entire estate is left in trust for the widow, Mrs. Inez Boynton Douglas, of 910 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest.

After bequests amounting to $44,000, the remainder of the estate is left to two sons, Donald B. Douglas, 980 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, and James H. Douglas Jr., 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Bids for Evening Post Will Be Opened Saturday

Bids for the purchase of the Chicago Evening Post will be opened in the courtroom of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward next Saturday morning. Judge Woodward yesterday authorized George F. Getz, receiver for the newspaperfi to solicit bids. Meanwhile Mr. Getz will continue to publish the Post as receiver.

Takes Oath for New Term as U. S. Attorney.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson pledged a continuation of his attack on crime when he took the oath of office for a second four year term yesterday before Federal Judges James H. Wilkerson and Charles E. Woodward of the District court.

Mr. Johnson's success and methods as a law enforcer, which have won national acclaim, particularly his income tax drive against gangsters and grafting politicians, were commended by Judge Wilkerson, speaking for the court.

Judge Commends Prosecutor.

"I am sure that I express the opinion of the District court when I say that we are much pleased at Mr. Johnson's reappointment," said Judge Wilkerson. "We are gratified that his earnest and efficient work is to be continued, and that he is to go ahead for another term in the modest but very effective way in which he has represented the United States.

"Mr. Johnson has shown that results in law enforcement may be had without defiance of law on the part of law enforcing agencies, and that the protection of life and property does not require the abrogation of constitutional guarantees."

The oath was administered in a courtroom filled with federal officials and attorneys.

Although Mr. Johnson refrained from going into detail as to his plans for law enforcement in the future, it is known that several important investigations are now under way and that politicians and hoodlums with names as prominent as those already indicted or convicted are prospective defendants.

The federal agents have been investigating the police captains of Chicago with a view to tracing unreported income, and some of them are about to be prosecuted for violating the income tax laws, it is reported. Other members of the police department are under surveillance on suspicion of shaking down saloonkeepers and face conspiracy charges.

Al Capone, public enemy No. 1, is to be tried for contempt of court on Feb. 25 and probably will be indicted for tax evasion after that, thus having a good chance to go the way of Jack Guzik, Ralph Capone, and Frank Nitti.

Praises Courts for Help.

"In the four years I have administered this office there has been no criticism of the office by the court," said Mr. Johnson. "It is only fair to say that had it not been for the cooperation of the judges of the court it would have been impossible to accomplish what the office has accomplished in the last four years.

"I also want to make public acknowledgment of the respect with which I and my staff have been treated by the press of Chicago. I also wish to make acknowledgment to the faithful members of my staff and to members of the various bureaus of the government.

"Aside from representing the government in civil matters, the principal reason for the existence of this office is to fight crime, and I intend that the energies of the office shall be devoted to that, and that the policy of the office shall be one of aggressive attack, particularly on those situations which breed crime; against law breakers and violators which the government through its facilities is in a better position to reach than the state officers and the state courts."

Citizens' Group Ready to Plan Unification of Public Offices

The first meeting of the commission of thirty citizens appointed by President Cermak of the county board to develop plans for the consolidation of overlapping governments in Cook county will be held Friday in the county building. At this meeting, which was called yesterday by Cermak, the commission will elect a chairman and determine the scope of the program and the procedure to be used in the prosecution and adoption of the permanent plan.

The group is known as the citizens' commission on public finance and economy, and is made up of prominent civic leaders and representatives of the several universities and colleges located in Chicago. The ultimate aim of the investigation will be to eliminate the duplication of public offices and services, and stop the waste of money resulting from this duplication.

All of the thirty members named by Cermak have agreed to serve on the commission. In a letter to them yesterday Cermak said, "Following the organization of the commission it is hoped that plans will be laid out to proceed at once on the development, drafting and promotion of definite legislative proposals for action by the present general assembly, and then proceed on such phases of the program which will require constitutional change and which must be developed as a basis for an early call of a constitutional convention."

Cermak has pointed out that millions of dollars might be saved through retrenchment of local governmental expenditures. A subcommittee of the city council, in a report made public recently, estimated that the annual saving to the public through the coördination and simplification of the governmental agencies might run as high as $50,000,000.

The University of Chicago, Northwestern university, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and several other bodies will take an active part in the study. J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, who will coöperate with the commission, said that the simplification of the county's governmental machinery will take several years, but that it is hoped the commission will pave the way for the eventual accomplishment of the entire project.

The commission, according to preliminary plans, will study public credit, governmental services and expenditures, and develop definite measures for taxation and revenue reform and the application of business principles to public administration.

The Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, through its president, George F. Nixon, yesterday issued a call for a tax conference to be held tomorrow in Springfield. Delegates from fifty-five real estate boards throughout the state will consider all the proposed laws and suggested remedial measures relative to the unequal distribution of the tax load and adopt a constructive tax reform program.

SENATORS CALL ON WICKERSHAM FOR TESTIMONY

Wet and Dry Leaders Mix in Hot Debate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Following a two hour wet and dry debate, the senate today adopted the resolution sponsored by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] calling on the Wickersham commission to forward to the senate the testimony on which the commission based its recent report on prohibition.

The resolution, which provides that testimony taken under a secrecy pledge need not be turned over, was passed without dry opposition. Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], constitutional dry, said that he favored the provision. It was a leading dry, Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], author of the eighteenth amendment, who precipitated the general debate which preceded the resolution's adoption.

Wet Prophecy Challenged.

Challenging the wet prophecy of Jouett Shouse, executive director of the Democratic national committee, which appeared in yesterday's papers, Senator Sheppard suggested that Mr. Shouse back up his stand by stating "what states will send wet delegations to the next Democratic national convention, and why."

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], Tammany wet, served notice that he was only hanging fire with a speech on the Wickersham report and would touch it off within a day or so.

He was followed by Senator Tydings, most persistent of the senate wets, whose recent pleasure it has been to stir up the drys by charging them with hyprocrisy because of their countenance of home made wines and cider.

New Senator Heard.

In his turn, Senator Tydings was followed by Senators Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] and Cameron Morrison [Dem., N. C.], ardent drys. Senator Morrison succeeded in obtaining a share of the senate's attention. He attacked the wet New York leadership of his party, defying it either to drive the drys into the wet fold or out of the party.

"The only political significance Mr. Rascob has ever had, or that he ever will have," declared Senator Morrison, "is that he is the monumental mistake of our great candidate for President in 1928, Alfred E. Smith. I deny that Mr. Raskob has any influence, or that he is the leader of the Democratic party. As soon as we nominate another candidate for President he will disappear as rapidly as he appeared."

The senate did not particularly mind these sentiments. What it did mind was Mr. Morrison's continued violation of the tradition which requires a new senator to comport himself after the fashion of the days when little boys were seen and not heard. Senator Morrison has been a senator less than two months.

Chided for Wetness.

Senator Morrison, replying to Senator Tydings, chided the Maryland senator's state for its wetness and lack of dry enforcement. He was warned by Vice President Curtis that good senators did not abuse each other's states.

His real reprimand, however, came from Senator Tydings himself, who pulled out a prohibition bureau report showing that between 1925 and 1928 North Carolina had had three times as many stills raided and nine times as much liquor seized per 10,000 population as had Maryland.

The figures, Senator Morrison claimed, proved not more liquor in North Carolina, but less enforcement in Maryland.

Doesn't Want "Discredit."

The Maryland senator once more chided the drys for their tolerance of home wine and cider making. Chided in return by Senator Black for not offering an amendment to remedy the situation, he retorted:

"The senator suggests that I ought to have the credit of such an amendment. I reply that his use of the word credit is of doubtful value. I do not want the discredit of joining in the dry hypocrisy in any way.

"I'll answer the senator with a challenge," he shouted. "There is not one dry senator who will offer an amendment which will take from the farmer the right to make cider in his cellar."

"Let the senator," declared Senator Tydings, "get rid of the racketeering and crime in Chicago, where Al Capone has a throttle hold on government that reaches up into the judiciary."

"You drys are trying to force people to be good. Instead of the teachings of Jesus Christ, you advocate education by the policeman's club.

"You senators here are no better than any one else, yet you consider you have the right to step out of the field of government and to inscribe religious statutes in the law books."

He swung on Senator Morrison.

"The senator's ancestors who fought for the right to settle their own affairs during the years 1861 to 1865," he said, "wouldn't understand, if they were now alive, the words and the arguments that fall from the senator's lips."

Fifty University of Chicago co-eds yesterday whirled and spun to the directions of a professional dance master, putting the final touches to "What Ho," the sixth annual production of Mirror, the women's organization on the campus.

The musical play under the direction of Frank Parker, will be presented in Mandel hall on the campus on Feb. 27 and 28. This year for the first time twelve men will participate as guest artists. Rehearsals have been going on for six weeks, the last two in full costumes.

SENATOR HARRISON ATTACKS MOVES FOR INCREASE IN TAXES

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi last night assured 2,500 members of the Chicago Coal Merchants association that the nation's finances are sound and attacked those "who would retire the national debt, the systematic settlement of which is now five years ahead of schedule, at such a rapid rate that the taxpayer would suffer unduly."

The senator spoke at the coal dealers' banquet at the Stevens hotel celebrating the 25th anniversary of the association. George Getz, chairman of Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, presided.

"At the close of the world war the American people had the right to expect a reduction of taxes and an orderly attack on the national debt," Senator Harrison said. "But, after 12 years of peace, because of a complete change in the government's fiscal program and the too rapid reduction of the national debt, we are threatened with increased taxes.

"To my mind, increased taxes are not necessary. There need be no panic about the national debt. There is no reason for business to be frightened about this excitement in the executive department or because of any legislative events in Washington during the present session of congress."

Wyoming Governor Ill of Pneumonia; Crisis Nears

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Physicians tonight expected Gov. Frank C. Emerson, ill of pneumonia, to pass the crisis early tomorrow morning. No improvement was reported in the chief executive's condition, but it was said at the executive mansion he was "holding his own." All acts passed by the legislature thus far will be permitted to become laws through the governor's inability to sign them within the three day period allowed him to consider them.

JEWELER SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH IN BANK VAULT

Philip Barnett, president of Barnett, Inc., jewelers at 240 South Michigan avenue, shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday while in the vault of the Congress Trust and Savings bank, 510 South Wabash avenue. He was 47 years old, and lived at 5056 Woodlawn avenue.

The jeweler had been admitted to the vault by Karl Plate, the doorman, and had taken his safe deposit box into a private chamber. In another chamber nearby was G. H. Dahl, 3750 Pine Grove avenue. Suddenly Dahl and Plate heard a shot. They ran into Barnett's compartment, and found him on the floor, a bullet in his right temple, and a revolver lying alongside him. Barnett was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where Dr. L. L. McArthur performed an emergency operation, but the jeweler died shortly afterward.

Officials of the jewelry house said Barnett's affairs were in excellent condition. According to Dr. M. L. Weinstein, the Barnett family physician, the jeweler had been suffering from a nervous breakdown. Barnett recently was in a sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich., Dr. Weinstein said.

Barnett is survived by his widow, Myra; a son, Philip Jr., 5 years old, and a brother, Maurice.

Denies Wickersham Inquiry on Dry Law Cost $500,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, a member of the Wickersham commission appointed by President Hoover to investigate law enforcement, attacked today what he termed "misrepresentations broadcast by the wets" that the commission spent $500,000 inquiring into prohibition.

"The committee appointed to investigate prohibition was allotted $65,000 for that work," Judge McCormick said. "Up to Feb. 1 the total amount expended in the investigation was $35,922.63. While I did not know that there will be any further investigation, there still is available $29,077.37 for this purpose."

DAILY MAROON HITS CLOSING OF FRATS IN MICHIGAN RAID

The Daily Maroon, University of Chicago student publication, this morning in an editorial defends the five University of Michigan fraternities which were closed by university officials after a raid disclosing seventy-five quarts of intoxicating liquor in the houses. The editorial describes the action as "outrageous, tactless, and pointless." It concludes with the comment, "Wickersham could not have done better."

"It is a generally known fact," reads the editorial, "that were fraternities here raided and searched, liquor would be found in more than one house, despite various statements that there is no drinking problem at the university. The same can be said of every other university in the Big Ten. Why, then, Michigan? Why five fraternities? Obviously, politics of some sort were involved."

Charging that the raid was fruitless as it did not reach the source of supply, the editorial commented, "if private homes in Ann Arbor were raided liquor would also be found in many." Recalling that 189 men were driven out of their homes and only 75 quarts were found, the editorial points out that this would be only three-fourths of a pint per couple—not enough for intoxication. [The liquor was said to have been purchased for a dance.] "Serious drinking is not a problem at the universities," the editorial concludes from this.

WOMAN DEAD, 3 HURT IN CRASH.

Benton, Ill., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Earl Neunlist, 40, of Benton was killed and three others were injured seriously as a result of an automobile accident near here early yesterday. The injured are John Rector of Herrin, Gene Bascom and Mrs. James Webb of Benton.

CLEMENCY ASKED FOR MICHIGAN U. CLOSED FRATS

Alumni Acts to Settle Rum Raid Scandal.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 16. [Special.]—University of Michigan alumni committee today submitted their plea for clemency in the cases of five fraternitities which were suspended Thursday after raiders found more than 50 quarts of liquor in the houses.

The alumni plea, said to have been coupled with an outline of what the alumni consider a suitable plan of action in the case, was submitted today at a special meeting of the senate committee on student affairs. No action was taken, and the five alumni who submitted the report refused to divulge the contents of their petition. If the student affairs committee action is unsatisfactory they intimated they would continue to seek clemency, but possibly through other means.

Dean Mum After Meeting.

The senate committee will meet again Wednesday for further discussion of the suspension of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Theta Delt Chi, and Kappa Sigma fraternities. Dean of Students J. A. Bursley, chairman of the students affairs committee, refused to say what happened in the meeting.

Miss Alice Lloyd, dean of women, was the only member of the committee who was not present, but she was represented by Mrs. Byrl Fox Bacher, assistant dean of women. The two co-ed members of the students affairs committee who were not present Thursday when the senate committee suspended the fraternities, were there this afternoon.

Students and other fraternities on the campus also added their pleas for less punishment for the "In Dutch" fraternities, the resolution of the student council being submitted at this afternoon's meeting, while a number of individual fraternities also added their pleas.

$10,000 Year Rental Loss.

Closing of the five fraternities will entail a loss of $10,000 in rentals and will throw 12 persons employed on full time and more than 50 students working on part time out of positions. This information is understood to have been given to the committee on student affairs today and will be presented to the committee of legislators which will investigate the situation Tuesday.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon alumni will suffer a loss of $3,500 in rentals and initiation fees, it was said. This organization has $50,000 outstanding in bonds and pays annual taxes of from $1,600 to $1,700. The Theta Delta Chi loss in rentals will amount to $2,250. Its taxes are $1,800.

Taxes Are $2,800 Yearly.

Alumni of Delta Kappa Epsilon will lose $1,650 in rentals by the closing of their house. Their taxes total $2,800 yearly. The losses to the alumni of Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Sigma are not available, but it is understood that the former pays $1,400 in taxes and the latter $1,600 to $1,800.

The University of Michigan will be a maimed and crippled institution, minus either one of its colleges, or without a freshman class, and lose all the benefits of years of effort in building up its faculty if the legislature passes a bill reducing the mill tax by which the university is supported, President Alexander G. Ruthven said today in a letter to the editor of the Grand Rapids Press, in answer to an editorial which appeared recently.

Salaries Would Be Cut.

"The inevitable result of a reduction of the university's income will be the loss of men from the faculty and a drastic curtailment of educational activities," the president asserted. "Salaries already too low will have to be reduced and men will have to be dismissed. A university is not like a factory. You can no more lop off 8 or 10 per cent of it at will then you can amputate 8 or 10 per cent of a human being with the expectation that the remnant will be anything but a mutilated cripple."

SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES INQUIRY ON MILK, DAIRY PRICES.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The senate argriculture committee today reported favorably a resolution by Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] to extend the scope of the senate investigation of retail food prices to include milk and dairy products.

Competition Is Blamed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Costly competition, rather than any "combine," was blamed for higher bread prices in a report of the department of labor today.

A registrar acting under the combines investigation act found that although four large flour milling companies have gained control of 98 bakeries producing a third of Canada's bread, no evidence was found of a combine detrimental to the public.

U. S. AGENTS SEIZE 8 BARRELS OF "JAKE" EXTRACT

Deputy United States marshals yesterday seized eight barrels, about 450 gallons, of ginger extract, commonly known as "jake," in the warehouse of the Santa Fe railway at 14th and State streets. The ginger, labeled "liquid medicine," was declared by food and drug inspectors to have been a part of that sold on the Pacific coast which caused many deaths at Los Angeles.

The seizure was made on an order issued by Federal Judge Carpenter following a complaint by H. B. Garrett, chief of the food and drug administration. The shipment was consigned by the California Extract company to New York.

In his boyish eagerness, he thought it the quickest way to get the ripe cherries for his favorite pie.

And, who isn't fond of good cherry pie? Pixley and Ehlers take as great pains as George did to get the best cherries—though in a different fashion. PLAN TEST VOTE FOR DRY REPEAL IN SENATE TODAY

Hope to Keep Bill Out of Committee.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Liberals proposed tonight to precipitate a test vote on repeal of the Illinois prohibition act and the search and seizure law in the senate when it reassembles tomorrow after its Florida vacation. They contemplate an effort to have the O'Grady repeal bill, which passed the house Sunday, 91 to 56, placed on the calendar without reference to a committee.

The argument of the liberals is that the subject matter needs no committee action, that as a popular mandate it is an urgent item on which there should be no dawdling and that whatever open hearing is held might best be done before the whole chamber.

The effort for quick action may run afoul into the traditional distaste of the senate for disturbing the regular procedure, and the vote is expected to give some idea of the lineup in prohibition.

Claim Enough Votes to Pass.

Supporters of the O'Grady bill tonight after another check-up say 26 or 27 votes are lined up for repeal when it comes up for passages, with two more in sight.

The drys have been active in the last week, and some senators report they have been deluged with form letters from followers of the Anti-Saloon league urging them to vote dry.

The league is reported to be concentrating on two or three senators in the prospective liberal column on the theory that they may be weak sisters and susceptible to pressure.

Among liberals, both Republicans and Democrats, talk is loud tonight that if the repealer is given the lampooning treatment in the senate the effect may be to start reprisals in the way of a deadlock of other legislation.

During the house debates one argument raised was that in view of the popular vote for repeal, backed by the Democratic landslide that gave James Hamilton Lewis a plurality of 744,000 for senator, appropriations might well be held back until repeal legislation is enacted.

In the house last week, Le Roy M. Green of Rockford, chairman of the revenue committee, espoused the idea that unless there is action on the prohibition question, the appropriation bills might well be tied up.

"Such action," he said, "would be justified."

Tabulate Repeal Vote.

A tabulation of the vote in November on repeal of prohibition in the downstate districts, as compiled by the Association Opposed to Prohibition, was circulated tonight on the eve of the reassembling of the senate. Of the 32 downstate districts only 11 voted against repeal and these eleven have a population of 1,014,793, which is less than 15 per cent of the population of Illinois. The table is as follows:

Downstate districts for repeal:

KIDNEY and Bladder Trouble

Sleepy Water acts very effectively on the kidneys, the delicate filters that drain the blood of poisons. So many serious diseases originate in the kidneys that their protection is vital to health.

The mildly alkaline minerals of Sleepy Water neutralize acid conditions that disturb the normal health balance. They aid in the elimination of deep-seated poison wastes. A thorough flushing of the body every day with Sleepy Water should be considered as necessary as wholesome food and fresh air.

Thousands have found this pleasant tasting mineral water a great help in relieving kidney and bladder troubles.

DRY RAIDERS KILL 2 MOONSHINERS; BULLETS IN BACK

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The bodies of two moonshiners, shot to death today by members of the Fayette county patrol and a constable in a raid in the Jack's creek section of the county, lie in a morgue here tonight. County authorities are investigating.

The slain men are Noah Lamb and John Martin, each 25. An examination of their bodies show that both were shot in the back, indicating that they were running away from the officers. Martin was shot once, the bullet entering his back and piercing his lung. Lamb was shot several times, the shots entering his back and abdomen. Both men lived about thirty minutes after being shot.

County Patrolman William F. Clark and Constable Carl Sweeney are charged with slaying the men. They declare they did not shoot until the moonshiners fired on them. Patrolman Clark gave this version of the encounter:

Haul Bodies on Sled.

"We slipped up on them and watched them working at their still, which was located in the rocky cliffs overlooking the Kentucky river. After we were convinced of what they were doing we came out of our place of concealment and called to them to put up their hands and surrender. Instead, they started shooting and we returned the fire. Martin ran about 75 yards before he fell, running down the cliff toward County Patrolmen Robert Reynolds and James Fortner, other members of the raiding party, but who had become separated from us."

One of the men had been killed with a shotgun and one with pistol shots. Clark was armed with a shotgun and a pistol, while Constable Sweeney had only a revolver. The shooting occurred in a remote section, more than a mile from a road, and it was necessary to carry the men up the cliff and then haul their bodies to the highway on a sled. An ambulance brought them to Lexington. None of the raiding party was hurt.

The officers brought with them a revolver which, they said, one of the moonshiners had fired at them. It contained three exploded cartridges and three that had not been fired. They declared the other moonshiners also had a pistol, but that they were unable to find it.

As the two moonshiners are dead the only version of the affair available comes from members of the raiding party, but the fact that both of the slain men were shot in the back, that none in the raiding party was shot, and that only one weapon said to have been used by the moonshiners was found, has led county authorities to investigate. Coroner J. Hervery Kerr has announced he will hold an inquest tomorrow.

County Judge Chester D. Adams also has indicated he will investigate to ascertain if the men were shot while in the act of resisting the officers or while defenseless and fleeing.

NET $400,000 BY SHAKEDOWNS OF SPEAKEASIES

Vice Squad Develops Big Business in New York.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16. — [Special.] — Speakeasy "shake downs" have been developed into a big business of Caponic proportions by certain busy members of New York's police vice squad, the Seabury investigation revealed today.

Two stalwarts of the squad alone, Plain Clothesmen James J. Quinlivan and William M. O'Connor, were pictured as having collected something like $400,000 from these productive sources of revenue within a period of four years or less.

Harry Levy, a former stool pigeon for the squad, testified that he collected an average of $7,500 a month from 175 speakeasies on the upper west side for the two patrolmen during a part of 1927 and throughout 1928 and he calculated on the basis of this and other information gleaned by him in his intimate relations with the two men that the speakeasy revenue had netted them about $90,000 a year for a period of three years.

Tells of "Framing" Girls.

Levy, who was recently brought back from New Orleans, where he said he was paid by "interested" policemen to hide away, told in picturesque detail of the framing of girls and landladies on vice charges, of the nurse racket, the doctors' racket, the furnished room racket, and finally of the merry care free life of the professional informer.

The retired stool pigeon went into more painstaking details as the session continued, outlining various campaigns which he said vice squad members laid out in advance to enrich themselves and make sure that shakedowns would be profitable. He told of graft and oppression, joy rides in police cars, poker games in the bondsmen's offices, ten and twenty dollar fees from this source and that until he had built up a lucid narrative revealing vice squad blackmail as a well organized, big business industry.

"Framing" the Nurse.

The doctor and nurse racket was another source of steady income, according to Levy, who said the vice cops frequently operated on the physicians' purses.

"We would locate a doctor's office," said the stool pigeon, "find out when he would be out on a call and then the officers and one of us would go in and frame the nurse. The doctor almost always came across with big money to fix the case up in order to protect his own professional reputation. Harry the Greek was an expert at framing nurses.

John Steiner, the uptown bondsman who was recently convicted of overcharging a client and sentenced to from one to three years in the workhouse, figured in the nurse racket and got in a row with Quinlivan because "he fixed too many cases." Steiner, on the stand today, admitted he knew both Levy and Quinlivan and corroborated the records which showed that in 1928 he had bailed sixty-nine prostitution cases brought in by Quinlivan.

Levy's testimony of the collections from the speakeasies was the first evidence the vice cops had been collecting "protection money" in the prohibition field, this previously having been considered out of their field. The witness testified he had made from 150 to 200 calls on the saloons during a month and had given the money to the two cops. The larger places, Levy said, paid a minimum of $100 a month and the others $40 to $80.

Bank Accounts Shown.

Earlier in the day evidence was introduced to show that the bank accounts of Patrolman Quinlivan's wife for the last four and one-half years showed total deposits of $57,700 and withdrawals of $49,000—the idea being that somebody higher up was getting a rakeoff. Mrs. Quinlivan was not present to explain where she got the money or how she spent it, for she went "visiting relatives" a month ago. Patrolman Quinlivan swore he did not know where she is now.

Swinging into his long promised narrative of how the vice squad boys got the cash, Stool Pigeon Levy revealed case after case of cold blooded framing of innocent women, and then went into the details of the "shakedown" rackets.

The witness named eleven of what he termed the "big places," and said he visited them with Quinlivan and O'Connor and later by himself as a collector.

Stool Pigeon's Jolly Life.

Levy at the beginning of his testimony told of the clubby, social side of a stool pigeon's life. The informers were at home in the bondsmen's offices and the back rooms of the district police headquarters were open to them at all times. At these favorite hangouts, the big shots of the stool pigeon world would gather with the bondsmen and police for friendly card games and sometimes a tilt with the dice. Among those often present, Levy said were such of the aristocracy as Marty the Greek, Louis [The Dove] Taube, Harry [Get Right] Pollock, Myer Slutsky, and Dave The Shine, ace of the Negro stools—all zealous in their enforcement of the vice laws for profit.

After talking business for a spell they would retire to a favorite restaurant on Lenox avenue in the heart of Harlem's black belt. Lieut. Peter J. Pfeiffer, who several weeks ago explained his bloated bank account as "an inheritance from his mother-in-law," would give out assignments there, Levy said.

KILLS WIFE WITH SHOTGUN.

John Mazunatis, 38 years old, 1983 Canalport avenue, owner of a grocery at that address, shot and killed his wife, Anna, 37 years old, with a shotgun, following a quarrel in their living quarters in the rear of the store yesterday.

Talks About Dry Law

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the 23d president of the United States, passed through Chicago last night en route from her home in New York to Tucson, Ariz. During the few minutes before her departure on the Golden State limited over the Rock Island, she offered her opinion of prohibition.

"I am in favor of light wines and beers," Mrs. Harrison said. "The idea of prohibition is wrong. Of course, I would not wish to see a return to the open saloon, but I am sure some modification could be brought about which would be more successful than the present law.

"I am interested in young people. I don't believe they do half the things they are blamed for these days. But they do drink now more than they used to before prohibition."

Mrs. Harrison was eager to reach the end of her journey to see her small granddaughter, the child of her daughter, Mrs. James Blaine Walker.

NORWAY PLANS TO TAKE PART IN CHICAGO'S FAIR

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 16.—Despite earlier uncertainty it is now believed that Norway will participate in the Chicago Century of Progress Exhibition. The department of commerce has issued a request for detailed plans for Norwegian representation at Chicago.

The president of a special fair committee asserts that Norway's participation cannot be based on sales propaganda, owing to high American tariffs, but must be on a basis of advertising Norwegian cultural life and the country's advantages for tourists.

The alleged attack occurred last October in Nemes' Michigan avenue office, where Miss Flynn had sought employment. Miss Flynn took the witness stand yesterday and testified she was accosted by Nemes in the lobby of the office building.

ROCHE RETURNS AFTER TRAILING LINGLE CLEWS

Visits Miami, Havana and Other Cities.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, returned to his office yesterday from a three weeks' out of town investigation of angles of the Lingle case.

PAT ROCHE.

The investigation carried Mr. Roche to Havana, Miami, New Orleans and other cities. He declined to discuss the nature of his inquiry and he would not reveal the results he obtained.

Robert E. Cantwell Sr., chief counsel in the defense of Leo V. Brothers, facing trial for the murder of Alfred Lingle, yesterday notified Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court that he had retired from the case.

Lawyers Issue Statement.

Mr. Cantwell's associates in the case, Attorneys Tyrell Krum and Louis Piquett, issued a statement announcing that they would conduct the defense themselves.

"When we were retained to represent Brothers," the statement read, "Mr. Cantwell became actively and intensely engaged in the preparation of the defense. Because of his advanced age and his unstable physical condition the task soon began to tell on him. He recently has been suffering from rheumatism, and his physicians advised him to 'take it easy.'

"After a ten day period of comparative inactivity and rest his condition was little improved, so he decided he must again return to retirement. Mr. Cantwell is at this time confined to his bed in Oak Park."

The trial of Frank Foster, gangster under indictment as an accessory to the murder of Lingle, was continued yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher until April 14. Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Covelli told Judge Fisher that the state desired a continuance, and Defense Attorney Harold Levy agreed.

DROPS DEAD AT MEAL.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO HALT PRESTON HEARING

The Supreme court refused yesterday to enter an order on Judge John K. Newhall of Du Page county compelling him to set aside his order granting the state a new sanity trial for John Preston, slayer of Miss Agnes Johnson. The ruling of the court is considered important because it virtually amounts to allowing the prosecution the right of a new trial in insanity hearings if the presiding judge feels that a miscarriage of justice has occurred.

Attorneys representing Preston argued that the state has no more right to a new trial in an insanity hearing than in an ordinary criminal case. The verdict of the jury is conclusive, they argued. On this basis they asked for a writ of mandamus compelling the judge to set aside his order for a new trial.

Preston is under a death sentence for attacking and murdering Miss Johnson. On the eve of his scheduled execution an insanity petition was filed and he was found to be insane by a jury. The verdict automatically stays the execution until the retrial of the case is had.

Quit Work to Seek Charity, Red Cross Reduces Relief

Yazoo City, Miss., Feb. 16.—(AP)—In order to keep laborers from deserting the farms in Yazoo county the county Red Cross chapter has cut down on drought relief and now is administering only to cases of extreme destitution. Planters requested discontinuance of the daily distribution because, they said, hundreds of laborers were leaving the farm to seek charity. For ten days the Red Cross has been assisting 18,000 persons at a cost of about $1,000 a day.

HOODLUM FACES CHARGE HE SHOT CABARET GIRL

Martin Quirk, 27 years old, a minor south side hoodlum, according to the police, will be arraigned today in Felony court on a charge of shooting Miss Valene Erwin, cabaret entertainer, in front of the Breakfast club, 76 West Erie street, early Sunday morning.

MARTIN QUIRK.

Quirk was arrested yesterday by Lieut. Eugene Barry and a squad at Sheridan road and St. James place. He was taken to the bedside of Miss Erwin in St. Luke's hospital. She greeted him with a "hello" and then told police he was not her assailant. Quirk refused to talk.

Quirk was identified as the man who shot Miss Erwin by Harry L. Goodwin Jr., 26, of Morris, Ill., the girl's escort. Goodwin had taken Miss Erwin to the Breakfast club, where they had met Quirk. As they emerged later some one fired a shot, wounding the girl. Jealousy prompted the shooting, police believe. Miss Erwin, whose real name is Willick, verified this theory, detectives said, by saying that the man who shot her "loved her."

Essay On a Man Buttoning Up His Vest

Once upon a time there was a very learned professor who hit upon a very great discovery while buttoning up his vest. Or rather, he hit upon the discovery because his vest wouldn't button up. His little daughter had sewn up some of the button-holes.

His fingers were going along as usual in their most intricate operations of buttoning a button. If you want to know how intricate these operations are, you might try it yourself. Just try consciously buttoning up one button. But be sure and count each thing that each thumb and finger does. Each move that they make. Then you will be able to start on this story where the professor started.

His buttoning was going on in the usual way, about ten operations to each button-hole, when something happened.

A button wouldn't button.

The fingers fumbled helplessly for a moment, then sent out a call for help. The mind woke up. The eyes looked down. The professor saw the prank his little child had played. He took out his pocketknife and cut the threads. He started to smile and then stopped smiling.

A new idea had been born. Or rather, a new understanding of an old idea.

What the professor had discovered was that fingers can remember. They call it physiological memory now. He had been buttoning his vest for many years, without ever having his mind on the job, up to the time his little daughter sewed up the button-holes. So he began thinking of all the other things that he did during the day which were unrelated to any mental process, or at least so remotely related as to leave his mind unconcerned.

His next step was even more disconcerting. He began checking up on the various activities of his day which were supposed to require something more than fingers and thumbs and arms and legs, only to find that too much of the same type of automatic procedure was involved.

Then he began playing pranks on his classes, and he found that the answer was always the same. As long as they could keep on doing the things they had always done, their minds wouldn't work. It was only when he figuratively sewed up their button-holes, stole their notebooks, upset their routine, threatened them with failure, that any thinking was done.

So he came to the great, and now generally accepted conclusion: that the mind of man is "an emergency organ." That it relegates everything possible to other functions of the body as long as it is able. That it is only when the old order of things won't work any longer that it gets on the job.

It is interesting to think of the number of business button-holes that have been sewed up during the past eighteen months. The number of business operations that would no longer work. The selling plans that didn't sell; the places where the advertising didn't pull. The fingers of the organization that somehow could no longer do their job.

It is also equally interesting to note how THE MIND back of those organizations, that "emergency organ of man," threatened with the upset of its regular routine, has finally settled down and gone to work.

And the result, which somehow has been strangely overlooked by the many publicists and propagandists, is about the healthiest thing that has occurred in this country in two long years.

Things are happening now. Almost from day to day. New thinking is being done. New methods put under way. And some of these methods are absolutely new and startling to the business world.

Take the attitude, for example, toward the wage-earner. A whole business nation is intensely active in keeping him on the job and at the highest possible wage it can afford to pay. Nobody ever heard of such a thing before. Times like these used to be the Employer's Paradise. He could hire 'em for as little as he wanted to pay, and grind 'em to the bone. Now he's trying to do just the opposite. Give 'em as much as he can afford to pay and shorten the hours.

The way he has handled the problem of his advertising is equally interesting. True Story Magazine, for example, the publication that goes almost entirely to wage-earning America, is printing this month the biggest Spring issue in its history. Literally filled with the advertising of most of the thinking minds of America.

This new thinking with the real mind at work says that "the greatest number of wage-earners must be kept on the job, that theirs is the mass outlet we have to have in order to balance our mass production, and that there in True Story Magazine is a wonderful nucleus of two million of them who have jobs and who, therefore, represent the very fulcrum of the lever by which the ball can be started rolling again."

And, strangely enough, this real thinking is working. It always does. True Story is pulling its head off for those thinking minds.

Neutralize Over-Acidity

Lessened efficiency—draggy days, lowered vitality—these are the price we pay each day for careless living.

Excess acids should be suspected whenever these symptoms appear. Acids attack delicate stomach and intestinal linings, and often result in chronic indigestion, constipation, ulcers and other serious disorders.

You can correct stomach distress almost at once. The surest and quickest way is Milnesia Wafers—which are pure milk of magnesia in a pleasantly flavored wafer. Excess acids are immediately neutralized.

Thousands of physicians and dentists are daily recommending Milnesia Wafers in preference to the old-fashioned liquid form of milk of magnesia because they are more efficient, more convenient, less expensive, and much nicer to take.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many deaths have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents' worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

KING ALFONSO STAKES CROWN TO PACIFY SPAIN

Yields His Power to Popular Wish.

parted, but in the hour and forty-five minutes between, many truths were spoken.

Senor Guerra told Alfonso it was surrender or abdication, and with no time to waste. In almost these words he said:

"You have lost the love and confidence of your people. You betrayed them when you broke the constitution and called in a dictator. That dictator died. The responsibility is now yours alone. You can't dodge it."

The king did not once lose his temper.

Senor Guerra, it is understood, told the monarch that, even by his gesture alone, he might win back much that he has lost within the next three months. King Alfonso had doubtless thought of this already.

Guerra hoped to prove his uncompromising sincerity by getting the incarcerated "provisional president" of the December "republic," Alcala Zamora, into his cabinet. He sent his son, Rafael, to the Madrid prison to announce his own coming and intention of offering two posts without portfolio to Republicans and two posts to Socialists involved in the December uprising.

Visions Republic After Election.

Zamora came close to tears when he heard of the offer. But after a council of war in the glassed in corridor where the prisoners take the sun, he, in the name of the revolutionary committee, said:

"Republicans and Socialists continue absolutely united and will go without entering the government now in formation, even in supervisory posts. We will remain outside and do all we can to bring about the inevitable triumph of the nation and the revolutionary forces we maintain. We feel sure that honest elections will proclaim a republic legally, and we are resolved that no intrigue or any influence of the old order shall deprive us of our victory."

The new premier designate visited the prison himself after his second visit to the king early this evening, and there revolutionaries surrounded him. There were "vivas" and tears. It was the first time in the history of Spain that a prime minister had gone to prison to pick his colleagues.

Day Calm in Madrid.

Gen. Damaso Berenguer, fired from the dictatorship, will remain as minister of war until his successor arrives. All signs point toward this being the young, popular, and ambitious Gen. Goded, who organized the movement in Cadiz against Primo de Rivera. Burgos Mazo, a Liberal and former minister, will probably become minister of the interior, with Senor Alvarez, another of the king's enemies, as vice premier.

The day passed with perfect calm. Republicans read the papers with jubilation, but restraint, and not one peep was heard from the monarchists and diehards.

On the last afternoon of his complete sovereignty, King Alfonso drove alone at breakneck speed in one of his fastest autos along the 30 miles of plains of Castille to the Escorial palace in the mountains. There, in the cold depths of the monastery, he prayed before the tomb of his mother, that devout constitutional ruler who fended off from his cradle worse dangers than he faces now. After an hour in the marble cavern, he emerged with tears streaming down his face and drove back to Madrid.

Queen of Spain Leaves London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—King George and Queen Mary went to Victoria station this noon to say farewell to their cousin, Queen Victoria of Spain, as she left for Madrid. The queen has been in London for a fortnight at the bedside of her mother, Princess Beatrice, who is now recovering from an attack of bronchitis.

The conversation between the two royal parties was inaudible. Before boarding the train Queen Victoria was kissed on both cheeks by the king and queen of England. She arrived in Paris this evening and left for Madrid by train a few hours later, unswayed by entreaties of friends to remain in the French capital

INDIANA HOUSE BEATS MEDICAL LIQUOR BY NARROW VOTE, 50-45

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Indiana house of representatives today rejected, by vote of 50 to 45, a proposal to amend the state prohibition enforcement act to permit sale of whisky on a physician's prescription.

Lobbyists for the Indiana Anti-Saloon league and W. C. T. U. were ordered off the floor of the house before debate began and crowded galleries, divided in sentiment, frequently interrupted the speakers with applause.

The vote was the closest on such a question in the Indiana legislature since prohibition became effective.

CASUAL GETS $50 AS A REWARD FOR FINDING JEWELRY

Steve Pennick, 51 years old, a casual, who found a $650 diamond brooch which was later taken from him by court order under the state law, got what was due him yesterday.

Steve received $50 for finding the brooch. The reward was paid before Judge Edgar A. Jonas of the Municipal court by N. J. Bock, insurance adjuster, who traced ownership of the jewelry to Miss Louise Curtis of Clinton, Ia., daughter of C. D. Curtis, president of Curtis Bros. & Co., sash and door manufacturers.

Miss Curtis lost the brooch several days before Christmas. It was found by Pennick, who was eating in bread lines. Pennick tried to pawn the article, but was arrested and taken before Judge Jonas. The judge, after consulting the law, took the brooch from Pennick. Since then a search for the owner had been made and ended with the finding of Miss Curtis. She received the brooch in court yesterday.

WALES AND BROTHER EXPLORE ANCIENT CAPITAL OF INCAS

CUZCO, Peru, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, turned explorers today, reaching this ancient capital of the Incas, where lie the ruins of the once powerful race.

The princes came by special train from Arequipa to historic old Cuzco, which is a strange mixture of massive Inca stone walls, early Spanish colonial architecture, with a renaissance church, and crude adobe buildings of the present day.

The British party entered the valley in which the town lies at 4 p. m. To get here they came through mountainous country, in which are many remains of the wealthy Incan rule. They also heard the native Indian tongue which is widely used here.

SVINHUFVUD NEW FINN PRESIDENT; WINS BY 2 VOTES

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 16.—The presidential election today resulted in a victory for Premier Pehr Evind Svinhufvud, who received 151 votes. Former President Stahlberg received 149 votes. Svinhufvud was supported by the conservatives and farmers, while the liberals and labor voted for Stahlberg.

Svinhufvud has served in governmental posts since 1885. He is leader of the Lapua, or Fascist party, of the country and has long been regarded as one of Finland's outstanding political personalities. During his career he has faced vicissitudes which once caused him to flee to Germany.

Svinhufvud won his country's affection by his long and devoted work to achieve Finland's independence from Russia. His patriotism attracted Russia's displeasure and in the early years of the world war he was deported for three years to a remote part of Siberia, but on his return was chosen Finland's first regent.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

BRITAIN ACCEPTS GANDHI'S TERMS FOR INDIAN PEACE

Offers Amnesty for All Political Prisoners.

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Peace in India now rests in the hands of Mahatma Gandhi, Viceroy Lord Irwin said today, for the government is ready to concede most of his demands if he will agree to call off his civil disobedience campaign and give some evidence of a change of heart toward the government.

Lord Irwin has set aside all of tomorrow and the next day for conferences with the picturesque little man who is leading India's campaign for independence. Today he spent several hours talking to three influential Indian delegates to the recent round table conference in London.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, who is credited with having broken down the viceroy, gave Lord Irwin his own ideas of the situation in a meeting also attended by Srimivasa Sastri and M. R. Jayakar.

Ready to Grant Amnesty.

It was to them that Lord Irwin said he was ready to grant amnesty to the political prisoners in India and to consider withdrawal of the present laws against congress party activities if Gandhi will make some concessions on his side.

He is willing to start an inquiry into charges of police brutality if a prima facie case of brutality is established, thus reversing his stand outlined in a recent reply to Gandhi's letter asking such an inquiry.

He cannot, however, grant the Nationalist demand for the right to make salt, he said, for the salt laws can be changed or repealed only by the legislature.

Gandhi Outlines Views.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Mahatma Gandhi today cabled the London Daily Herald:

"I am making every effort to find if there is any way whereby cooperation can be offered. If India is to feel the glow of freedom she must have control of her own defense, receiving such assistance as may be necessary from British experience. If in certain matters we are unable to give a good account of ourselves, the fault is not ours but is due to deliberate suppression of the whole nation in matters of self-defense.

"Nor can I reconcile myself to external control of financial matters. Englishmen can have no conception of the growing pauperism of the masses who have been bled white to provide revenue out of all proportion to the capacity of the inhabitants of this unhappy land."

15 Slain In Riot.

BENARES, India, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Fifteen persons were reported killed and 194 injured as a result of communal disturbances which broke out between Hindus and Mohammedans last Thursday. Most of the casualties were Hindus.

The rioting developed from a demand by the Moslems that all Hindu stores be closed during the funeral of a Mohammedan merchant named Agha, who, it was alleged, was killed by Hindu Nationalist volunteers for selling foreign cloth.

INSURGENTS WIN

COLON, Canal Zone, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Reports were heard today that Nicaraguan insurgents had overpowered a detachment of Nicaraguan national guardsmen in the town of Gracias a Dios and captured the place, seizing its radio station.

The United Fruit seamer Nicaro, cruising in Nicaraguan waters, was reported to have received an urgent message from Capt. Stent, commanding the guardsmen, who asked that soldiers be sent to recapture the place.

Gracias a Dios is on the extreme northeastern point of Nicaragua.

START MOVE IN ITALY TO TAKE NUDE OUT OF ART

Vatican Backs Exhibit at Milan This Year.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, Feb. 16.—Nakedness for its own sake and eccentricity of design to hide lack of knowledge of drawing has got to go from art, according to the Friends of Christian Art, an organization which, with the open support of the Vatican authorities, is organizing an exhibition to illustrate its ideas in Milan this year.

The exhibition will contain only works of artists who disagree with present trends of artistic expression and who support the moralizing campaign of the Roman church in art.

It will be a counter movement to the first Roman quadrennial exposition, recently held here, which caused the official Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, to warn Christian families to keep away and which also caused, according to report, Premier Mussolini to order arbitrarily that several pieces of painting and sculpture be removed from the walls when he visited the exposition.

Must Follow Church Code.

The Milan exhibition, however, is not purely one of Christian art. What the organizers say they have in mind is the collection of works in which "brain and design go together" and in which "the divine gift of form is not distorted voluntarily for the sake of newness." There will not be many modern Italian artists on exhibit at Milan, therefore, unless they produce something sober enough to comply with the morality code of the church in matters of art.

As a matter of fact, Osservatore Romano declares that during the last few years there has been a kind of "sane revival," especially in the representation of sacred subjects by painters.

Where the "insanity" of contemporary art is shown most shamefully, according to Osservatore Romano, is in the works of ultra modernist painters and sculptors, who lack knowledge of drawing and lack intelligence.

Move Began in 1912.

The Vatican organ says the Friends of Christian Art are resuming the work started as far back as 1912 by the then Msgr. Celso Costantini.

The Friends of Christian Art society is the outcome of the initiative of Msgr. Costantini and its aim is to bring artists back to a form of sacred art such as the inspiration of Fra Angelico created.

"No more formal virtuosities," says Osservatore. "What we want is an art where the form is the representation of the divine work, not a research for something new at the expense of intelligence and fidelity of representation of the subject."

24 OUNCE BABY HAS AN EYE DROPPER FOR HIS NURSING BOTTLE

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Harvard Lewis Hunter, born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Harvard J. Hunter at their home, weighed 24 ounces at birth. He is not to be an incubator baby, at least not so long as he continues to behave as well as he has thus far.

Until after noon today he was fed sugar and water held in the tiny barrel of an eye dropper. Later today, however, young Harvard Lewis Hunter was to have had his first taste of diluted condensed milk.

The infant appears to be a wide awake little fellow. He has a fine outcropping of dark brown hair and is gifted with a pair of roving blue eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have been married about eight years. They have no other children.

MILLIONAIRE IS SENT TO PRISON AS THIEVES' AID

On a plea of guilty to receiving and selling stolen interstate merchandise shipments, Lazarus Goodman, 60 years old, a millionaire, and former owner of the largest department store in Gary, Ind., was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham of East St. Louis in the United States District court at Hammond yesterday.

Less than two hours after the sentence Goodman was on his way to prison in custody of United States Marshal O. Hall of South Bend. In addition to the prison term and the fine the former merchant was assessed the costs of two trials, one in 1928 and yesterday's. The costs may run as high as $70,000, it is estimated. In the first trial Goodman was sentenced to two years and fined $20,000, but he won an appeal.

Yesterday Goodman, without known pre-arrangement, pleaded guilty. The charges were that while owner of the store he had purchased silks, satins, shoes and other articles taken from freight cars by a ring of thieves.

* * * A vital influence IN THE LIVES OF OVER

"I can't understand my own boy and girl . . . .

they are absolutely beyond me"

"I HAVE two lovely children, a girl and boy, sixteen and seventeen. They have clean healthy bodies, alert young minds, attractive personalities. And yet, sometimes I am in despair.

"My husband is rather strict in his views. And they are full of the modern spirit—outspoken, free and easy, impatient of control.

"The other night there was a disagreeable scene, and after they had gone to bed, my husband said, 'Ann, I can't understand my own boy and girl! They are absolutely beyond me.'

"I feel the Journal is doing wonderful work in giving mothers just this understanding they need.

"Dr. Menninger's new department, with its sympathetic handling of home problems, and its open-minded attitude toward the younger generation, has helped me more than I can tell you in dealing with my own children . . . It is really owing to the Journal I have been able to keep the peace in our home."

Fifty years ago parents took their children more for granted. Children were children—not separate, perplexing, challenging personalities. But the parental point of view has changed. Today fathers and mothers look on their children as human beings—and long to understand them.

Because the Journal is successfully interpreting modern youth and its attitude toward life, thousands of mothers turn to it for light on their problems.

2,600,000 MODERN WOMEN

actively influencing the lives of 2,600,000 modern women . . .

creating, with every issue, new tastes, habits, ideas in myriads of homes . . .

the Ladies' Home Journal is trusted for leadership in all that is new, complex, challenging in modern life. The letters on these pages are typical and significant.

"Now I love my kitchen . . . better than any room in the house"

"MY husband couldn't give me the allowance my father did. My father has had a whole lifetime to succeed in—and Walter was just starting. All the same, it's hard to take the subway when you are used to taking taxis.

"I didn't want to be a quitter—but how I hated cooking and housekeeping at first!

"You're responsible for my reform. You certainly make housekeeping seem interesting. I began fixing up my kitchen—and now I love it better than any room in the house. And I find trying out a new recipe more exciting than winning prizes at bridge.

"Hurrah for the Journal! It must be smoothing the path for many young, impatient housekeepers like me."

Housekeeping can be as interesting as publishing a magazine. We believe the average American woman today no longer thinks of housekeeping as a chore — but as a fine enterprise calling for every ounce of her brains and resourcefulness.

"Looking forward to Galsworthy's new novel"

"IT'S wonderful to have a new Galsworthy novel to look forward to. Is there anyone else who creates such delightful characters—such brilliant talk—such a fascinating world of real people? My husband and I are planning to read it aloud, as we did 'The Forsyte Saga.' I could hardly wait to tell him the good news of your recent announcement.

"And while congratulating you on your latest editorial achievement, may I add just a word in praise of Journal fiction throughout? The Galsworthy announcement is the climax to a whole year of very unusual and distinguished fiction."

John Galsworthy's first new novel in three years begins in the March Journal. "Maid in Waiting" is the title, and it represents the first book of a trilogy—the saga of the Cherrell Family.

"I really believe he was ashamed of my clothes"

"I HAD begun to have a sort of inferiority complex about my clothes—they never seemed to suit me. I really believe my husband was ashamed of them, too. He never criticized them—but he never showed enthusiasm, either.

"But since I have begun to wear real Paris models, made from your Paris patterns, I have a glorified feeling of being well dressed all the time. Everyone—including my husband—compliments me on my Schiaparelli and my Lucile, the last two I ordered. They are more successful than any dresses I have ever worn.

"The Journal has done more than solve my clothes problem—it has made me a more contented human being."

Every month in the Journal—Paris patterns, designed by the greatest French couturiers; and a new department, "Correct Dress"—containing last-minute Paris fashion notes, cabled as the magazine goes to press, and printed in green ink to distinguish them from the already accepted styles.

LYLE IN THE FELONY COURT.

Citizens who wish to clarify their thought upon the real issues of this campaign will revert to the situation in which the community found itself when Judge Lyle began his aggressive measures to cope with organized crime. At that time there was a wide and growing protest against the sensational criminality which was discrediting the city throughout the world. Citizens and civic and business agencies were demanding action. Revolt was in the air. Talk was heated and plentiful. What was needed was deeds, not words. Crime with its wide alliances in corrupt politics, its well filled coffers, its organization, and its immunities held its entrenchments and defied authority. Opposition was emotional, but vague and unorganized. Its power was potential. It needed leadership, a leadership of deeds.

Then Judge Lyle began his fight in the Felony court against the gangsters. He was only a judge of the Municipal court with limited powers and opportunity. He did not stop to polish his weapons or pray for better ones. He did not count the dangers to himself. He struck at the enemy without fear, and kept on striking. When he fell short it was because of the length of his official arm, never for lack of force or purpose. The underworld fought back with all its influence. It could not stop Lyle. The distracted citizenship began to take heart. Sentiment concentrated and came down to earth. The other agencies of community interest speeded up. The agencies of the law were energized. All along the line the fight on crime stiffened. Crime lost its insolence and began to retreat. Justice had found a formidable champion, the harassed community a fighting leader.

Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne, who has been and is in the thick of the fight, has vividly summarized the results of Lyle's efforts:

"The issuance of the vagrancy warrants started the ball rolling, and as a result we have had a different kind of cooperation in the courts, the police department, and from law enforcing officials throughout the state One of the unusual spectacles of the drive has been the conduct of these so-called big shots of gangland when taken into Judge Lyle's court. They actually cringed and begged for mercy The minute they were taken before him they started to whimper for jury trials or changes of venue, anything to get out of his court. He certainly went a long way with his limited jurisdiction.

"This campaign, in addition to exposing the true character of the criminal leaders, has struck panic into their ranks and has demonstrated to them forcibly that after all they are social outcasts entitled only to the treatment accorded their type.

"It had become a custom with many public officials to curry favor with the hoodlum chiefs—some even to truckle to them—and the consequence was that many favors were given them which the smaller fry in crime did not enjoy. The leaders are now in the same class with any ordinary criminal due to the change in attitude since the vagrancy drive started.

"The criminals who once swaggered into the courts and were the recipients of deference by court attachés and even some judges have been made to feel that they are very small, despicable, and without influence. They have been put through the police bureau of identification—their photographs and their Bertillon measurements taken. If nothing else had been accomplished by this drive, this change in the attitude of officials toward the gangsters is worth the energy spent by those engaged in the campaign.

"All departments and agencies of our government are now awake to the serious problem of organized crime and the public mind has certainly been aroused as never before."

In the annual report of the operating director of the crime commission, summarizing results of the campaign against "public enemies," Col. Chamberlin said: "Monthly reports were made to the officials designated concerning the status of the 28 public enemies and some progress was made, which developed into a vigorous campaign when Judge John H. Lyle was assigned to the felony branch of the Municipal court and issued vagrancy warrants for the entire list. The police department became suddenly energized to action; the United States attorney's office, which had been quietly acquiring evidence, began its forceful attack; the state's attorney's office assigned Messrs. Ditchburne and Brown and there was developed such a movement all along the line that the pressure became almost irresistible."

Giving all due credit to the commission and to the other judges and officials who have taken part and are taking part in this campaign, notably Chief Justice McGoorty, State's Attorney Swanson and his aids, Acting Chief Alcock and the brave men who are meeting the gangster face to face, Judge Lyle's part has been too important to be hidden by the slander and detraction of unscrupulous political rivalry.

Objections have been heard to Judge Lyle's methods. They have been called sensational. Sensational methods were essential to the sensational conditions which had paralyzed the community's defenses and made the very name of Chicago a sensation throughout the world. Lawyers solemnly declared Judge Lyle lacks the judicial temper. It was the fighting temper the city needed, and it needs that temper now. What was raised as an objection to Judge Lyle, whatever its justice, is the highest indorsement of Judge Lyle for executive office, for the mayoralty of a city at war with flagrant violence, ruthless corruption and crushing misgovernment.

THE CAPPER BILL: A MISTAKE REPEATED.

While the senate committee on agriculture is considering the Capper-Dickinson bill, aimed at the Chicago Board of Trade, the farmers and business men of this country may well consider the results of a similar adventure in the recent past.

The government put the packers in handcuffs at the behest of politicians from the rural districts who sought the admiration and votes of the farmers. The farmers sold their live stock to the packers and if the prices of live stock were not high enough the fault was that of the packers. That was the burden of the argument and it was so successfully used that in the end a great and prosperous industry was brought low. One great meat packing firm after another was forced out of business. The few that remained were barely able to keep their heads above water.

Had the packers been the farmers' enemy, the decline of the packers should have resulted in unexampled prosperity to the live stock farmers. The actual consequences were far different. Where before the packers had the resources and energy to explore the world for new markets and increase the sale of meat here and abroad their energies were now confined to a desperate effort to keep ahead of the sheriff. The farmers discovered that the ruin of the packers meant, also, a slackening of demand and therefore a lowered price for animals on the hoof.

Eventually the live stock raisers came to their senses; most of them were found on the side of the packers in the recent proceedings for modification of the decree. The politicians who had shouted loudest against the enemy were almost uniformly silent. They lacked even the courage to confess their previous mistake.

Perhaps it was not courage they lacked, but intelligence. The packers buy live stock. The members of the Board of Trade buy grain. The men who buy grain, like the packers, have built up a far-flung marketing system whose purpose it is to find outlets for the American farmers' crops. If the grain buyers are driven to the wall it is inevitable that the farmers will suffer. The movement to destroy the Board of Trade is simply another blow at the income of the farmers. The Capper bill in theory and in sponsorship is almost indistinguishable from the earlier attack upon the packers. And it can have only the same results. If it is enacted the farmers themselves must eventually force its repeal.

FOR A HELPLESS AMERICA.

Maj. Beals, in charge of military training in the Chicago public schools, calls attention to three bills now pending in the house of representatives. One would withdraw federal aid and war department coöperation in training in all preparatory and high schools; another would prohibit land grant schools from making military training a requirement; a third would withdraw federal aid from schools requiring such training.

We doubt there is immediate prospect of the enactment of these measures, but they are evidence of organized pacifism in the United States, the influence of which we cannot afford to ignore. It has shown its ability to defeat well considered measures of national defense, to reduce needed appropriations, or to retard action which ought not to be postponed. It is especially busy with propaganda to prevent civilian preparation for military duty, on the theory that if the people of the nation are not prepared to fight they will not. That this theory has no support in our national experience, but, on the contrary, is disproved by it, does not weaken the pacifist's devotion to it. Organizations of clergymen, teachers, and radicals depend upon doctrines, not experience, and they make a showing at Washington out of proportion to their numbers. But they are persistently at work upon weak-kneed congressmen and politicians, and because of our habitual indifference to international conditions have more influence upon our policy than they could have if we took the trouble either to remember our national experience or to look the present realities of the world in the face.

The rapidly growing interests and responsibilities of the nation throughout the world are so little realized by our people that we continue to neglect our duty to ourselves and our posterity to provide for their adequate defense, and pacifism in this country is more active and more mischievous than in any other. We drift therefore toward serious trouble, if not disaster.

Editorial of the Day

ARE CHICAGO POLICE HOPELESS?

[Columbus Dispatch.]

Two years ago a citizens' police committee was organized in Chicago to make a thorough study of police problems in that city. The committee roster contains the names of men whose opinions must be seriously considered, whether their recommendations are adopted or not.

A partial report from this committee contains this drastic suggestion: "It is quite within the range of possibility that the shortest road to police rehabilitation would involve mustering out the entire police personnel and substitution of a new force, under new leadership and guided by new statutory arrangements."

One does not have to look at these words very long to see what they imply: That the undoubted collusion between police administration and organized crime has penetrated the police personnel of Chicago so deeply and so generally that there is not any sound framework left upon which the better elements of the city can rely with confidence as suitable material on which to build up an honest and efficient police force for the future.

The words above quoted imply further that even the laws under which the police and the Criminal courts operate have been so seriously vitiated as a result of police collusion with crime that the best route to a cleanup of the whole situation demands new laws as well as a new police personnel.

All this would seem to give Chicago food for very serious thought; but whether the city electorate is thinking to any promising purpose or not will be seen more clearly when we see whether "Big Bill" can be renominated and reelected as mayor.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made in inquiries under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

GARY DENTAL TREATMENTS.

GARY, Ind., is experimenting with a method of dental care for children from kindergarten to grade 5-A. The theory of the service is that children should have preventive dentistry and they should pay for it, but the cost must be held within bounds.

The essential of the scheme is set forth in the following statement: "All pupils from kindergarten to 5-A inclusive pay one dollar a year and are entitled to an examination by the school dentist and a prophylaxis by the hygienist. Those who send a signed request are entitled to further dental service."

In round numbers, the schools collect eleven thousand dollars from eleven thousand pupils. This money is used to pay dentists and dental hygienists, clerks, and to purchase supplies. About four thousand dollars is paid for the salaries of dentists; the hygienists get about thirty-five hundred; clerks, about twelve hundred, and the remainder goes for supplies. Each pupil has his mouth examined, his teeth cleaned and polished, gumboils treated, teeth extracted, and advice as to what teeth should be filled and what straightening should be done. The diagnosis card goes home, and if the parent requests, and the case is proper for the school dentist, the school dentist does what is advised.

This experiment has been in operation for several years and the public, the schools, and the dentists approve of it. The dental society has a committee that oversees the work, to satisfy all parties that it is being properly done.

Stress is put on cleaning the teeth as a means of preventing decay, pyorrhea, and other tooth troubles. Incidentally, there is protection of the mouth other than care for the teeth against some disorders.

Also, considerable relief or curative work is done. Nine hundred and twenty-seven children had 1,373 teeth filled during the year 1930; 2,651 had 4,385 teeth pulled, and 82 gumboils were treated. Over 23,000 treatments for toothache were given. Of the group of about eleven thousand children only 79 refused treatment for one reason or another, and only 173 missed their dental appointments.

ADDISON'S DISEASE.

Daily Reader writes: What causes discoloration of the skin, the trunk of the body and neck being especially affected? The skin is very much darkened, with light, rather small, circular blotches in it. The arms, legs, and face are free from it. What will cure it?

REPLY.

The most important cause is Addison's disease. This is a disease of the adrenal glands. This disease is generally held to be incurable. Dr. Rountree is trying a method of treatment which seems to offer hope. Have your physician determine whether you have Addison's disease and, if so, advise you whether he thinks the Rountree treatment offers much for you.

ULCERS ARE CURABLE.

T. Y. writes: 1. What is ulcer? 2. What causes it? 3. Is it curable? 4. Will diet cure ulcer?

REPLY.

1. I judge you mean ulcer of the stomach, though there could be ulcers in many localities in the body.
2. Nobody knows what causes stomach ulcer.
3. Yes.
4. It will, in the majority of cases. Time, patience, intelligence, and persistence are required for success with the diet cure.

PURCHASE A NAME!

Chicago, Feb. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a person for convenience purchase a name desired (purely American), of a person whose name sounds harmonious, if he agrees to sell his name? Can this name become legal? 2. Can a contract be made to legalize honorably such a name? M. V. P.

1. We see no legal objection to one party assuming a name and one giving it up, in accordance with a contract worded as a purchase, if that is what you mean to ask. In general, we see no reason why the purchaser should pay the money, since, unless unfair business competition is involved, he would be in a position to adopt the new name of his choice without any payment.

2. In general, yes. We could advise to better advantage if the facts were more concretely before us. No legal proceedings are required to make a change of name valid. Hence a marriage or other legal act performed under an adopted name is not for that reason invalid. A person adopting a new name permanently should for convenience give notice of the change to those persons to whom the information may be material. In transactions in which the old name appears we suggest continuing to use it to avoid confusion. For example, if real estate records show title in the old name, it should be used in a subsequent conveyance. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPENDS ON FATHER'S STEPS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I was born in 1911 in Europe. Came to this country in 1920 with my sister and mother. At that time my father had been a resident here for about 8 years. If he draws first papers and two years later his second papers, will that make me a citizen? J. J. L.

If the father becomes naturalized before the son attains the age of 21 years the son will become a citizen through his father's naturalization, but if he desires to become naturalized, the son may file a declaration of intention of his own after he attains the age of 18 years and after he is 21 years of age he may file a petition for naturalization.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

LEASE CONTROLS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have leased a flat for one year which expires Aug. 15, 1931. Due to decrease of salary, am unable to pay the rent. Have told the landlady and she has agreed to release us when place is rented. 1. Is there any way we can move immediately and not be liable for rent after we move? 2. If we stay until lease expires and owe her rent can she force us to stay until rent is paid in full? 3. Can she force us to pay rent and not have enough money left to eat and pay household expenses? C. R. T.

1. No.
2. No.
3. The exemption from garnishment is $15 a week and from levy of execution is $400 worth, assuming in both cases that you are head of a family.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND THEN, WHAT TO DO?

The padlocking of the nice little college boys' fraternities at the University of Michigan is enough to throw a big scare into us about the future. If they're going to hang big padlocks on playhouses like that, what's to keep 'em from padlocking a Sunday school picnic ground because a half pint of hootch was found in a hollow log? And suppose they discover a quart of white mule in the visitors' gallery of congress? All right, padlocks on the capitol. And then a dry sleuth runs across some hootch parked at Niagara Falls. Bang goes a trainload of padlocks and Niagara Falls will be locked up. Once you start thinking about this thing, it gets worse and worse. After padlocking the little students' playhouses in Michigan, what's to prevent 'em padlocking the state? Think of living in Detroit and not being able to get out whenever you felt like it! And suppose—this is all supposition, so the sky's the limit—suppose they find hip likker on some boats down the Mississippi and whoever bosses that river decides to padlock it! And then a decision is reached to padlock the west coast? And that they begin by padlocking the beach in Florida and carry the thing northward and padlock the Atlantic coast? Or the whole country might be padlocked. That would be fine one way anyhow; no English lecturers could get in. But things will hardly get as bad as that. For, after all, there's not enough padlocks. But, watch out; some one is liable to start a campaign for bigger and better padlocks, and lots more of 'em, right away.

DISCONSOLATE DITTY.

I like to write for R. H. L.,
But still I shall not rush;
No matter how extremely well
I like to write for R. H. L.,
No bard should try to cast a spell
From out a sea of slush;
And what my present pen could tell
Would later make me blush.

The Father of his Country can
Arouse no spark in me,
And as for Lincoln, he's a man
Has always been beneath my ban,
And back as far as I can scan—
(A scandal though it be)—
I always see him hanging on
A sour apple tree.

I have no secret Valentine
To flaunt in public view
And celebrate with rhythmic whine—
I have no secret Valentine;
I have no hidden dark design
New lovers for to woo;
I love the man that's really mine—
There's nothing I can do.

I cannot write a poem when
The February thaws
Are everywhere and everywhen,
And every street is half a fen,
And pretty birdies back again
Drip mud from off their claws;
It's hard to write a poem in

DOROTHY KISSLING.

IT'S GETTING close to Lent. Up jumps the old question, what are you going to give up for Lent? Us? We think we'll give up drinking California wine. The two kegs we've got put away can't be opened for two months anyhow. Nature is wonderful, indeed, but, gosh, she's slow!

IF THE THREATENED Spanish revolution hangs fire much longer we'll begin to think it's propaganda to lure tourists. Since Russia has been luring American travelers from most of Europe a country that wants to get the tourists' trade has got to put on something good. We're waiting for circulars saying: "Join Our Personally Conducted Tours to Spain and See the Revolution. Our Coupons Admit to All Battles and Our Lecturers Explain Everything. Come and See History in the Making."

THE U. S. PUBLIC health service warns all and sundry to avoid the use of "Jamaica ginger extract as a beverage." It is also inadvisable to pet a rattlesnake on the head or to get too familiar with a buzzsaw. And we're going to write to the public health service and ask 'em if we should refrain from picking up red hot pokers as a regular thing.

WELL, WHAT'S GOING to happen to the bonus legislation is anybody's guess, but every time we see a veteran who has fought his country's battles overseas standing sturdily in the wind and cold on a street corner selling apples at five cents to the careless, giggling passersby we think how glad that veteran must be that he fought for a country that has so many apple trees.

ANNUAL RESOLVE.

Since Lent begins tomorrow,
I'll conveniently borrow
Decorum from the martyrs and the saints.
I'll cultivate seclusion
And I'll warrant no intrusion
Of wily Mephistophelean feints
By loreleis or gin
Or by any other sin.
I! The perfect Easter egg—devoid of taints.

NO HOLIDAYS now until next Sunday, the twenty-second, which will be George Washington's birthday. We love George and like to celebrate his birthday, but somebody always spoils the thing for us by publishing the picture of George standing up in the boat when he crossed the Delaware.

AND, BESIDES, if this warm weather continues we're not going to get it out of our heads next Sunday on G. Washington's birthday that it isn't the Fourth of July. R. H. L.

THE PLEA AGAINST LYLE

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 17, 1915.

LONDON.—An official British statement reveals that the air wing of the navy made another massed attack today on the German positions along the Belgian coast in an effort to destroy or damage the submarine base at Zeebrugge, the guns at Ostend and Middelkerke, and the aerodrome at Ghistelles. Good results were attained. Forty planes were utilized in the attack.

PARIS.—The official communication issued by the war office says that German trenches nearly two miles in extent have been taken in Champagne, to the northwest of Perthes and north of Beau-Séjour.

NOVO SELITZA, Russia.—A mixed force of Germans, Austrians and Hungarians continued throughout the day to throw itself against the Russian entrenchments defending Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina. The Germans suffered appalling losses in negotiating the passage of the Sereth, the fire of the Russian artillery being terribly effective and the Russian infantry disputing every yard of ground.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Under a gag rule which put to the blush the most despotic procedure of Cannonism, the administration Democrats jammed President Wilson's ship purchase bill through the house of representatives at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The vote was 215 for and 121 against the measure. The bill now goes to the senate. The bill limits the experiment of government ownership to a period terminating two years after the close of the European war and provides that no ships of belligerent nations shall be purchased under circumstances which would "disturb the conditions of neutrality."

FEBRUARY 17, 1901.

DRESSER, Ind.—Mrs. John Jordon is dead of paralysis at her home three miles from here. She weighed 676 pounds and was the mother of thirteen children.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Woman's club laid aside its dignity and indulged in a gay celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary. The spacious quarters on the ninth floor of the Fine Arts building was thrown open to more than 450 members of the club.

CINCINNATI, O.—Tom Sharkey, who is sparring at a theater here, got into a little difficulty with William Costello, a horse trader. Costello, who had a front seat in the theater, insisted on boxing Sharkey, stating he had boxed with Jeffries, Corbett, and others. Not knowing Costello, Sharkey refused to have anything to do with him, whereupon Costello went on the stage and struck Sharkey, who pushed him against the wall and was about to finish him when police interfered.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Pierce's Palace hotel, one of the finest structures of its kind in the country, and valued at $500,000, was destroyed by fire yesterday. All of the guests escaped without serious injury.

LIMA, Peru.—The capital of Peru has been delivered over to a Chilean army. After several hours of hard fighting, more or less even, the Peruvians in front of San Juan became completely demoralized and broke for the rear, losing the heights of San Juan, which had been previously looked upon as impregnable. Houses were sacked and burned and the city left in ashes. Blame for the defeat has been put upon the shoulders of the Peruvian officers, who, it is said, deserted their posts, leaving the men to stampede.

BEYROUT.—A Turk murdered a Christian, and a number of Christians left town and went to their villages, where they were met by Turks and ten persons killed in the fight which ensued. There was renewed fighting on Monday, but the result is unknown. There is great excitement. Business is impeded and the bazaars are closed.

CHICAGO.—The Evanston Boat club met Tuesday evening in the university office with a large attendance. Mr. John H. Hamline was appointed a committee to have the club incorporated in the name of the officers, under the law of the state, at once. A plan for a boathouse was adopted. The cost will be about $3,000.

WORLD'S FAIR ARCHITECTURE.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 14.—What nonsense is babbled over the modernistic type of architecture of the 1933 World's Fair, as exemplified by the administration building, a picture of which you show. To my mind, instead of being honest, sincere, or original, it displays utter incapacity for beauty and orginality. Practical, it is true, but ugly; its effect, I fear, will be the same as the dismal but less coarse and crude Wembley exposition buildings in London in arousing a conscious or an unconscious repulsion in beholders.

This day, especially in America, has no soul for architecture or for any other fine art. Science, by its materialism and overintellectualization, has killed soul in the age, the folk, and the artists.

What a contrast between these harsh, stony, "original" hulks of 1933 and those unoriginal adaptations of classic grace which made the Columbian exposition of 1893 a joy forever! Visitors, even though they know nothing of true art, can feel these harsh edges, angles, and masses of this "sincere" style beating at them and hacking at their eyes, and will hate them.

LOREN H. B. KNOX.

PRISON PLUMBING.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Feb. 9.—We just closed our annual state convention at Danville, during the course of which our president, Mr. M. L. McKay of Rock Island, in his annual address made reference to the wonderful editorial that you wrote last April in regard to the use of prison labor in new construction work at Joliet, Chester, and Pontiac, Ill. As a result the convention unanimously passed a resolution of thanks to the editorial staff of THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE which so ably presented to the public the conditions and problems confronting our craft because of the action taken by the state government in this matter. C. A. BOLTON,
Secretary, Illinois Master Plumbers' Association.

HEROIC POLICE WORK.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Having been a recent victim of one of the north side hotel robberies, and having experienced the unpleasant sensation of feeling a gun in my ribs, it occurs to the writer that the police used in the raid on the Grand Opera house could render a better service to the public and taxpayers by being stationed in hotel lobbies. Of course, there is much more publicity attendant on the raiding of loop theaters. HOTEL CLERK.

THE POWER TRUST.

Burlington, Ia., Feb. 14.—There has been much said in the last few months about the power trust. I would like to know if any one could actually tell me what the power trust really is. You hear governors and senators talk about the trust, but they seem to use it in a very vague way. MYRTLE I. FRENCH.

THE MAN OF HONOR.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—The man who is just and resolute will not be moved from his settled purpose, either by the misdirected rage of his fellow citizens, or by the threats of an imperious tyrant.—Horace.

This symbolizes the life, attitude and action of Judge John H. Lyle, so graphically, yet simply, fairly and justly described by Mr. Bennett in his article published in today's TRIBUNE.

No grafter, racketeer, gambler or knave will find favor in the city hall if the people who pay the cost (taxes) of municipal government put Judge Lyle in the mayor's chair. His self-respect, his dignity, his civic and judicial integrity are an honor to the city, to the state and to the country, and invite the good will and cordial support of every citizen who respects and appreciates law and order, honestly administered without fear or favor. JAMES H. DEVOE.

KINDNESS TO ELEPHANTS.

Winnetka, Ill., Feb. 14.—The jackass may be in his element but why doesn't some kind hearted citizen have the S. P. C. A. take that poor mud-besmeared elephant off the streets during the cold weather? Being a tropical animal, even the cruel little gypsy camp one ring circuses house him in steam heated quarters. NOT A VOTER.

EGG THROWING.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Words fail me to adequately express my indignation over the egg throwing incident of yesterday. Things have truly come to a fine pass when a veteran, a former grenade pitcher, deliberately and with malice aforethought, throws eggs—even eran also—at the mayor and himself. R. A. F.

STRENGTH IN UNION.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The forces against Thompson must unite to insure his defeat. If Senator Deneen is sincere in his expressed wish to end Thompsonism he will prevail upon Ald. Albert to withdraw his present candidacy for the mayoralty and unite with the one man the figures show plainly can be the victor—John H. Lyle. Otherwise Senator Deneen will betray the people merely in the selfish interest of maintaining his political organization. E. B. CRESSEN.

THE POLISH TRANSLATION.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—You state in today's paper that the pope's message was translated into French, German, Slav, Spanish, English, and Italian immediately after it was read in Latin over the radio. What about the Polish language, and at that his holiness' address was translated into Polish the first of them all. DOROTHY MACHOWSKI.

THE COST OF PATTERNS.

Paris, Ill., Jan. 28.—Why do we pay 45 cents and up for paper patterns that we used to purchase for 15 cents? DOUBLY ANNOYED.

WILBUR URGES MORE RESEARCH INTO INSANITY

Cabinet Secretary Talks to Doctors.

Some of the political implications of insanity were considered yesterday by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, in his address which opened the 27th annual congress on medical education, medical licensure, and hospitals. About 250 physicians are attending the congress, which is being held in the Palmer house under the auspices of the American Medical association.

"Human behavior in the mass determines our successes or our failures as a nation," Dr. Wilbur declared. "Politically, many of us at all times and all of us at some time act like the proverbial college sophomore.

"The demagogue has always found some soil for his sowing.

"Our social setup must always make provision for a large number of brains of inferior or very moderate capacity. Aside from those whom we would definitely label as mental cases we have many whose minds have a moderate twist up to a half turn. Any one in public life who has received a large so-called "nut" mail is conscious of the high percentage of cranks in our civilization.

The Heredity Factor.

All of us have to consider ourselves and our neighbors as possible mental cases at some future date, in Dr. Wilbur's opinion. He regards heredity as a persistent factor in national mental health.

"Democracy demands at least a majority of competent citizens with orderly habits and balanced, temperate minds," Dr. Wilbur pointed out. "Disaster awaits any people with too high a percentage of the insane, mentally defective, or emotionally unstable. In sanity lies safety."

Suggests Medical Policy.

The mental health of a nation is its greatest asset, Dr. Wilbur declared, and mental hygiene is a vital part of preventive medicine. He suggested that five steps be taken to conserve health, outlining them as follows:

"Medical students and physicians should have more adequate training in psychiatry.

"There should be internes in every hospital for the care of the insane. The presence of the inquiring student would do more to advance pathology and develop research in mental hospitals than any other factor.

"More of the research energy of the medical profession should be diverted into the difficult fields of psychology and psychiatry.

"The public should be educated to view mental diseases as they do other diseases.

Requirements for Students.

Innate intelligence and a knowledge of mathematics and English are the essential requirements for a medical student, Dr. Wilburt C. Davidson, dean of the Duke university school of medicine, Durham, N. C., declared in discussing entrance requirements for medical schools. Dr. Davison expressed doubt of the necessity for four years' college study preceding the medical course.

The modern high school, he asserted, provides an education nearly as broad as was given by colleges in 1893, when Johns Hopkins first made a college degree an entrance requirement. Dr. Davison advocated personal interviews as the best means of judging an applicant's intelligence, declaring that academic records do not provide a wholly accurate indication.

Examination systems of European medical schools were described by Dr. Willard C. Rappleye, dean of the college of physicians and surgeons of Columbia university, New York. In Germany, he said, final examinations are extended over eight weeks and about 20 per cent of the students fail. Interneship in French hospitals probably affords the most remarkable experience available to medical students anywhere in the world, he said. In Great Britain examinations come so frequently as to interfere with the process of education, causing the student to devote undue time and energy to the succession of tests.

BISHOP CANNON'S SON GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE BY CALIFORNIA JUDGE

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Maj. Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon Jr., was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge Elliot Gibbs today for violation of the state labor laws.

Cannon, who formerly headed a military school at El Monte, near here, was convicted on one charge of failing to pay a salary to an employé. Nine other similar charges are pending trial. In two other cases the juries disagreed.

A motion by Cannon's counsel to release him on his own recognizance pending outcome of a notice of appeal which was filed was denied and the court set his bail at $1,000.

WOLHEIM UNDER KNIFE; REDUCING CAUSED ILLNESS

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Following a major operation, Drs. Clarence Hopkins and Norman Sprague pronounced Louis Wolheim, movie star, as resting in a satisfactory condition.

Wolheim's operation was an emergency measure. The surgeons removed his appendix, operated on a stomach ulcer, and removed an intestinal obstruction.

He recently became weakened because of an effort to reduce thirty pounds in three weeks in order to fit himself for a talking motion picture.

Reducing Makes Singer Ill.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Jeanne Gordon, former Metropolitan opera singer, is in a New York sanitarium where she went after an attempt to reduce her weight too rapidly, Mrs. Elsie Sloan Farley, a friend, said today. Mrs. Sloan said Miss Gordon became ill after reducing her weight 30 pounds in three weeks. The singer's mother, whose home is in Canada, is here with her, Mrs. Farley said.

DRINKING PARTY BARES PLOT OF 3 TO ROB WIDOW

Mrs. Johanna Peterson, 75 years old, a widow who lives on a farm eight miles southeast of Elgin with her three children, was thankful yesterday that three men who plotted to rob her decided to delay the crime a day while they attended a drinking party. The party resulted in their being under arrest yesterday at the Fillmore street police station where they confessed the plot.

Oliver Olsen, 25 years old, 2515 Charleston street; Ralph Rogers, 33, of 121 South Honore street, and Thomas Deere, 24, of 2827 Edgewood avenue, were the prisoners.

Police had answered a call that a disorderly party was in progress at 4225 Jackson boulevard. They found there Mrs. Gladys Olsen, estranged wife of Oliver Olsen, and the remains of a drinking bout, and two loaded revolvers, but the men were gone.

Mrs. Olsen said she feared her husband was about to commit a crime and she hoped the police would stop him. She gave his address. Sergt. Walter Payne and his squad seized him and while he was still under the effects of the liquor, he told of his intentions and named his co-plotters, who were found sleeping off the effects of the party.

They had intended going to Mrs. Peterson's home Sunday night, binding her and her children with rope, and rifling the house, but delayed the raid to attend the party. Olsen said Rogers had recently worked on a farm near Mrs. Peterson's and that she had $40,000 hidden in the house.

Mrs. Peterson denied having the money. She said her husband, Andrew, died four years ago, leaving an estate of about $100,000 and which consisted of three farms and personal property. What money she has she keeps in a bank, she said. Her children, Mathilda, Fred, and August, reside with her. She has two other sons, Alfred, who lives on a farm two miles away, and Frank, of Ottawa.

BRITISH HOUSE VOTES MORE CASH FOR DOLE BY A CLOSE MARGIN

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Labor government's majority on the division in the house of commons tonight shrank to 31.

Tonight's division was on a Conservative amendment to a government resolution which would extend borrowing powers for the unemployment fund from $350,000,000 to $450,000,000.

The Conservatives demanded these powers be extended by only $50,000,000 instead of $100,000,000, but were defeated by 251 to 220 votes.

EVANSTON WIFE'S 'GET EVEN' PLAN TOLD TO POLICE

Mrs. Mary Jennings, 1719 Greenwood avenue, Evanston, has been accusing her husband, Frank, a pipe mill worker, of paying attentions to other women, and, according to Jennings, started a series of petty annoyances to "get even." He made his complaint to the police last night. He said his wife did as follows:

Took the oil stove apart and hid the pieces so he could not get himself any meals.

Threw soiled clothing behind his bed.

Cut the telephone and electric lighting wires.

Tore up all his bed quilts and shirts.

Tore up a new $45 dress he gave her.

Policewoman Georgiana Juul was assigned to make an inquiry and reported back that all was settled. Mrs. Jennings had promised to cease her annoyances.

MOFFETT DENIES NAVY MEN DERIDE AIR MAIL FLYERS

Brown Charges Signs of Contempt.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A dispute between Postmaster General Brown and Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, tonight climaxed a series of developments centering around the post-office department.

It concerned the attitude of government aviators toward commercial flyers. Moffett denied a statement by Brown that the navy aviators spoke of commercial flyers "with some contempt."

The senate late today adopted a resolution requesting the postmaster general not raise parcel post rates until they have been approved by congress.

It acted after Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] had said Brown and the interstate commerce commission planned increases which would cost the American people $7,000,000.

Earlier, Brown called air mail operators into conference and told them they would have to increase service and readjust rates to meet a deficit estimated at 150 million dollars for the next fiscal year.

Stirs Reply from Moffett.

In his speech to the operators, Brown warned they could not look for support from military branches of the government since these "were not at all enthusiastic about any part civil aeronautics might play in any preparedness program," but spoke of such aid "with some contempt."

This produced a statement tonight from Admiral Moffett saying he was "sure that no one in naval aviation has ever spoken with contempt about civil or commercial pilots and airmen or what they have accomplished."

"We have the highest respect for them," he added, "and believe that they would be of tremendous value to the country in time of war."

Brown Criticizes Service.

Addressing the operators, Brown said schedules were not being met, connections at junction points not being completed, and average speed not kept up to standard."

"Figures furnished me indicate highest percentage of meeting schedules in a fifteen day period is but 14 per cent," he added. "This is very low. Average speed maintained by you operators is but 102 miles an hour. This is rather low and you ought to do better."

Assistant Postmaster General Glover, in charge of air mails, warned "unless you readjust your rates and unless we do so, congress will do it for us."

The operators appointed a committee to consider changes in the formula for fixing rates of pay for operators under the air mail act which will have been in effect a year in May.

Delay Parcel Increase.

In arguing for his resolution to delay parcels post raises McKellar said the postmaster general and the interstate commerce commission were planning to increase parcels post rates tomorrow to a level which would cost the American people $7,000,000.

McKellar and Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.] contended the raise would be in the interest of the express companies which they said would get much of the business now handled by the parcel post.

McKellar added the increases would be a heavy burden on the farmers.

Chairman Phipps of the postoffice committee, contended the interstate commerce commission was in a better position to judge rates than any congressional committee.

Senator Black [Dem., Ala.] read into the record a list of subsidies to steamship companies.

In one case, he said, a steamship company got $102,000 for carrying $3 worth of mail on ships it had bought from the government for $396,000, and which cost the government $15,000,000 to build.

"Although it is very bad to give government money to starving citizens," he said, "it seems to be considered all right to give it to the starving ship owners."

Machine Saves Five Babies' Lives

Specially Designed

The lives of five newborn babies have been saved during the last five weeks after the failure of all other methods of resuscitation by the use of an artificial respiration machine designed especially for infants. This was revealed yesterday at Michael Reese hospital, where the machine, one of three given by Mrs. Bertram J. Cahn, has been installed. Heads of the hospital believe that this is the first application of the artificial respirator for newborn infants and that it opens a new field for the use of the machine, invented by Philip Drinker of Harvard university.

NEW BUILDINGS PROPOSED FOR HOSPITAL HERE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The sum of $510,000 for the construction of new buildings and the extension and remodeling of present buildings at the Marine hospital in Chicago is included in public buildings authorizations recommended to congress today by the budget bureau, with the approval of President Hoover.

The total limit of cost of the buildings specifically authorized under the recommendation is $20,105,000, which will be added to projects totaling $271,955,676, heretofore specifically authorized outside of the District of Columbia out of an authorized lump sum of 415 million dollars. There also is pending in congress recommendations for other specific authorizations totaling $49,515,000, which, with those recommended today, will be included in the second deficiency bill.

In today's list of recommendations was an increase from $1,525,000 to $1,700,000 in the limit of cost of the postoffice at Rockford, Ill.; $100,000 for a new postoffice at Lawrenceville, Ill., and $85,000 for a new postoffice at Hillsboro, Ill.

The house today passed the bill authorizing $45,000,000 for leasing and constructing postoffice buildings. It is proposed to purchase 78 branch buildings and construct 91 buildings.

FINES DAUGHTER OF DUKE OVER BILL FOR DRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Lady Mary Montagu, daughter of the duke of Manchester and the former Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, was severely rebuked in the Westminster County court today in the matter of settling a $145 dressmaker's bill, which was paid after the action had been brought into court. After hearing the case Judge Sir Alfred Tobin declared:

"It is obvious that the plaintiffs could not trust anything Lady Montagu promised or said. The whole trouble was brought about by her. It is perfectly disgraceful the way some people treat shops. She has been written to again and again. Then in order to save herself from imprisonment she sends a check to the wrong person just in order to save her skin. She then comes here with a piteous whine."

Because the judge believed that she did not mean to be guilty of contempt the court remitted a part of the $50 fine imposed on her for failure to appear last week when she was ordered to pay her indtebtedness to the dressmaker in three $50 installments. When she explained that full payment arrived after the action had been started the judge ordered the defendant to pay part of the court costs. She was not present to hear the rebuke.

BANK LETS HIM HAVE $500,000, SPURNS SECURITY

Director Offers Bank's Own Stock, He Says.

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Joshua L. Cowen, a director who owes to the suspended Bank of United States $500,000 on unsecured loans, testified today that the bank had rejected his offer of security when he obtained the loans. Cowen is an uncle of Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank, who, with seven other officials of it and its affiliates, is under indictment on felony charges in connection with the failure of the institution on Dec. 11 last.

Cowen was the first witness to be examined today when the public hearings in the inquiry into the affairs of the bank were resumed by Special Deputy Attorney General Max D. Steuer, who is in charge of the dual state and county investigation.

Bank Director Since 1925.

Cowen, a toy manufacturer, has been a director of the bank since 1925, he testified, and subsequently became a member of the executive committee, which supposedly passed upon all loans made by the bank.

The witness admitted that the bank was organized in his own office, but said he had no connection with it at that time—in 1913.

"How much did you owe when the bank closed, asked Steuer, who was conducting the examiantion.

Obtains Other Loans, Too.

Admitting that this and other loans were obtained without security, Cowen added that he had offered bank stock as security. The bank wouldn't accept it, he said.

"What security did you offer?" he was asked.

"Bank of United States units."

Cowen said that he originally had owed the bank $625,000, borrowed on June 19, 1929, but had paid back $300,000 before borrowing again. In addition to the $500,000 he now owes, he is the indorser on other loans to his friends, he admitted.

Cowen, like some of the directors who had preceded him as witnesses, professed ignorance of much of the bank's affairs. He said that while the executive committee was supposed to pass upon loans, it actually did nothing of the kind, and that the officers passed on them.

"High officers?" asked Steuer.

Cowen named the following: Marcus, C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of the board; Saul Singer, executive vice president; Simon H. Kugel, vice chairman of the board; Isidor J. Kresel, a director and counsel for the bank, and Henry W. Pollock, a vice president and directors—all of whom were indicted last week, along with Herbert Singer, son of Saul, and A. S. White, directing head of the bank's principal affiliations, now bankrupt.

The statement which seemed to surprise Steuer more than all others made by Cowen, however, was that he didn't even know the affiliate of the bank had any subsidiaries.

Those 60 Subsidiaries.

"What! You didn't even know that?"

"Not even that," replied the witness.

The four affiliates of the bank had sixty subsidiaries.

Cowen testified that the directors never were told of the terms of agreements among the bank and its affiliates. The directors approved these contracts automatically without even reading them, he said.

From what Marcus, president of the bank, informed his executive committee and the board of directors the superintendent of banks believed the bank to be a fine institution and complimented the officers on their conduct of it. Cowen informed the deputy attorney general later.

Predict Bank's Failure.

It was with considerable surprise, said Cowen, that since the bank's failure he has read in newspapers of how Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick had so severely censured the bank's officers and called upon them repeatedly to alter their banking practices.

Steuer read from the banking department's report for 1929 a long analysis of the relation of the bank to its affiliates in which it was stated that the affiliated did not have the proper liquid assets to cover the loans.

"Now, that was a prediction as long ago as 1929 that the bank would go burst," said Mr. Steuer.

"I never heard that report before," said Cowen.

BENHAM, FINANCIAL WIZARD, RETURNS TO FACE INVESTIGATION

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Albert W. Benham, financial wizard, returned to Belvidere today, looking pale and nervous, but apparently willing to face the investigation into his get-rich-quick scheme which will be resumed Tuesday when the Boone county grand jury reconvenes. His wife, who left Belvidere Feb. 11 with him, did not return.

In his office, where the door was guarded by D. B. Beaton, secretary of the Blackhawk Finance corporation, Benham refused to talk. Change of feeling toward Benham since the last session of the grand jury will result Tuesday in the placing of much interesting testimony before that body, according to State's Attorney A. J. Strom.

Strom refused to state whether an indictment will be made against the former wizard of finance.

CALIFORNIA ASKS 160 MILLION U. S. AID FOR PROJECT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A California delegation, headed by Walter E. Garrison, state director of public works, today called at the White House and urged President Hoover to lend his support to a project calling for federal financing of a 160 million dollar state water conservation project, involving operations in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. A government loan, at interest rates at least 1 cent lower than funds could be obtained from other sources, was advocated.

The delegation is asking that a special committee, composed of members of the senate and house irrigation committees, make a personal inspection of the proposed improvement as soon as possible and report back to congress, so that the legislation necessary to legalize a loan can be enacted within the near future. It is understood the proposed loan would run over fifty years.

DOCTOR TRIED TO HURT HER IN CAR CRASH, WIFE SAYS

A bill for divorce, charging that her husband tried to injure her by driving his automobile over a railroad viaduct, was filed in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday by Mrs. Josephine Congdon of Highland Park against Dr. Charles B. Congdon, an Oak Park physician.

The bill states that the couple were married on June 19, 1926, and that they lived together until Sept. 15, 1930, when Dr. Congdon forced his wife to leave his apartment, making it necessary for her to secure a position as a school teacher to earn a living.

Last November, the bill charges, Dr. Congdon invited his wife to ride with him in his automobile. An argument ensued, Mrs. Congdon charges, and then the physician drove at great speed over the edge of a viaduct in an endeavor to wreck the automobile and injure her.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

William Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Owen Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. His indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his college tuition and material demands.

Mart McGuire shows Dix how to change the O T brand of Gray's cattle to his own different brand.

Tom, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch, with a passage to it, through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal retreat for cattle.

With various misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in Lost valley. Dix's profits mounted steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend named Frosty arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he has given up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build secretly a competitive plane for a prize. A shed built against the crevice, hiding the entrance to Lost valley, seems to them just the place for their work.

Owen Gray's aunt and cousin, Helen, visit the O T ranch. Helen knew Chuck in Baltimore. From what Gwen tells her, Helen guesses the true situation involving Dix. Helen and her friend, Josephine Parker, call on Larry—their nickname for Chuck. When Helen sees Dix it's a case of love at first sight, but Dix believes she is Chuck's girl and avoids her. The girls become frequent visitors at the ranch. Helen probes through Dix's desk and learns a lot about his private business.

Chuck and Frosty buy a plane, which they use for commercial flying to earn money. Chuck complains about cattle being in the shed and trampling on the new airplane's wing. One day they hear a cow bellowing and are unable to discover where the sound comes from. They decide to have a hunt for the cow ghost. Dix walks with Helen to the shed.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

LOVE BARRIERS.

Dix felt as if a jolt of electricity had shot through his body. The back of his neck prickled. Objects wavered before his eyes. He turned his head carefully, slanting a glance down to make sure he had heard aright, and discovered that Helen was looking off toward the right, apparently absorbed in studying the rugged slope of the ridge that thrust out toward the shale ridge and sheltered the basin from the chill winds that swept the range land in winter. He followed her interested look, saw nothing that had not always been there in plain sight, and glanced again at her face. She was chewing a corner of her lip in a way that must be painful, and her eyelashes were wet and blinking too fast for clear vision. He had only a fleeting view of her profile, and even that was denied him when she turned her head farther to one side. She was walking along heedless of her steps, and just as he was pulling his glance away she stumbled over a small stone and almost fell.

Dix caught her, held her for an instant longer than was needful, and almost pushed her away from him. He did not say anything. He had his teeth clenched together, afraid that he might say too much. Once let himself go—what the devil was she crying about? Nothing he had said, for he couldn't remember that he had said anything. What was it she had in her mind that she wanted him to read? She wasn't trying to flirt with him—as if she were she sure had a funny way of going at it. Made him come half over here with her and then began to razz him about trying to stall. Mail about what? Not about worshiping the ground she walked on—she didn't know anything about that and she never would. She'd have to dig into his mind with dynamite to find that out, he'd buried it so deep. She——

"What makes you say I'm stalling?" he demanded so suddenly that his voice sounded to him like a stranger talking. "What do you think I'm stalling about?"

They had reached the shed hangar with its raw, rough boards. The Blue Bird stood with its nose thrust out into the luminous half light like a dog looking from his kennel. Helen walked aimlessly over it, reached up and ran her palm down the smooth propeller blade, her lip still caught between her teeth as if she were afraid to let it go.

"O, you——!" With an unexpected movement of despair Helen caught the prop in a fierce grip of her fingers and held on, dropping her forehead down upon her upstretched arm. "You—you just lie and—why don't you trust me?"

Once more the electric shock hurled itself through Dix, but this time it left chilled lead behind it. Helen was crying, leaning there against the propeller blade. Not out loud like an angry child, but silently, slowly, fighting every sob and strangling it in her throat before it could find voice.

Dix had stood looking while men lowered his mother's dead body into its grave. He had heard the dull plunk of frozen clods falling on his father's coffin. They had torn his heart with an agony of grief beyond all words. But it seemed now that he never had really suffered before in his life. Never in this two or three minutes when he stood there with his nails digging into his palms and the cords standing taut as fiddlestrings along his neck and listened to Helen crying there in the dusk.

She was Chuck's girl. If it were for Chuck she was crying like that he might comfort her and endure the agony of her grief. But this wasn't for Chuck. Dix had hurt her somehow. Maybe he hadn't treated her well enough, he had been so careful not to overstep or show his feelings. She wanted to be friends; he had seen that all along. She wanted Chuck's brother to like her and she couldn't understand——

"O, I hate you—I hate you——" she began saying over and over, whispering the words with more intensity than if she had shouted. "O, you're killing me——"

Dix wasn't sure, but he thought that was what she said just as his arms went out. He saw them move toward her bent shoulders, his light shirt-sleeves showing plainly in the gloom. His fingers almost touched her—almost she was in his arms, crushed close against him.

Then Dix stiffened, swung himself away from her. She was Chuck's girl. He was a thief, but he wasn't that kind of a thief. Cattle thief, rustler, anything with a long loop and almost seeing it tangle around his feet—but he wasn't a Judas. Not yet. He couldn't betray his brother with a kiss. He was walking, and he could hear Helen sobbing out loud. He walked faster down the road and across the bridge and through the gate and so to the corral. He brought up against the haystack and dropped upon a heap of sun, fragrant hay, his face buried upon his slackly folded arms.

Cosly walked over and stood looking at him over the fence, reached and snatched a mouthful of hay and walked off chewing. A katydid crawled out from under a rail on the ground and rasped a strident threnody within a foot of Dix's ear, deafened by agony. A horse sneezed hay dust from his nostrils over by the mangers; a cow over in the lower pasture started bawling monotonously. None of these familiar sounds penetrated to Dix's consciousness; but when down in the willows along the creek there rose a sweet, plaintive call of "Whippoorwill! Whippoorwill." Dix stirred uneasily there in the hay. As poignant cry came again and again through the deepening dusk, his shoulders began to heave and shake. But no sound came from his lips even then. Like Helen, Dix was fighting every inch of the dark way.

Dix heard the ghost hunters call loud and facetious summons to the shed, but he neither stirred nor answered a word. He listened for the sound of Helen's voice, and heard it crisp and controlled, replying to some question of Chuck's. Then Jo asked what she had done with Dix's body, and Helen laughed with a flippant note that brought Dix's blood surging hot to his face.

"O, the stroll in the starlight was not so hot, and old man Larrabee gaily announced that he had work to do—his favorite alibi, I've noticed—and left me flat. Imagine my embarrassment!" That forced, tinkling laugh followed, other laughter joining in. The voices receded, some one—it was Jo, I vaguely remembered afterward—contributing further to the general merriment with a slangy comment on Dix's unsociability.

When they were gone and the placid little night sounds resumed their familiar symphony, he rose and went up to the house and to bed, feeling old and tired and indifferent to anything life could send upon him. If Mart had played up they wouldn't find that cow. If not, they might hit upon his secret. He didn't care except for the disgrace to Chuck and Gram. But they had each other and they wouldn't worry very long about Dix. He could get out of their life and not leave so much of a hole in it after all. Any cow man, he thought bitterly, could fill his place on the ranch.

He was wide awake when Chuck came in, walking on his toes in the belief that Dix was asleep. But he knocked over a chair, and Dix rolled over with a great creaking of springs to show he had been disturbed, whereupon Chuck lit the lamp and apologized for his clumsiness.

"What time is it?" asked Dix, yawning and blinking owlishly at the light.

"About two-thirty. The girls are staying over."

"How'd you make out with the ghost?" Dix yawned again and burrowed his cheek into his pillow with his eyes turned to the wall. "Hear anything?"

"Not a darn thing. I thought maybe some critter had got caught in behind the shed. That's what it sure sounded like last evening. A cow must've got in between the wall and the rock, and not sense enough to back out. Only it wasn't. We darn near wrecked the back wall of that shed and there wasn't a thing. The rock stands straight there, except one place where it's got boulders. A cat could hardly squeeze in there."

"I know it," grunted Dix. "I coulda told you that much."

Mart and Tom had evidently done a good job of plugging.

Good morning!

Jerky and uncertain direction makes this farce comedy singularly pointless and renders ineffectual the efforts of a cast that is splendid, with the exception of Virginia Sale, who is impossible in the rôle of a maid.

The piece is for adults only, and the story so meandering that I shan't bother trying to parse it for you. Situations are, for the most part, either overdone or underdone. Lines click only now and then. The audience laughs occasionally, because of the likableness and intelligence of the players, but maintains on the whole a polite and somewhat bewildered silence.

Joan Bennett, Lew Ayres, et al—minus one—are entitled to better things than "Many a Slip."

KIND—Old fashioned thriller—without the thrill.

ACTING—Fair.

SETS—Studio.

SCENERY—Several beautiful desert scenes, otherwise unremarkable.

PHOTOGRAPHY—All right.

DIRECTION—Ho hum!

STORY—About a blonde who, against the warning of her friends, succumbs to the fascinations of a wealthy Hindu, and in her lover's absence countries [which is not, of course, Scotland] comes to wish that she hadn't.

The heroine is pretty and the hero very dark and daguerreotype. The picture as a whole is a bore, and accompanying music does little to palliate your ennui.

REMARKS: The Cinema has installed sound and announces that it has some rare treats ahead in talking productions. Too Many Are Seeking Pulpits, Eiselen Asserts Garrett Institute Plans to Restrict Entrants.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Theological seminaries are producing too many ministers. That fact soon will have an effect on admission rules in all of them, President C. F. Eiselen of Garrett Biblical institute predicted yesterday. He spoke before the alumni of his institution and the Chicago Weekly Preachers' meeting held jointly at Garrett.

President Eiselen said the present enrollment at Garrett must be reduced and this fall admission will be greatly restricted. He cited the great difficulty in finding pastorates for the graduates.

"Garrett always has taken young men of quality," said Dr. Eiselen, "but we have never greatly restricted the number enrolled. Now in cutting down the enrollment we shall have to place even greater stress on the quality of entrants."

Two factors in over production of preachers were cited by Dr. Eiselen. The first is the merging of smaller churches in rural districts and in cities; the other is the return of foreign missionaries following curtailment of funds for their support during the economic depression.

Dr. Paul Douglas, statistician for the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, recently showed from his study of the government census that the number of churches of all denominations had decreased in the last decade, while the average membership of existing churches had increased from 150 to 190 in the period. He reported healthy increase in church membership in spite of the decrease in the number of churches.

In judging applicants President Eiselen said there are qualifications other than scholarship to consider, though fluency of speech and favorable personality cannot be considered as enough, Mr. Eiselen said.

"We must work out some combination of all these qualities if we are to admit only the highest type of men," he said.

Dr. Eiselen also revealed a scarcity of dormitory space. He declared 150 to 160 students are occupying space designed for 100. The total enrollment at Garrett is 468. Last year 72 students were graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

"We were able to find places for all of them," Dr. Eiselen added, "but that was not easy, and in some cases it took a long time."

POPE DENOUNCES GROWTH OF OTHER RELIGIONS IN ROME

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 16.—Italy's unity of thought and spirit is being menaced by a spread of Protestant activities in the Italian peninsula, Pope Pius XI. declared today while instructing Lenten preachers and the parish priests of Rome on the objectives for their Lenten sermons. The pontiff estant proselytism and pledged them his aid in all ways.

The pope spoke with vehemence and implied strong criticism of the Italian government for permitting Protestant activities here since the Lateran treaty had established Catholicism as the state religion. The pontiff's remarks followed a campaign in the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, which has been attacking Wesleyan and American Methodist establishments in Italy.

The invasion by Protestantism, said the pope, was one of the country's greatest evils. "From the lagoons of Venice to the Ionian sea of Sicily," continued the pontiff, "and especially in Rome, our Rome, this proselytism is being promoted and is allowed to go on with so much damage to souls and with such menace to that which is most precious in the life of a people, namely, deep unity of thought and spirit which is never so effectively affirmed as in religious unity.

"This is permitted to go on in such a way that even the Protestants themselves are astonished at the progress they are making. It is allowed to continue to such an extent that yesterday there was talk of a Protestant pilgrimage to Italy and today there is talk of holding a Protestant synod in Italy. It is allowed to go on till it even tries to acquire territory in Italy."

Besides Protestantism, Pius pictured other evils which he said are menacing Italy today and against which he told his preachers to direct their sermons.

First the pope spoke of the immoral and sacrilegious press. Then he brought up immoral picture shows, saying "the vaudeville acts which accompany them are quite as indecorous and offensive to the modesty of young men and women as can be imagined."

And, third, the pope discoursed on the breaking of the Sabbath, asserting that in this the government of Italy was one of the worst offenders, since it engages in public work on the day of rest.

The pontiff said he had sought to intervene against these evils but without effect. Instructors in charge of youths and children in the state ballila and advance guard organizations keep their charges so busy with military drills on Sunday that they are unable to perform their religious devotions, the pontiff averred.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

MRS. FISKE revived "Becky Sharp" at the Blackstone theater last night, and the elder generation glowed with sentimental approval. The occasion was, on the part of the actress, a gesture of farewell to a great chapter of her past; and, on the part of her audience, an evocation of bright memories of its youth.

But if there were any representatives of the younger generation in attendance, they must have felt that the age of the play has been underestimated. Even I, who saw the original production, felt that this dramatization of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair" must be far, far older than the thirty years with which it is officially credited. Ninety years, or even one hundred and fifty, is the estimate that I would place on "Becky Sharp" from last night's impressions. The flavor of high antiquity emanates from it. I became almost convinced that I never saw it within the three decades of my playgoing experience, but in some earlier incarnation.

The explanation of my reaction is probably to be found in the fact that "Becky Sharp," when first staged, came at the end of a period. The date of its production not only marked the turn of the century, but also a time of transition. Tastes were changing; the Victorian epoch was ready for sepulture among the tombs of its ancestors; and modernism was swiftly coming in. A year or two later, Mrs. Fiske was beginning to flirt with Ibsen. Yes, "Becky Sharp" was born old. And as a vintage comedy it fails to find mellowness in Mrs. Fiske's somewhat casual revival.

The star herself plays the young heroine with the alertness and buoyancy of her rare technique in the comedy of manners. She gives her audience the keen, scheming mind, the sly wit, the merry adventurousness of Thackeray's triumphant minx. She catches some of the illusion of youth—almost as much as is necessary, for Becky's spirit was always cynically in advance of her years. In short, she is a satisfactory approximation of the Mrs. Fiske who had such a gallant success in this piece so long ago.

The other members of the cast seemed to feel that they were engaged in the archaeological business of a "period" revival, and that they should deport themselves as if stuffed with undigested history and Thackerayan tradition. They were like a stock company laboriously engaged in rôles in which they did not feel at home; and, as a result, the spirit of persuasiveness departed from the performance.

Leslie Austen, as Rawdon Crawley, seemed to be reasonably acquainted with Maurice Barrymore's approach to the style of that heavy dragoon. But Mrs. Fiske's many other associates treated "Becky Sharp" like a charade.

Meighan and Huston in Chicago on Way Back to Hollywood

Westward bound for filmland Thomas Meighan and Walter Huston, veteran stage and screen stars, paused for a brief visit in Chicago yesterday and discussed their future plans.

Meighan was accompanied by his wife, the former Frances Ring. They have been married twenty years. Meighan will have a stellar rôle in the "Young Sinners," with Dorothy Jordan. It will be his first film in three years. After this vehicle is completed he will make "Daddy Long-legs" provided, he said, the "public still wants to see me."

Huston played the rôle of "Abraham Lincoln" in a recent film of that name.

Huston expressed his opinions about those who write books disparaging Lincoln.

"Such books make me tired," he declared. "If any one has got anything to say against the man who took this country through the civil war he's not talking to me."

Mr. Huston added that he had made a study of Lincoln before attempting to play the character part on the stage, and he had found nothing to Lincoln's discredit.

Mr. Huston's next picture is "The Upper Underworld."

Happiness Isn't Machine Made, Einstein Says

Life Still Too Insecure, He Tells Students.

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Civilization has failed to make use of applied science, Albert Einstein, German physicist, told several hundred students of the California Institute of Technology today.

"Why does this magnificent applied science which saves work and makes life easier bring us so little happiness?" he said. "The simple answer runs: 'Because we have not yet learned to make sensible use of it.'

"In war it serves that we may poison and mutilate each other. In peace it has made our lives hurried and uncertain. Instead of freeing us in great measure from labor that exhausts spirituality, it has made men into slaves of machinery, who for the most part complete their monotonous long day's work with disgust and must continually tremble for their poor rations.

"You will be thinking that the old man sings an ugly song. I do it, however, with a good purpose, in order to point out a consequence.

"It is not enough that you should understand about applied science, in order that your work may increase man's blessings. Concern for the man himself and his fate always must form the chief interest of all technical endeavors, concern for the great unsolved problems of the organization of labor and the distribution of goods—in order that the creations of our mind shall be a blessing and not a curse to mankind.

"Never forget this in the midst of your diagrams and equations. I could sing a hymn of praise with the refrain of the splendid progress in applied science that we already have made and the enormous further progress you will bring about. We are indeed in the era and also in the native land of applied science.

"But it lies far from my thoughts to speak in this way. Much more I am reminded in this connection of the young man who had married a not very attractive wife and was asked whether or not he was happy.

"He answered thus:' 'If I wished to speak the truth then I would have to lie.'

"So is it also with me. Just consider a quite uncivilized Indian, whether his experience is less rich and happy than that of the average civilized man. I hardly think so.

"There lies a deep meaning in the fact that the children of all civilized countries are so fond of playing Indians."

Overcrowded Colleges Called Peril to Teaching.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Sir Michael Sadler, master of University college, Oxford, issued a warning before the Leeds Luncheon club today.

"Never in history have universities been so numerous, so thronged or so fruitful in the advancement of knowledge as today," he declared.

In Great Britain, he pointed out, one out of every 1,000 in the population attended a university, in France one out of 700, in Germany one out of 650, in Rumania one out of 550, and in the United States one out of every 125.

"One heartily sympathizes with the great desire of scores of thousands of students to enter the precincts of learning, but excessive numbers of students dilute the influence of great teachers," Sir Michael said. "There is a widespread feeling in the United States that many American universities are far too thickly populated. In Germany their populations have doubled since the war, consequently there are signs of dangerous unrest.

"We in England doubtless have been a little too backward in the percentage of students in our population, but our instinct is that the country can be drenched with too strong a dose of bachelors of arts."

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE—

Old Wood Chopping Exercise Will Make a Slim Waistline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One thin about this waist line business is that you do not have to go far afield to find a good exercise or two to get yours down to the measurement you want. You can take out some of the old stand-bys, even those that served in good old school gym days, and get into action with them and be assured that inches will be removed.

Just take one old timer and give it a trial. Let's take the wood chopper—one that a certain gentleman incarcerated at Doorn has been camera-caught doing, one that prize fighters have worked with, one that is constantly recommended to tired business men on their sick leaves, vacations, or wooded estates.

It is assumed that every household now has some kind of canned musical instrument. I would urge women with exercises to do for their waist lines or elsewhere to turn on the music, every time. It gives just that proper tang to an occupation that otherwise might be too dull for continuance. But you get a lively tune and, unless you're awfully dead inside and too old for exercise, anyway, it supplies just that magic spark to go on and on with the good work. I'll wager those morning radio exercises with their hundreds of thousands of followers wouldn't extract one-tenth the faithfulness if they were ordered done without music.

Pull up your chest and head for position. Place your feet comfortably apart. Raise the hands high overhead, clasp them, keep your knees straight. Swing down, now, with clasped hands, bending at the waist and turning at the waist, and swing on down the outer side of one leg; then the outer side of the other. Come down lustily, as if it were a particularly knotty piece of wood you were "axing."

Do this twenty times, thirty—and do the exercise as if you meant to get that neat in-curve at the waist that distinguishes the young waist line from the old today. You'll get it o. k. if you'll keep the exercise up regularly every day for six weeks or two months.

Food Talk.

When the rhubarb in our garden shoots up, we know that spring is here. When the hothouse variety appears in the grocer's windows we know the season of awakening is just around the corner. And how irresistible those beautiful pink stalks are! While the price is high in some stores, it is reasonable in many others. For a stimulating sauce or a piquant pie there is no fruit that can compete with rhubarb at this season of the year. And how it spurs lazy appetites, but never cloys. The sauce is delightful to serve as a breakfast or luncheon fruit. A pound and a quarter of rhubarb will make one good sized pie, or enough sauce to serve five people.

How do you make your rhubarb sauce? There are many methods and all of them are simple, but there is all the difference in the world in the results. Every cook, I suppose, cuts the stalks up into lengths. Some add just enough water to start the cooking. When the fruit is tender the sugar is added. Others add sugar but no water. They cook the rhubarb slowly until sufficient sirup collects in the pan to prevent burning, then proceed more rapidly until the mass is soft. Either of these methods will result in a beautifully colored sauce of uniform consistency, but it is mushy, and this does not appeal to some people.

I have found that baking the rhubarb with the sugar in a medium oven produces a much more attractive product and the flavor is delicious. With this method each piece of rhubarb retains its shape except that it shrinks some. The sirup that is formed in the cooking is a beautiful deep pink. While the baked rhubarb is hot, the sirup seems sweeter than the pieces of rhubarb, but on cooling the sweetness becomes uniform.

Here is how we bake our rhubarb and make one variety of rhubarb pie:

BAKED RHUBARB.

2 cups rhubarb, cut into 1-inch pieces
2-3 cup sugar
¼ tbsp. water

Wash rhubarb and then cut. Do not peel. A more attractive pink color will be the result. Place the rhubarb in a baking dish. Sprinkle the sugar over it. Add the water. Cover tightly and place in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Bake for 40 minutes. Remove lid and continue baking for 5 minutes longer.

Yield: 1½ cups or 3 servings. One serving: Total, 203 calories—protein, 2 calories; fat, 4 calories; carbohydrates, 197 calories.

RHUBARB PIE.

4 cups rhubarb ½ cup flour
1½ cups sugar Plain pastry

Wash and cut the rhubarb into ½ inch lengths. Mix the sugar and flour. Add the rhubarb and mix thoroughly. Place in a pie tin lined with plain pastry and cover with a well pricked crust. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] for fifteen minutes. Lower flame to a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] and continue baking for 45 minutes longer. Remove from oven and cool before cutting.

Yield: One 9 inch pie or 6 servings. One serving: Total, 532 calories—protein, 22 calories; fat, 139 calories; carbohydrates, 361 calories.

This may seem as though too much flour has been used. This amount is necessary to thicken the large quantity of juice.

STEWED RHUBARB.

2 cups rhubarb, cut into 1-inch pieces
2-3 cup water
½ cup plus 1 tbsp. sugar

Wash and cut the rhubarb, without peeling to retain the best color. Place rhubarb and water in a saucepan and cook until tender. We used young rhubarb which required 10 minutes of gentle boiling. Add sugar and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from stove.

Yield: 1¾ cups or 4 small servings. One Serving: Total, 137 calories—protein, 1 calory; fat, 3 calories; carbohydrates, 133 calories.

Beauty Prize and Brains Don't Make This Woman Happy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There are young women who believe that if they were only beautiful enough to win a beauty contest, matrimonial prizes would be theirs for a simple nod of the head. But it seems not so, from "Judith's" experience.

"Judith" won two nationally famous beauty prizes and today, at 27—but she'd better tell it herself:

"I do not think I am beautiful," she writes, "even though I was fortunate enough to win those nationally famous beauty contests. I am a secretary and work nine hours a day. I attended night school for six years and graduated as a lawyer. Which means that for six years I did not go anywhere except to an occasional movie.

"I have yet to meet the man who is eager to marry an intellectual and cultured woman who could be hostess to his friends, a helpmeet in business, and a wife who could truly make a home and cook to suit the most discriminating palate. Owing to the fact that I married at 16 and my husband died shortly after, leaving me with an infant, men think I should be a 'merry' widow. When they learn I am irreproachable, they brand me as a snob.

"I feel I have made a success in business, yet all my life I have yearned to be a wife and mother; now more so, as my boy constantly asks for a daddy. Now, as to marriage, I could love and respect any man of high ideals. His face and fortune would be secondary to his character. At the same time I avoid the fortune hunter who would have me because of my comfortable home, good position, etc. My only recreation in life today is dreaming of what might have been and hoping it still might be."

One's response is not what's the matter with the men but what's wrong with Judith? Is she a snob, in spite of herself? Did that contest winning, coupled with the intellectual pursuits, create in the fair one's mind a degree of superiority insurmountable? Has she not somehow conveyed the idea that her matrimonial price is excessively high (and we don't mean money high, either)? Or is it that one good, warm, affectionate, believing nature is worth more in the matrimony mart than a couple of beauty contest cups with a lawyer's diploma thrown in?

Chicago Girls Are Popular at Atlanta Dance

BY THALIA

BELLES of the ball! That's what Sarah and Frances Wood, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood's daughters were at the Junior league Valentine ball in Augusta, Ga., last Thursday evening, according to an Augusta correspondent.

They and Miss Margaret Woodruff, daughter of Brig. Gen. Woodruff in command at Fort Leavenworth, were guests of honor at a dinner given before the ball by Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Ellis for their debutante daughter, and at the ball they were "much in demand as dancing partners during the entire evening, being sought after both by native Augustans and winter visitors." The girls went to Augusta specially for the dance, joining their parents there as house guests of Mrs. George Hardwick.

The Frederick Boyntons, Highland Park neighbors of the Woods and winter cottagers in Atlanta, gave a dinner party before the Valentine party for Gen. and Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. L. Octigan White and Howard W. Fenton Married.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Lauretta Octigan White to Howard W. Fenton of Winnetka on Saturday. The wedding took place at 5:30 o'clock at the Winnetka residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Octigan, and only members of the families of the bride and groom were present. These included Mr. Fenton's sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Morrill (Beatrice Fenton) and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Horton (Mary Louise Fenton), Mrs. W. T. Fenton, Mrs. Alice Fenton Burrage, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Octigan, and Miss Honore White.

Escaping the rigors (?) of Chicago's climate are . . . Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, who departed night before last for Phoenix, Ariz., to be at the Biltmore hotel—they're to be away from here until the middle of April . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Clow, who are to leave next Monday for a month's trip to Honolulu—the junior Harry Bs are planning to get away soon for a fishing trip in Florida, but haven't made definite plans yet . . . Mrs. Arthur Cable of Hubbard Woods and Mr. and Mrs. William Burrows Jr. of Lake Forest, who took the "Chief" on Saturday for Phoenix, the same train Mrs. William C. Pullman, the Alex Revells Jr., and John H. McIlvaines were on . . . the Harold E. Foremans left Sunday for Miami Beach for a few weeks.

New Baby, Some Trips, and the Very Latest Hats.

Newsy—Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham Jr. of Lake Forest are to be congratulated on the birth of a son last Wednesday at Michael Reese hospital (Mrs. Dunham was Virginia Taylor) . . . the James Scott Kempers (Mrs. Gertrude Stout, formerly), who have been in the west on their wedding trip were in Pasadena last week. . . . Mrs. Lorenzo Johnson has arrived in Santa Barbara for her annual winter visit and is expecting her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Raymond W. Hardenbergh and Helen, out there soon. . . . Louise Badgerow is wearing one of those extremely chic—or, perhaps, chicly extreme—little hats with a dip on one side and a dotted forehead veil.

I asked Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann how her sculpture business is getting along, and she said it's perfectly fine. She's just finished a figure of Singalang, a café au lait chow belonging to Mrs. Charles Wrigley of Wilmette, and Mrs. Wrigley is having two made, one of plaster, hand painted, and one of bronze. Mrs. Mann's son, Billy, was one of the prize winners at the Winter club carnival on Saturday in his Leif Ericson costume with a shiny metal helmet and goatskin tunic, and his contemporaries were so enraptured with it that he was induced to take it to school yesterday. (By the way, don't expect to see pictures of the winter carnival in next Sunday's paper, because the parents decided it wasn't such a good thing to have photographs of the youngsters used.)

Some Lords and Ladies; Authors and Some Simians.

It's too bad! If there had been any Chicagoans listed among those landing in New York today on the Olympic, we could have told about the intriguing selection of passengers they had as shipmates—a couple of lords and ladies, a count, an opera singer, a Parisian couturier, a British playwright, a ditto author, an equestrienne with a performing horse, and a hundred monkeys destined for American zoos and circuses. It would have made such a cute item.

Take your choice of things to go to—there are, on the calendar—the Bryn Mawr club's luncheon meeting at the Arts club today, with Mrs. Cecil Barnes and Mrs. Laird Bell (both of them Bryn Mawr "alums") collaborating to give a "Broadway Monologues" (Mrs. John F. Manierre of Winnetka is president of the club and in charge of the luncheon for which more than fifty reservations have been made) . . . Mrs. Howard Willett's tea on Thursday afternoon at her apartment "On the Roof" to discuss with members of the Playwrights' theater interpretive committee the coming performance of "Latch Keys" at the Goodman next Monday night (Mrs. Willett is chairman of the committee) . . . the American Opera society's meeting at Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's residence next Monday afternoon (excerpts from Deems Taylor's "Peter Ibbetson" are to be given and Mrs. Charles H. Swift is to be the guest of honor) . . . the Drama League's tea on Monday, March the second, to meet Vachel Lindsay and hear him tell about "Thirty Differences between Movies and Stage," either prefacing or concluding his lecture with a poetry recital . . . the Chicago Wells college club's benefit lecture to take place at the Bendix galleries on Monday, March 9, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

MARRIED IN CATHEDRAL

The marriage of Miss Marcia Prendergast, daughter of Mrs. John Prendergast of Wheaton and granddaughter of the late Judge Richard Prendergast, to Jabez D. Hammond, son of Mrs. Jabez D. Hammond of New Rochelle, N. Y., formerly of Chicago, took place last Thursday morning at the Holy Name cathedral, followed by a wedding breakfast at the Drake. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom attended the wedding.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—[Special.]—Tonight President and Mrs. Hoover had the last of this season's state receptions, that in honor of the officials of the treasury, postoffice, interior, agriculture, commerce and labor departments. This was one of the innovations by President and Mrs. Hoover.

At the same hour as the White House reception tonight, the speaker and Mrs. Longworth were the honor guests at a reception given by the Woman's Congressional club in their clubhouse, the last evening reception in their schedule this season.

Opera Patrons' Views Sought on House, Cast

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Advice from the guarantors of the Civic Opera company is being sought by the company in a questionnaire sent out early this week. It invites answers on many matters of the company's operations in a range running from the operas presented to the management of the theater, and leads to the supposition that future operations may be modified by popular vote.

Patrons are thus urged to express their reactions on the arrangement of the theater, on the artists who appeared this season, on the ballet, the repertoire of operas, the lighting of house and stage, the exits, the entrance, and the theater considered in its functions as an opera house. Mr. Insull's theory would seem to be that since the operatic season is a public event, the public should have a right to express its satisfaction or dissatisfaction in a manner more articulate than the verdict of the box office.

Cornelius Van Vliet, a well known specialist in music for the cello, appeared at the Goodman theater last night as soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra. He chose the Saint-Saëns Concerto, a work that has had the rather curious history of becoming so popular that it was scorned by all the best cellists and dropped so completely that its revival now makes it almost like a new piece.

It is a pleasant undertaking, one of the most tuneful of its tribe, and Mr. Van Vliet excels in the propulsion of long melodic curves no less than in the rapid fire of technical display. Consequently he was thoroughly competent in the performance, ably decorating occasional sentimentalities with a tone so suave as to conceal them, altogether making an excellent impression.

Conductor Ebba Sundstrom placed the Chausson Symphony as the main work of the orchestral program, and won new laurels for her feminine—with a slight tincture of masculine—forces. The strings came through well, certain passages for horns and oboe not so well, but the work as a whole sounded dominant and expressive. Other works on the program were the Tschaikowsky "Romeo and Juliet" fantasy and MacDowell's Indian Suite.

James Y. Vandersall gave a violin recital at Orchestra hall last night, having been lavishly advertised as the world's greatest violinist, which does not seem to err in understatement, but with no other advance information about himself or his achievements. At Orchestra hall it was learned that he was a former student in Chicago, and is now, at the age of 21, a scholarship holder in the Curtis institute of Philadelphia. He began his program with the Paganini Concerto, displaying a clear, attractive tone.

Andoka Club Meeting.

Mrs. William Waller Jr. and her house guests drove to the Gulf Stream Golf club yesterday for a round of golf.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch of New York are arriving in Palm Beach on Feb. 23 and will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seligman. Mr. Damrosch is coming here to give three combination musicales and lectures on the Wagnerian music-dramas, "Die Walküre," "Siegfried," and "Götterdämmerung."

Miss Gloria Vanderbilt will be at the Sherry-Netherland until the end of February, when she will go to Newport to visit the daughter of William H. Vanderbilt.

Charles Breasted, Son of Famous Scholar, Weds English Girl

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Charles Breasted, executive secretary of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago and son of the noted archaeologist and director of the institute, Dr. James H. Breasted, was married to Miss Violet E. R. Timms, daughter of Mrs. George W. Timms and the late Mr. Timms of Harrow, Middlesex, England, at Riverside church this afternoon.

The ceremony was performed in the chapel of the church by the Rev. Dr. Harry E. Fosdick, a friend of Dr. Breasted and his son, and was witnessed by several friends of the family, including Miss Minna Roman, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, and Mrs. Chauncey Belknap. Gano Dunn gave the bride in marriage and Dr. Breasted acted as best man for his son. The bride is a sister of Walter Timms, formerly of the Rockefeller Foundation in Paris and now secretary to Lord d'Abernon of England.

Mr. Breasted and his bride obtained the license earlier in the day at the municipal building. She gave her age as 24. Breasted's age was given as 33.

MILLIONAIRE AT 90 TELLS HOW TO BUILD FORTUNE; LIVE WELL

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—If you want to build a fortune save 10 per cent of your earnings, no matter how small, and be content with a low rate of interest, unmoved by the lure of seemingly big profits.

The advice is from John E. Andrus, who declares he is "very wealthy," although he admits that he does not know exactly how much he is worth.

Andrus, once famous as "the millionaire straphanger," today celebrated his 90th birthday with a breakfast attended by thirty relatives, children, grandchildren and great grandchildren and by working hard in the office of the Arlington Chemical company, Yonkers, of which he is president.

The economic depression, he was sure, would not last, and "a day happier than we have ever seen is coming." His firm has lost 60 per cent of its business, but he has not discharged one of its 100 employes.

Bad Milk of Magnesia Endangers Health of Children

Market also flooded with Spurious Milk of Magnesia

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

That Doctors Endorse

This is published to protect children against a grave danger that threatens them in the form of bad and spurious "Milk of Magnesia" preparations.

The public is openly and publicly urged to accept only Phillips' Milk of Magnesia as the safe way to guard against possible evil results in the home. Both to children and to adults.

Demands that officials enforce "The Pure Food and Drug Laws" against spurious products are now being made.

Health Commissioners are being advised of this public danger in their communities so that immediate steps can be taken to stamp it out.

For the sake of yourself and those dear to you, watch out! See that you take only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. The "Milk of Magnesia" leading doctors have prescribed for over 50 years.

Only this minute, just as this is being written, a report comes in of a mother unfortunate enough to have recently purchased a bottle of bad "Milk of Magnesia," which resulted in a distressing illness for both her child and herself—be careful!

Within 24 hours, scores of doctors, no doubt, will be warning their patients of this danger and urging them to be careful that they accept nothing but genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

The making of "Milk of Magnesia" is a very delicate and difficult process. Laboratory methods developed in the Phillips' Milk of Magnesia laboratories in Glenbrook, Connecticut, based on 50 years of experience, have never gone outside those laboratories.

The point to learn today and never to forget is that these secret laboratory methods are known only to Phillips' chemists and experts.

Many milk-white preparations claiming to be "Milk of Magnesia" bear no relation to real Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Some are spurious, some are bad, some are a public menace. The label, "Milk of Magnesia," does not give certain protection. Bad and spurious products may be labeled with this name. The safe way is to demand genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This warning is published in the public's interest—to protect the public's health. Watch out and take care. Don't continue to buy at stores which try to palm off other magnesia preparations for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Don't gamble your health on the ignorance or carelessness of others.

SAFETY

For You And Yours in This Bottle

Mothers are urged to purchase only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. You can easily identify it by the package above . . . the blue package with the signature of Charles H. Phillips on the label.

You can assist other mothers by refusing to accept anything but genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this in the interest of your own children and in the interest of public health.

THE PICK OF THE FLORIDA CROP

3 Art Displays; Sculpture and Drawings, Too

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE are three exhibitions within a stone's throw on Michigan avenue which have just opened and which sum up three branches of art in an interesting manner. First at the Walden-Dudensing gallery is the memorial exhibit of sculpture by Tennessee Mitchel Anderson, whose tragic death invests even the least of her work with a glamour. Second, in the O'Brien Art gallery is the stunning exhibit of recent etchings by Martin Lewis. Third, in the Allerton House gallery are paintings by Beauford Floyd Jones, a young Chicago painter.

Mrs. Anderson's work needs little if any introduction. During her life as a producing sculptor, a life incredibly brief, she made a distinct place for herself. We found her work at the Arts club, in the no-jury shows, in many other galleries, always fresh, original, spirited, and intelligently conceived. Self-taught, naturally gifted, she owed nothing to any one master or school, but a great deal to the spirit of her time which caught her up and led her away from prosaic paths into a freedom that is the greatest quality of modernism. She was a modernist. The present exhibit confirms the suggestion. It also tells the story of her humor, of the grace that flowed from her fingers, and of the challenging outlook with which she faced life and her work.

The Martin Lewis etchings and drawings in the O'Brien gallery are a splendid summing up of the talent of one who is acknowledged as a master among contemporary American etchers. Mr. Lewis has been called the glorifier of the American flapper. The title is appropriate. A number of flappers trip through his prints. But it is as a master of light and shadow, of the significant changes and beauties of snow and rain, of the values of night and the substance of stone, that these etchings reveal him. The exhibit is brilliant, satisfying, and exciting.

Beauford Floyd Jones is more of an unknown quantity, but his paintings possess charm. He has a keen sense for color and composition, though his drawing is sometimes at fault. You will like "Circus Kitchen," "Jim Ray Cave," "State Street Bridge," and "Dunes." He is one of our younger artists who will bear watching. His start is good. The years will round out and deepen his talent.

The exhibitions will continue through the month.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My grandson is at the age where it is difficult to guess how he feels about Santa, so my daughter always spoke of the coming of Christmas as the "coming of Santa."

One day shortly before Christmas he and I were sitting in the back seat of their car while my daughter was driving. I asked him what he wanted Santa to bring him. Seeing an amused smile on his face, I said, "What's the matter, Jack? Don't you believe in Santa?"

He leaned over to me and whispered, "Oo, but don't say anything to mother, because she does." C. F.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Seated in the Wrong Car.

One evening when I went to meet my boy friend outside the office I located his automobile and, thinking he had left it for a moment to step in for cigarettes, I tried the door and, finding it open, got in and sat down.

I waited for ten minutes and had just started inspecting the car when the door opened and a gentleman asked if I were in the right car. I think I stammered out the story and the embarrassment was somewhat relieved due to the courtesy of this particular gentleman. Just then my friend came along and saw me standing there talking to another man, but not having a jealous disposition there was no explaining to do. Just a good hearty laugh for three of us, but I can still feel my embarrassment. L. L.

Black Chantilly Trims White Georgette Gown

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Lace trimmings are more popular than ever on smart evening gowns in the south this season, particularly for young girls. Fine lace edgings completely cover tulle dresses and form tiny ruffles on naïve gowns of dotted Swiss; lace incrustations lend extra lightness to georgette and mousseline frocks. Lace and georgette are the favorite combinations, being featured by Chanel, Lelong, and Martial et Armand, among others.

The bicolored vogue has taken possession of lace trimmed frocks, as well as of every other element of feminine adornment in Paris, now. And one sees black frocks with trimmings or incrustations of beige, ecru, or pale pink lace, while white or beige frocks are contrariwise decorated by black lace.

Black Chantilly lace and white georgette are used to make the ravishing southern evening gown from Martial et Armand, sketched here. The voluminous skirt is shirred at the top in front. The bodice forms a pointed corselet in back and the skirt is simply gathered on to this. The corselet becomes a wide basque girdle in front, where it is finished with a flat bowknot of black taffeta.

The yoke of the bodice and the wide hem of the skirt are of black Chantilly lace cut out around the rose pattern and irregularly incrusted into the white georgette.

Simple Devices Help Youngsters to Be Orderly

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Whether you have maids or nurses or do all your own work, you want the children for their own sakes to learn, little by little, as they become of the right age, to hang up their clothes, put away their toys, wash their own hands, and keep their possessions and eventually their rooms in order.

But they won't do these things well without your making it easy, or, perhaps I should say instead, convenient for them. To do this here are a few suggestions which will be some trouble at first, but which will pay in the end:

Wherever they hang their clothes, have the hooks low enough for them to reach them comfortably.

Have a special place in the closets or a low shelf where they can put slippers, galoshes, rubbers, etc.

For their toys and books have low shelves and even baskets for small blocks. A place for everything is such a help. Long, low boxes, like seamen's chests, are splendid for children's use.

Have a low chest or bureau with drawers that slide easily. We have a chest in our family that is ideal for a child to use when he's little and also for him to grow up to. Down low are two drawers for clothes, underwear, sweaters, etc. Above there are three little drawers in a row horizontally. These take care of handkerchiefs, sox, and small treasures. Above these are three shelves that pull out entirely and are shut in by two doors, like a chifforobe. Small animals or dolls, skates, airplanes, games, etc., go well into this section. Above is still another compartment with sliding doors which may house almost anything. A number of divisions and small compartments of any kind help a child not only to put away but to find his things.

In the bathroom have low hooks or rods for the children's towels and face cloths. Have their tooth brushes and soap within reach. A low, broad, sturdy box covered attractively helps them to reach the wash bowl for hand washing and teeth cleaning.

Scientists to Explore Little Known Parts of South America

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—An expedition, equipped with airplanes and second only to the Byrd antarctic expedition in elaborate preparations, is now being organized to cover by land and air one of the greatest unknown areas in the world in southern Venezuela beginning next summer, it was learned authoritatively today.

The expedition is being arranged conjointly by the American Geographical society, the American Museum of Natural History, and, it is understood, the New York Botanical society. No official announcement of the plans was obtainable, but it was learned from persons in touch with the preparations that the expedition will consist of a dozen scientists and experts.

It will cover an area of 160,000 square miles, within whose limits a solitary mountain area rears itself up, isolated from other mountainous country, and because of its likeness in situation to the nicknamed "The Lost World" in reminiscence of its similarity to the terrain Conan Doyle chose for his adventure story of antediluvian beasts.

DURING
INFECTIOUS GERMS SURVIVE IN HANDKERCHIEFS
Handkerchief unsafe if used once . . . should be discarded to prevent constant self-infection.

Safety Demands Kleenex

Use it once . . . then discard

THE use of Kleenex in place of handkerchiefs may actually shorten the duration of your cold! This promise comes to us from the scientific laboratory, after a remarkable series of tests on handkerchiefs used during colds.

These tests reveal the vast numbers of disease germs discharged into a handkerchief during colds. As many as 240,000 in a handkerchief used one time! As many as 4,170,000 in a handkerchief used several times!

This means that the ordinary handkerchief carries countless germs back to the face every time it's used. Germs that should be destroyed—are destroyed when you use Kleenex.

Use Kleenex—then discard

You use Kleenex just once, then discard it forever. All germs are discarded, too.

Each tissue that touches your face is absolutely clean. Think how much more sanitary! Health authorities advise Kleenex.

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue, handkerchief size. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then discarded.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; 35 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief.
2. That organisms representative of those known to be associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and/or soap water followed by clear water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

A FLAVOR THAT DELIGHTS YOU EVERY TIME YOU TASTE IT . . . A FLAVOR THAT CAN ONLY BE PRODUCED BY HILLS BROS' PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS THAT ROASTS A FEW POUNDS AT A TIME—NEVER IN BULK.

COOKING food in large quantities is risky business. You know that. You are far more certain of perfect results if you work with small amounts: You control the mixing, the seasoning, the cooking—everything.

Roasting coffee in bulk has its risks also. That's why Hills Bros. roast only a few pounds at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. By this exact method an even roast is guaranteed. No berries are overdone, none are underdone. Naturally, a perfect flavor, such as no other coffee has, is the result.

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters it is packed in vacuum cans. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary tins, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. But no matter when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh as when it came from the roasters.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Red Cross Continues Its Drive to Fill Quota.

Sixty-three per cent of the Chicago area's $940,000 drought relief fund being raised by the American Red Cross has been subscribed, Red Cross officials here announced yesterday. Of the total for the nation, more than 84 per cent has been subscribed.

The privilege of free transportation of nonperishable food in carload lots for famine victims in the drought area, granted by the railroads through the Red Cross, has been canceled, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago chapter.

Send Food to Victims.

Two carloads of vegetables for destitute families in Arkansas composed the last carload lot to be so sent. They were contributed by Cook county truck farmers, most of whom live near Arlington Heights, under the leadership of O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm bureau adviser. More than 40 tons of winter produce was collected and loaded in freight cars, and will be distributed by the Red Cross out of Little Rock, Ark.

Additional contributions to the drought relief fund are being sought in this area by a committee headed by Samuel Insull. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross Drought Relief fund and sent to the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, 416 South Michigan avenue.

Sues Sister for Reckless Driving; Awarded $1,600

Mrs. Claire Vickerman of Lake Forest, who sued her sister, Mrs. Esther Whipple of Sarasota, Fla., charging that the latter's reckless driving had caused her serious injury, was granted $1,600 damages yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady's court in Waukegan. Mrs. Vickerman testified that the accident occurred on April 12, 1929, near Kenton, O., when a tire blew out as her sister was driving at 50 miles an hour. Mrs. Vickerman's injuries kept her in the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest for several months, she testified.

FATHER'S PLEA TO SALLY WINS OFFER OF WORK

Many Jobs Listed by Readers.

Within a few hours after THE TRIBUNE had announced their plight, jobs were found for a carpenter, father of two motherless children, and a practical nurse who was unable to find employment after recovery from an automobile accident. Letters of appeal from the two addressed to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S service for the unemployed were published in yesterday morning's paper.

The carpenter was offered a job by the S. B. hotel on the north side and H. H. of Evanston offered the nurse a position. W. F. on the north side also had a practical nursing job for her.

"In addition to the good news of finding jobs for the nurse and the carpenter," Sally said last night, "yesterday was a splendid day for job offers. All these offers mean a lot when you consider how many people there are waiting for almost any kind of a job."

Other Jobs Are Offered.

Among these offers was the one from W. S. M. company on West 47th street, a steady jom for a tool maker.

B. B. on South California avenue wanted a young man to work in a restaurant.

L. G. on Fullerton parkway called for a licensed electrician.

F. K. company, North State street, needed a typist.

S. C. on Greenview avenue called for a man to wash floors and woodwork.

Mrs. W. G. on Wentworth avenue needed a man to do some painting and lay linoleum.

A bank on the near north side offered a steady position to a switchboard operator.

F. H., Winnetka, offered two or three weeks' work for a decorator and will pay union wages and room and board if desired.

More Positions Listed.

C. B., North Clark street, had a job for a sandwich girl.

Mrs. D. R., East End avenue, called for a man to wash windows.

E. M. Co., Austin avenue, will pay 60 cents an hour to a machinist.

S. & S. Co., West Congress street, has a $20-$25 a week job for a girl to do general office work.

"Now if we can just keep jobs coming like that," concluded Sally after reviewing the day's offers, "a good many families are going to be happy and able to take care of themselves. A few dollars goes a long way when it comes to buying food for hungry mouths."

All job offers may be telephoned to Sally Joy Brown at Superior 0100. The jobs will be filled through the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, which coöperates with Sally.

START U. S. AID TO FINISH DRIVE FOR UNEMPLOYED

For the first time the federal government yesterday participated in a local relief drive when distribution of 1,125,000 franked envelopes was started to aid in the final effort to raise the $5,000,000 relief fund, the quota set by the governor's unemployment commission as the minimum needed to care for Chicago's destitute during the winter.

The personal solicitation drive, conducted through twenty-eight trades divisions teams, ended Saturday noon, when there was a deficit of approximately $152,000. Free service and office equipment have been contributed by local business men to assist in the campaign.

GOOD FELLOWS ADD TO GIFTS TO HELP KEEP FAMILIES GOING

Gifts, large and small, arriving yesterday brought the Good Fellow fund to $94,546.15. Contributions received yesterday will assure nearly two months' income for one of the 305 families now under Good Fellow care.

Every day's mail discloses new Good Fellows made last October. This increase in the number of Good Fellows, the total now being more than 1,500, indicates the widening scope of the Good Fellow work as the winter months pass.

All families provided for by Good Fellows are first investigated by the United Charities, Salvation Army, Central Charities bureau (Catholic), and the Jewish Social Service bureau. The TRIBUNE pays all costs of administration.

L. S. BUFFINGTON, WHO ORIGINATED SKYSCRAPER, DIES

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Leroy S. Buffington, 83, of Minneapolis, known as the "Father of the Skyscrapers," died of a heart attack today.

Mr. Buffington had said the idea for a "cloud scraper" as he called it in the early days, came to him while he was reading an architectural book which had a picture of a stool. From this, he said, he conceived the plan of tall steel frameworks, filled in with stone.

Taking the suggestion, Mr. Buffington started plans for a building in which at each successive story the masonry would be supported by a steel shelf.

In 1882 he drew up a perspective of a 28 story structure and the idea was scoffed at as impossible. Claim had been made that the Home Insurance building, erected in Chicago in 1885, was the first skyscraper, but this Mr. Buffington denied, declaring it to be "just a tall brick structure." He said the architect had obtained his idea from a building Buffington designed.

About 30 years ago Mr. Buffington instituted several suits to claim royalties on his skyscraper idea which had been patented, but all were without avail. Recently, however, he was given recognition by a local builder who sent him a check for $2,250.

VETERANS BURY GEN. EDWARDS IN ARLINGTON PLOT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Yankee division of the world war army today buried its wartime commander.

Guarded by veterans of the fighting Twenty-sixth and carried by others who saw service under him in France, the body of Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards was laid on a sunny, sloping hillside in Arlington National cemetery.

Beside the veteran who died Saturday in Boston, lies his wife, who died three years ago, and their daughter, Bessie Porter Edwards, a world war nurse who died in 1918.

Simple, impressive services were said at the grave, while more than 100 New England veterans who came here with the body, three troops of cavalry and three batteries of artillery stood at attention with government officials, relatives and friends of the dead officers.

The Rev. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church conducted the services. A prayer, the Episcopal burial service and the army farewell—three volleys and taps—constituted the ceremonies.

A severe cold confined Gen. John J. Pershing to his bed in the Metropolitan club and kept him from attending the funeral.

GERMAN CABINET FACES FIGHT ON FARM AID FUND

Not Enough! Too Much! Reichstag Foes Cry.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—The German cabinet is facing a new menace in its plan to appropriate a $226,000,000 fund for the aid of agriculture for the next five years in the northern and eastern provinces. The farm relief plan as outlined is opposed by two factions, the Nationalists and the Industrialists.

The Nationalists tonight hurled a challenge at Chancellor Heinrich Bruening by asserting that the fund is not large enough to suit them. In an official party communique, they have announced that they will not return to the reichstag, which they bolted several days ago with Adolf Hitler's Fascisti.

Industrialists Protest Aid Fund.

While this party was shouting the fund to assist agriculture was too small, the Industrialists protested against the large concessions being granted to the farmers.

Farmers in the ranks of the Nationalists, however, decided that the plan of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists to boycott the reichstag, was going too far and tonight they announced they would vote for the fund which the republic is proposing to give to the farmer.

As a result of this double faced opposition, Chancellor Bruening has called an extra cabinet session for tomorrow to devise ways and means of whipping the government budget through the reichstag despite the absence of the Nationalists and Fascisti and the opposition of the Socialists to appropriations for the reichswehr.

And while efforts are being made to work out a budget and aid the farmers, Germany's problem of nearly 5,000,000 jobless is becoming more acute.

468,278 Jobless in Berlin.

Berlin itself now has 468,287 jobless with the total mounting. The Bradenburg district, which includes the capitol and surrounding territory, has 684,287 unemployed.

Of Berlin's total, 110,000 have been jobless for more than a year and two months, and therefore have become charges of the city, which supplies them with enough money to keep them and their families from starving and freezing.

A still larger number of Berliners, 273,873, have been recently forced into the ranks of unemployed. Most of them have been without work less than 26 weeks and are living on the dole, premiums on which they and their employers paid while they still had work. The remainder are in the "crisis care" category, which cares for unemployed under 45 years for 32 weeks and older men for 39 weeks.

Eighty-four thousand are being supported by relatives.

Labor Unions of Australia Fight 10 Per Cent Wage Cut

BY JACK MYERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Feb. 16.—Australia is in the throes of a great struggle between the government on the one hand, which insists o enforcing the ruling of the federal arbitration court ordering a 10 per cent reduction in the national basic wage as a means to helping overcome the depression and the labor unions which oppose the measure. The reduction, under the terms of the arbitration court, is to operate for a year, until next Feb. 1.

The conference of the Australian Council of Trades Unions at a recent meeting voted to "resist any attack on the workers' standard of living" and decided to hold a conference to prepare plans for providing work or sustenance for the army of unemployed.

Judges Comment on Reduction.

The arbitration court judges made interesting references, in their judgment, to the economic position of Australia. Some of their comment was as follows:

"It is universally agreed that wage reduction should be the last resort in any scheme of economic readjustment forced by extraordinary circumstances.

"The evidence submitted by the applicants was that the fall in the national income had become so serious as completely to disturb the whole economic balance. The primary cause in the present crisis was the rapid fall in prices for exported primary products to the extent of 200 million dollars a year and the world fall in general price levels. The level of real income in any community is determined by the productivity of that community's industry and trade, and what we can receive in exchange for exported products. Particularly where we rely on such surplus for our financial adjustments abroad it is the one essential factor that cannot be overlooked.

"It can be safely said for the moment that the repercussions exceed 50 per cent of the primary loss, making the reduced spending power of the community more than 500 million dollars, or in the vicinity of a sixth of the average national income of the preceding five years.

"The proposed reduction would, or may, operate in three directions. [1] In respect to wage earners now in employment it would cause a transfer from them to their employers of spending power to the extent of the reduction. [2] In respect to wage earners not in employment it may enable employers wishing to employ such wage earners to do so without incurring loss. [3] In respect of all wage earners it may enable employers at present largely inactive to engage with such wage earners in industry without loss.

Other Reforms Necessary.

"It is almost impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the present situation and it should be unnecessary to point out the need for proper comprehension of all the causes of the present crises. Never in the history of the commonwealth was there such need for calm and nonpartisan consideration of national problems. Never was there greater need for coöperation between the various factors to check the downward tendency, which threatens to end in complete collapse. Wage reduction is not the magic wand which will restore stability, but as part of a reasoned plan it is unavoidable.

"An emergency has arisen which calls for immediate readjustment in all directions; readjustment of costs of government, costs of production and services, rents, dividends, interest, and other returns to capital; and costs of living."

ANOTHER NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE RESULT STORY

Twice a week in the Herald Tribune—and Louis Berg's Business GROWS...and GROWS

Twice a week in the New York Herald Tribune has built a remarkable business success for Louis Berg, New York tailor! Small space, twice every week, Tuesdays and Fridays. Bullets—fired consistently at a known target through a known medium.

Here is Berg's advertising story—

In 1920 Louis Berg, custom tailor, moved his tailoring establishment to Fifth Avenue and Fifty-Seventh Street. Five years ago he was persuaded to advertise his $100 suit through the use of small space (42 lines double column) in the Herald Tribune — inserted regularly for a whole year.

He started advertising in the early summer of 1925. Though results at first were very small he continued his confidence-building campaign through that off season and then one day a customer walked in with the advertisement in his hand and walked out leaving an order for seven suits of clothes. From this beginning, new customers came with great regularity, one customer ordering twelve suits at a sitting.

The first year brought assurance of success. The second year brought a thriving business. The third year brought such a volume of sales that Berg had to move to much larger quarters at Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street. The next year the business refused to let up even during the off summer season —and today his business is only a very small percentage less than his splendid year of 1928 —RESULTS! Berg's advertising agency, Grant & Wadsworth, wrote us in 1929 as follows:

"The success of Louis Berg advertising in the Herald Tribune is a tribute to its power to produce even when small space is used.

"Within three months results came with surprising regularity and have shown steady increases, as much as 50% over the previous year. This letter comes to you unsolicited in appreciation of what your wonderful newspaper is doing for the advertiser with a small appropriation."

And that isn't all. When Berg started advertising he could afford to be in only one newspaper. He chose the Herald Tribune as that one because he felt that among Herald Tribune readers lay his best market for $100 suits. Now note this: The Herald Tribune, used for two years exclusively, produced such profitable results that Louis Berg has been able to increase his advertising appropriation to include another newspaper. But he runs twice as much advertising in the Herald Tribune as he does in the second paper.

In these Herald Tribune "Result Stories" we have told and will continue to tell about advertisers who get results with large space planned with consistent schedules. But there's the small space advertiser, too—the firms with the smaller appropriations. Does not Louis Berg's story suggest to them what can be done with bullets?

The New York Market of 1931 is an Opportunity Market for advertisers who shoot their "bullets" or their big guns at a known target through a known medium. The Herald Tribune's readership (a City Without Slums,) is a tried and proved producer of results for the small advertiser and the large advertiser whose products cost a little or a lot. And the Herald Tribune should top the New York list of the advertiser who demands RESULTS above all else.

BY STEWART OWEN.

A band of fighting Illini pulled Northwestern back into the Big Ten basketball race last night by administering a stinging defeat to the Purple, 35 to 28. It was the Wildcats' thirteenth start of the season and that may be sufficient reason for Northwestern partisans to excuse the defeat.

But an analysis of the game shows that it wasn't the 13 jinx that tied up the Wildcats, but the fierce savagery of the Illinois quintet's guarding, particularly that of Red Owen and the uncanny basket eye of Elbert Kamp, Illinois' right forward.

Owen Covers Reiff.

Joe Reiff, leading scorer of the Big Ten, had only one real shot at the basket in the first half and not many more in the second period, so closely was he watched by the flaming Owen.

The Wildcats garnered only one other goal in the first period and that was a long looper by Smith. It came when Northwestern was trailing, 15 to 4, and gave the Wildcat fans one of their few opportunities to cheer. With these two baskets Reiff mixed five free throws and Riel two to run the Purple score up to 11, but the Kamp cousins were bombarding the Purple basket most of the time, and when the half ended the Illini were out in front, 17 to 11.

Early in the second half the Purple made a brief but ineffectual rally and whittled the Illini lead to four points. However, when they really began to threaten, Illinois' defense tightened up again and, apparently believing that the safest way to hold the lead was to add to it, the Illini sharpshooters kept pecking away until they were out in front, 31 to 20, with ten minutes left to play.

Wildcats Behind at Start.

The defeat marred the Purple's clean conference record which until last night had shown seven conference victories against no defeats. Minnesota now is within striking distance and has a chance to gain a tie by beating the Wildcats in their next meeting at Minneapolis.

Illinois took the lead when the game was two minutes old. E. Kamp tipped in the first goal and followed it with two more on short passes from his cousin, Bob. Reiff came through a minute later with his lone first half basket, but the Kamp cousins continued their family act, with the aid of Bennett and Harper, to run the Illini score up to 17.

The Purple defense, instead of tightening in the second half, was, looser than in the first session. Repeatedly the Illini forwards sifted through for easy shots and once E. Kamp picked up the ball under the Purple backboard and dribbled leisurely the length of the floor to drop in a goal.

Illini Step Out Again.

McCarnes, Riel, and Reiff, however, injected a little life into the affair momentarily by sinking three baskets in a row. McCarnes' goal came from the center of the court to bring the Wildcats within 4 points of Illinois. But that was as close as they got. Bennett dropped one in for the Illini and Owen and R. Kamp followed him. Riel and Reiff countered with free throws as Owen went out on fouls and Harper and E. Kamp took the points back with a basket and two free throws.

The absence of Owen, however, became noticeable immediately and Reiff suddenly broke loose for two baskets in a row, but the time was too short for any continued rally and the game ended a few minutes later after Johnson sank a long shot. Lineup:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GOLDEN GLOVES REQUISITES.

AGGRESSIVENESS and stamina are prime essentials for those boxers who hope to achieve success in THE TRIBUNE Golden Gloves tourneys, winners in which will meet New York's best amateurs in intercity bouts. This statement is made from observation of tactics and decisions in the three annual contests previously held.

The Wake passes along this information to the boys for what it may be worth to them in their training. Of course, there must be boxing ability. After that, the two qualities named are all important. There cannot be aggressiveness without good physical condition.

We attach greater importance to these qualities because, for the last two years particularly, New York's squad has been trained along those lines. Two years ago, when Chicago boys last boxed in New York, we had a team of performers which looked like the "goods." Even the New York experts who "scouted" our finals expressed a high opinion of the Chicagoans and pronounced them probable winners.

When the two teams met in the big intercity contest at Madison Square Garden before a capacity house, three Chicagoans of whom most had been expected "folded up" and lost their decisions. In one instance, the first round saw a New Yorker on the mat and nearly out, yet he rallied to win. In nearly every bout that night the Gotham boxers got better the farther they went. They were in better condition. Winning or losing, they forced the milling. These tactics evidently carry great weight with New York judges. The bouts in March this year will be before New York judges.

So the Chicago team of 1929, probably better on the whole than our winning team of 1930, was beaten because it was outgeneraled and, incidentally, outfought. There were two questionable decisions, but these alone were not an excuse for defeat, because the New Yorkers were better trained for that particular night and better handled.

So, Golden Gloves boys, we wish to warn you that to succeed in New York you must have aggressiveness and condition to travel three rounds at top pace and a fourth round at top pace if the officials are unable to pick the winner after three rounds. These are things to bear in mind if you survive the eliminations in which you are now competing.

TILDEN TALKS ON HIS NEW DUTIES TO SPORT PUBLIC

As a Pro He Must Give Fans a Good Show.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—Mr. Tilden, the pro, looking much the same as he did when he was William T. Tilden, the amateur, folded up in a big plush chair, heaved one long, bony leg over the other, and said, said he: "Well, now I don't feel that I have undergone any change in turning professional, not that I mean to say I played tennis for profit as an amateur, but because the mental attitude is what counts. I will play professional tennis with the same feeling that I played the amateur game, and I can say that I have known amateur players whose attitude was far more professional than the attitude of some pros."

In the next room there was a lawyer representing Karel Kozeluh, the Czecho-Slovakian pro, who is to be one of Mr. Tildren's opponents on their professional tour, which will start in New York Wednesday night and go on and on until the bookings run out. Mr. Kozeluh's lawyer was arguing something with Jack Curley, the promoter of wrestling bouts and fights.

"Squabble Is Absurd."

Mr. Curley came out for a minute with a dew on his pink brow which seems to run all the way up and over to the back of his neck, as he is practically hairless except around the ears. "Lawyer and contracts and articles of agreement to settle the championship," said he. "Tennis is just wrestling in white pants."

"I was saying," said Mr. Tilden, "that the whole squabble about the technical difference between the amateur and the pro is rather absurd when you consider that if a man goes to the top of any sport, however amateur he may wish to be, he can't help deriving some profit from it. An American pro is an amateur by the European standard."

This may have referred to the European custom of accepting retainers or wages from sporting goods companies, a practice frowned upon in this country not only by the American associations in various sports but also,

Krone Always Will Enlighten a Young Man

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

SCENE.

Sports department of the World's Greatest Newspaper.

CHARACTERS.

Dr. John Krone, eminent dietitian and veteran impresario of the ancient sport of wrestling.

A Young Man just trying to make his way in the newspaper business.

THE ACTION.

[Enter Dr. Krone, wearing the lugubrious costume which seems to have grown on him these last few years—black suit, black bow tie, and derby. The doctor, who once lost 180 pounds in 15 months by his own personal reducing system, is now a mere wraith of his former self, gentling the scales at about 225 pounds. The renaissance of the grand old game of wrestling has kept the doctor ankling many miles per day spreading good-tidings about his boys and their deeds. He approaches the young man.]

Young Man—Yes, sir; what can I do for you?

Dr. Krone—Well, I am Dr. Krone, and I thought your readers might be interested in knowing that Jim Londos, the Perfect Athlete, sometimes known as the Human Magnet, will hazard his world's championship against the ferocious rushes of his fellow countryman, George Zaharias, the Athenian Assassin, on Wednesday night in the historic Coliseum, cradle of Chicago wrestling and——

Young Man—You're not the Dr. Krone who made it a possible for a certain portly reporter to lose 35 unnecessary pounds within a month?

Dr. Krone (somewhat shyly)—Well, now that you mention it, I have advised certain of my friends about getting rid of surplus poundage. But that is not why I am here tonight. You seem to be a beginner in the ranks of journalism and I see in this story of the Londos-Zaharias classic a golden opportunity for you to scale the heights of the fourth estate. Now if you will listen——

Young Man—Say, I certainly appreciate this, doctor. You go right ahead and tell me all about it.

Dr. Krone—First you must get the picture of this wonderful athlete, this perfect specimen of physical excellence, Jim Londos. That is only his nom de mat, as you might say, he having been christened Christopher

Conger Bows to Penn Miler at N. Y. A. C. Games

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Two college seniors, one of them little known off his own campus, stole the show at the annual New York Athletic club games tonight in defeating the leading indoor runners of two continents in the half mile and mile runs.

Hardly had cheers greeting Russell Chapman's great half mile, the second fastest in the history of indoor track competition, died away before Carl Coan, a comparatively unknown little, short legged chap from the University of Pennsylvania, ran the legs off Ray Conger in the Baxter mile in the fast time of four minutes and 13 seconds.

Conger was staggering all over the track as the fighting little chap in the red and blue striped shirt broke the tape five yards in front of him and Gene Venzke, smooth striding young miler from the Swedish American A. C. The crowd gasped in wonder as they realized Coan was defeating Conger, who had gone undefeated at the mile through three indoor campaigns and then broke into cheers as Coan trotted down the track from the finish line. Conger was out on his feet but Coan looked as if he could have gone on for a few laps more.

Only three faster miles ever have been run—the 4:12 of Joie Ray and Paavo Nurmi, and the 4:12 2-5 of Lloyd Hahn.

The feat of Chapman in defeating the two European Martins—Sera, of France, and Dr. Paul, of Switzerland—could take second place only to such a race as Coan made. Chapman, from Bates college in Maine, did the Breffney half in 1:52 2-5, a mark only a second behind the world record of Lloyd Hahn, made in 1923 on the lightning fast track of the 22d regiment armory. Sera Martin, running his third race indoors, was ten yards back, himself only a little over 1:53, good enough to win from any one but Chapman.

George Spitz, New York university youngster, who set a new world's indoor record of 6 feet 7 inches a week ago Saturday in the Millrose games, could no better than 6 feet 4 tonight, and had to jump it off with Bill O'Connor, intercollegiate champion from Columbia university, to win first prize. Jules Stafford, one armed jumper from the Boston A. A., was third at 6 feet 3 inches.

Golden Gloves Fans Get $10 in Thrills, Laughs for 75 Cents

BY ARCH WARD.

Whew! The suspense is over. The long grind that leads to championships in THE TRIBUNE'S fourth annual Golden Gloves tournament started last night at Ashland Boulevard auditorium.

From now on it is war and by the time the smoke has lifted three weeks hence Father Dearborn will know the names of his gamest lads.

The opening bell last night was as welcome as the blast of the Angel Gabriel's trumpet to those 102 boys who are fighting to represent the west side in the tournament of champions at the Coliseum March 2, 3, and 4.

"Just Before the Battle."

Sammy Mandell once told us that the most trying moments in the fight game were those immediately preceding the start of hostilities. If a world champion feels that way about it, you can imagine the sensations of a youngster about to embark on the biggest test of his career. He is in strange surroundings. His experience is all before him. He never has heard a crowd shout for him to knock out his opponent or be knocked out. He wonders whether it will scare him or inspire him.

For most of the 102 courageous lads last night was the culmination of two or three months of serious preparation. There were a few—those who had competed in previous Golden Gloves meets—to whom it was old stuff. But to the novices—and there were scores of them—it was the first call to arms.

No Flight for Loser.

Every boy had used his knuckles before. But with many it had been in street fights, where the loser could run away if the going became too tough. But there was no running away last night. The ropes prevented that. There was no escape but the humiliation of a knockout. And to the credit of Young Chicago let it be said that every boy who hit the canvas went down from a solid punch.

Without intending to hurt the feeling of any lad game enough to put on a set of boxing gloves, there was the usual share of comedy angles. Leave it to the Golden Gloves boys to spring up with original styles of attack and defense. Several times they had the 3,100 fans in hysteria.

To the veteran Golden Glove fan these preliminary rounds are the best of the show. You see champions and you see duffers. You see knockouts and silk glove tappers. But you see nobody who isn't in there fighting his heart out—all for an emblem and a place on the Chicago team which will fight New York.

The first bit of comedy was presented by Alonzo Brown, a colored lightweight from the All Star Club of Maywood. It was Brown's first tournament appearance.

That Certain Feelin'.

Before leaving the dressing room Brown spoke to his handler as follows:

"Ah has a feelin' that ah's goin' to be knocked out."

He was right, for Referee Johnny Behr stopped the bout when Carl Sand, unattached, knocked him down twice in the second round.

Earl Watson upheld the fighting qualities of Brown's race, however, by winning impressively from James Griffin. Watson went through to the finals of the 1930 tournament, where he lost to Chauncy Crain. He had to win last night or lose his job. Watson works in a loop restaurant and his employer told him Sunday that if he was whipped in the Golden Gloves preliminaries he must look elsewhere for work. Throughout his bout the fans kept shouting, "Watson, hold that job."

From the point of value for your money THE TRIBUNE tournament is unequaled anywhere. There were 47 bouts last night for 75 cents and there was a kick in every one. The same bargain prevails tonight, when the sixteen boxers who will move into the Coliseum next month will be determined. There are more than 40 bouts carded tonight.

Card Run Off Speedily.

The card was run off with lightning rapidity. THE TRIBUNE "wrecking crew," augmented by the most capable officials of the Illinois boxing commission and the Amateur Athletic union, had charge of the detail. Not more than 15 seconds elapsed between bouts.

If you go out to Ashland Boulevard Auditorium tonight or to the Hippodrome Thursday and Friday, where the north side sectional meet will be held, keep in mind that the lot of an amateur fighter is not an easy one. Maybe you can remember how you felt the day you started your first job. Admire a lad game enough to get into a ring before a crowded house to test his skill. Above all, encourage him.

He probably is braver than you or I.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The tide of battle for Golden Gloves swept across Chicago's west side last night and for six hours Ashland Boulevard auditorium resounded with the thud of fists and the squeaking shuffle of leather on resin canvas.

One hundred and two boys, the best amateurs in the west section, answered the call to action. And 3,100, almost a capacity crowd, came to watch these first metropolitan fights in the campaign for championships and the right to defend Chicago's intercity title against New York in Madison Square Garden March 30.

This throng, larger by a thousand than on the first night at the same arena last year, began to arrive an hour before the ticket windows were opened. By 7 o'clock, when the first pair of boxers stepped through the ropes, the ringside was occupied. Still the crowd came despite rain until all seats were filled.

Forty Bouts Tonight.

Forty-seven bouts were completed. They inaugurated the three city sectionals. Tonight more than 40 bouts will be contested and at midnight 16 stout hearted boys, two in each of the weight divisions, will have qualified for the "Tournament of Champions" at the Coliseum March 2, 3, and 4.

Perhaps the admission—all seats were 75 cents—was a bargain Chicago fans could not resist. Certainly no presentation ever has equaled it. But to last night's fans the admission was immaterial. They came to see these amateurs contest for the highest honor, a Golden Glove and a place on Chicago's varsity squad.

Last night's boxers shared one characteristic, the ambition of youth backed by courage seldom found in the professional ring. Some of the lads were inept, having little to offer, other than courage. But others demonstrated a power to punch and an experience which predicts success for Chicago against New York.

No Place to Stall.

Who can describe the speed and action of 47 bouts? With no delay, with no dilatory tactics of professionals, these boys tore into each other with fury. For the main the matches were evenly made, although the drawings had been conducted by lot. And the boxers fought with an apparent joy of combat no other game may boast.

From the army which passed in review several boys stood out. Within the next few weeks they will become well known to all Chicago. And on them Chicago will depend to retain the inter-city crown.

There was Dick Mastro, of the Ci-Mad club. Dick can claim reflected fame as the brother of Earl, but Dick needs no such glory.

The power of Dick's fists, which carried him to the semi-finals last year, there to lose to the featherweight champion, still remains. Mastro scored a technical knockout in the third round over Harry April of the Jewish People's institute. April gave Mastro a battle for two rounds, but a right blow under the heart and a left to the face sent the Jewish People's institute boy down for a nine count and Referee Phil Collins stopped the bout shortly afterward.

Earl Watson, the Negro southpaw lightweight who won membership on Chicago's team last year, defeated James Griffin in three rounds. While Earl seemed a bit slower than in 1930, it may have been that he eased up after definitely establishing superiority.

Moonan Shows Class.

Frank Moonan, Knights of Columbus, defeated James Hayes in the same weight division and unless the luck of the draw brings him against Watson he may qualify tonight.

Robert Flowers of the J. P. I. took down the first four round decision when he won from George Wachter after the judges and referee had called the three rounds even.

Although Harry Rosenthal, also of the J. P. I. squad, counted the first clean knockout in round one of his bout with Harry Nissen, several matches previously had been stopped in the late rounds. However, Rosenthal's punch seemed to touch off a series of knockouts and for half an hour the amateurs were tumbling to all corners.

George Holden, Geneva, Ill., gave the lightweights something to worry about when he knocked out Charlie Boutte in the second round. Boutte had earned a draw in the first round, when Holden lashed a right to the jaw and Boutte tottered face downward. He was carried from the ring.

William Smith of the Lawndale gymnasium and Frank Krause, unattached, gave the fans more than admission price in their three round middleweight battle. Smith won by a knockout in the last round after they had fought evenly up to that time.

Max Stotland, a former Harrison Tech High school football star, proved the value of a straight punch. Although this is Stotland's first year of boxing, he gave a finished exhibition in his two handed attack which knocked out Edward Hofriter of the Lawndale gymnasium.

Walks Into a Right.

Probably the most disappointed man at the Ashland auditorium last night was John Boschaulte, a retired detective sergeant. His nephew, Jack Krause, after two stirring rounds had given him a slight advantage, walked into a right which sent him down for nine seconds. Again and again he went down while his uncle, himself a famous fighter years ago, watched with tears in his eyes.

Shortly after midnight ten bouts remained for decision, but the crowd remained. Although they had watched nearly two score of fights, the cheering gave no evidence that their appetites were satiated.

Bout 42 brought the crowd to its feet. In the second round, a husky light heavyweight, Francis Starwell, an unattached novice, brought a right hand blow to Booker White's chin which felled him. White's head thumped on the floor and for the second time a boxer was carried to his corner. But the effects of the blow soon wore off, and if White had been permitted he would have resumed the bout.

Earl Watson came back in the second round of the lightweight class to defeat Jack Rukin of the J. P. I.

Theofeles. Why, he is the greatest drawing card in the history of sport. When he was returned victor over Jim McMillen in a crucial bout at the New York Garden a while ago the gate was $59,000. Of course I regret to state that the Coliseum, that Mecca of the grappling sport, cannot contain $59,000 worth of customers, but I might also state that we expect to turn away no less than 5,000 devotees of the sport Wednesday night.

Young man—Tell me, doctor, is it true that many of these wrestling bouts are faked?

Dr. Krone—Now there is where a lot of you young people have the wrong attitude, and it gives me great pleasure to help you see the light on a subject that has always been a tender one among leaders of the mat pastime. Take that Londos-McMillen bout for instance. The former Illini got a crushing hold on the champion's leg at one time during the struggle, and, although Londos finally won out, he was forced to spend several days in the hospital and cancel no less than $100,000 worth of matches in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. And Kola Kwariani, the Bald Bear of the Bosporus, who, I might mention, will match his skill against Rudy Laditzi in another feature bout on Wednesday night's program, had a similar experience. He was engaged in combat with Chief Clinstock a few weeks ago, and the Indian suddenly reached over and pulled Kola's eye out of its socket. Now, do you think either of those two bouts were fakes?

Young Man—Well, no, I guess not.

Dr. Krone—And another thing. This Zaharias is not a man to be taken lightly. He is a rough and ready grappler who will be in there every minute trying to strip from Londos that $7,500 diamond championship belt which the admiring 600 millionaires presented to Jim after he defeated McMillen.

Young Man—Who do you think will win, doctor?

Dr. Krone—Well, so far we have had an advance ticket sale of 9,000. If Chicago's wrestling lovers turn out en masse, as I have no doubt they will, seeing as how this program brings together ten of the outstanding exponents of the game, the gate should reach $25,000. Yes, I think you can safely predict an overwhelming triumph for the box office. Good-night. [Exit Dr. Krone.]

SHARKEY STOPS CHIP FREEMAN IN 6TH ROUND

Joe Sharkey, Michigan, stopped Chip Freeman, Buffalo, in the sixth round of a ten round bout last night at White City. It was Sharkey's fourth consecutive victory.

Freeman was down for a seven and eight count in the fifth round and his handler threw in the towel in the sixth. Other results:

Bennie Goldblatt, Chicago, knocked out Mickey Joy, Chicago [5].

Carl Smalek beat Tony Capparelli [4].

Mickey Mack and Jimmy Rockford drew [4].

George Kerwin knocked out Johnny Rich [2].

Joe Freeman beat Jack Davis [6].

OUR CUBS ARRIVE IN CALIFORNIA SAFE AND SOUND

Sail for Catalina Camp This Morning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Needles, Cal., Feb. 16.—Dr. Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, brought his troupe of pitchers and catchers into California this evening without a casualty. There wasn't a cold or a stomach ache in two carloads of coddled athletes. With only one more night of travel to be accomplished, Dr. Lotshaw threw aside his usual reticence and predicted a pennant for the Cubs on the strength of physical conditioning, although he won't see Pat Malone's waistline until tomorrow morning in Los Angeles.

The Cub party will reach Los Angeles at 7 o'clock in the morning, and Malone, along with seven other players, sent word he expects to meet the train to join the company for the sail over to Catalina at 10 a. m. There will be 19 ball players, pitchers, and catchers on the boat, and if this doesn't check with your roster it is because Richard O. Whiteworth has decided not to forfeit his seniority on the railroad for which he works in Austin, Tex.

Reception as Usual.

There is no indication that the reception at the Avalon dock will vary greatly from the greeting of previous years. The village fife and drum corps is scheduled to function as per usual, and the official welcome will be accorded by William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs, and the island manager. Manager Hornsby also is on the island and will advise the boys at the noon landing as to whether he expects them to take their first workout of the year tomorrow afternoon. Some of the players expect to take some work even if it isn't compulsory.

Indications all along the road from Chicago to this point in California are that the trip of the second squad will be full of excitement. At almost every stop fans have entered the train to ask the exact time that Hack Wilson will be through. While Hack formerly shared interest with several other Cub stars, his title as home run king of the universe has set him up by himself, at least as far as the fans in the wide open spaces are concerned.

See Smith as Regular.

There have been no intended professional distinctions on the trip now coming to a close, but it is apparent that all the players have accepted Bob Smith, late of Boston and a famed breaker of Cub winning streaks, as a potential factor in Cub pennant plans. Many think he is a certainty to become one of the big four of Hornsby's staff, but no guesses are being ventured as to whom he will supplant of the Malone, Bush, Root, Blake headliner combination of 1929 and 1930.

Of the three old timers the Cubs rescued this winter from four ball clubs Smith and Jakie May have been wearing perpetual smiles. Maybe Les Sweetland is just as happy, but he seems to be a somber, melancholy type. This may be the result of having played too long on the Phillies or the chagrin of a Floridian on his way to California. If we thought it was the Florida notion we would advise him. We are no sectional booster, but we were in Melbourne, Fla., Les' home sort, three weeks ago. We just know he'll like Avalon better.

IOWA, 19; WISCONSIN, 17

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Charles Williamson, Hawkeye forward, scored two free throws after the final gun had sounded to give Iowa a 19 to 17 victory over Wisconsin tonight. It was Iowa's second victory in eight conference games.

The Badgers held a 14 to 7 lead at the half, but the Hawkeyes rapidly pulled into a 17 to 17 tie. Just as the timer raised his gun for the end of the game a foul was called on Rebholz under the Iowa basket. Then Williamson scored the two tosses which gave the home quintet victory.

MINNESOTA BEATS PURDUE

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Minnesota took a firmer grasp on second place in the Big Ten race here tonight when it romped off with a 30 to 26 decision over Purdue.

The Boilermakers collected three points at the start and continued to hold a slight lead until the last minute of the first half. Then the Gophers put on speed through the medium of Licht's two baskets to edge out a 14 to 12 edge at the half. Minnesota remained in front throughout the second half. Lineup:

INFORMATION . . . SEELEY 5300

Bill Tilden, Professional, Tells of New Duty to Sport Public

I believe, by the federal trade commission.

"But," Mr. Tilden continued, "I am aware of one change in things now. When I was an amateur player, it was my idea that the players were under no obligations to the public or the customers or whatever you want to call them. We were players deciding a championship for no more reward than a cup and I know I didn't give a dam for the public."

Tilden Is Informal.

Mr. Tilden's language is pleasantly informal and he seems to have changed character with his change of status. He always seemed rather austere, rather "whom have I the honor of being addressed by?" and a little bit conscious of being on the defensive side of a controversy, in those amateur days. Now he is easy and frank and gay, he does more helling and damming than I had expected.

"But," he went on, "when I go out in the courts now, realizing that I am receiving my share of the customers' money, I will feel also that I owe the public a hard fight, good tennis, and a show.

"I know people used to think I staged some of my finishes, letting an opponent make trouble for me for a while and then closing with a spectacular finish. Some of these matches went that way, but it was because I was trying to save myself. My idea is to win as easily as possible, and sometimes I have made the mistake of allowing my opponent to make trouble for me. Then I had to call on that hard concentration that brings every ounce of energy into the fight to win. It may seem silly to say that a long match is easier to win than a short one, but the difference is just the difference between——"

"Between a long walk and a quarter mile race?" said Mr. Frank Hunter, another devotee of this habit forming game who is so bound to it that he is leaving his string of suburban newspapers temporarily to turn pro and go on tour with Tilden and Kazeluh.

Johnston Was Different.

"Yes, that's about the difference," Mr. Tilden said.

"Now little Bill Johnston used to go out to blow his man off the court. He concentrated from the start and didn't let down until the match was over."

"O, Bill," Mr. Curley's round face appeared in the door again, troubled and moist. "Bill, will you come in and talk to this fellow about ——"

Mr. Tilden went in to talk to Kozeluh's lawyer, and some other people began to talk about Kozeluh.

"The eatingest man in sport," said one. "When Curley starts paying the dining car checks for this fellow he will think he is back with his wrestlers. Ten meals a day and he runs his fat off on the courts."

Mr. Kozeluh, whom the tennis people speak of as a strange person, possibly the greatest player of all, has always been a pro, so the public hasn't heard much about him. He learned his tennis first with a hand made wooden paddle when he was chasing balls for the guests of a rich man in Prague. Kozeluh was the son of a working man employed on the place. The rich man had a son at Yale, and when the son came home from Yale Kozeluh beat him with his wooden bat, so the son gave him a good racket from Yale.

Later on the rich man became the president of Czecho-Slovakia—Masyrak or something like that—and the son became minister to London and Kozeluh became coach of the American Davis cup team in Paris, such a master and so tireless that he sometimes beat Tilden, Hunter and all the rest of them in succession in a single morning.

"He doesn't say much," said a man who had toured with him. "Mostly he says, 'I hungry; I eat.'"

SCHAAF KNOCKS OUT DANIELS IN FIRST ROUND

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, scored a one round knockout over Dick Daniels of Minneapolis tonight.

Daniels was sent to the canvas three times, the first midway in the round when Schaaf's right hook caught him on the chin. Daniels dropped for a count of eight and, barely up again, was sent down with a similar punch for a count of nine. Daniels was in better shape when he arose this time and tore into Schaaf, landing a straight left which momentarily dazed the Bostonian, who, after sparring cautiously, then scored again with his right, and this time Daniels stayed down.

Benny Bass Stops Taylor in 2d Round

The decision was awarded by Referee Leo Houck, despite Taylor's claim that the blow was foul. When the Terre Haute fighter sank to the floor Houck called the club physician into the ring. He made an examination of the stricken boxer and said the punch had not been low.

Regardless of what happened in the succeeding rounds, Weiner said, Bass would be credited with a knockout over his opponent. Bass returned to the arena and informed the fans that he would box only five more rounds. He said he had won the fight, but would go through five more rounds for the benefit of the spectators.

Both Taylor and his manager agreed to the extra sessions, and the battle was resumed. Chairman Weiner announced that no decision would be rendered. They started again and slugged away for five rounds. The consensus of newspaper men at the ringside gave Bass three rounds of the exhibition, Taylor one and one even.

Buckeye Athletic Association Asks Annual Inquiry

Dayton, O., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Buckeye Athletic association wants itself investigated once a year to guard against any suspicion of subsidizing athletes.

A decision to that effect was reached by directors of the association in their annual meeting here yesterday. The North Central College association, which has been investigating other middle west conferences in order to eliminate any taint of commercialism, would be asked to conduct the inquiry and dismiss any college or university found subsidizing its players.

SCHMELING BOUT HERE ON JUNE 19, CAREY INDICATES

Max Schmeling will defend his heavyweight boxing championship against Young Stribling at Soldiers' field June 19, under the direction of Madison Square Garden, William Carey, president of the Garden corporation, indicated yesterday before leaving for New York.

The June 19 date is favored, it was said, because it comes the day before the running of the American Derby at Washington Park. The double sports attraction is counted upon to draw out of town fans.

The Illinois athletic commission reported yesterday that no one has applied for a license to hold the title bout.

Britons Bar Cotton from Ryder Squad

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Henry Cotton, British golf professional, today was definitely barred from Ryder cup competition by the Professional Golf association.

The action against Cotton was the result of the latter's recent statement, saying he intended to make a tour of the United States separate from the Ryder cup team, which will play in America this summer. Rules of the English P. G. A. require that all members of the team travel together.

Cotton widened his break with the golf body several days ago by inviting Aubrey Boomer, J. C. Boyer, and Percy Aliss to accompany him to the United States. Boomer and Cotton were members of the 1929 Ryder cup team. Boyer is an outstanding French professional, while Aliss, who is not eligible for the British team, has resided in Berlin for several years.

In his original statement to the golf association, Cotton said he desired to compete in the United States open. The Ryder cup matches will be played at Columbus, O., June 26 and 27.

ROAMERS, TEAM WITHOUT A HOME, PLAY SHAMROCKS

Millers, with New Label, at Stadium Tonight.

After battling on foreign ice for a couple of weeks, the Shamrocks, Chicago's entry in the American Hockey league, return to the Stadium ice tonight. They are scheduled for an hour of work against the Minneapolis Millers, who, having lost their home rink, now are the league orphans and will carry the name of Roamers.

The Shamrocks, as the result of the whipping they administered to the Kansas City Pla-Mors Sunday night, occupy third place, two points back of second. The difficulty with their present position is that they are being pressed by both the Duluth and Buffalo sextets.

Shamrocks' Lineup Intact.

The Chicago team will start off this evening with the same men who carried the bigger portion of the burden Sunday at Kansas City. Taylor and Mulligan will perform as defense men, Headley will be at center and the wings will be occupied by Wiseman and the flashy Bobby Burns, rated the star of the circuit.

The revised order of the other Shamrock forward line is Brydson, Dennenay and MacFadyen. This will leave Riley, Clayton, Burland, and MacKenzie for emergency roles.

The newly christened Roamers, although homeless, are touted as possessing as much color as any team in the league. Porky Levine, a skilled goalie, is the only Jewish player in pro hockey. Leo Carbol, from the Pacific coast, is developing into an outstanding defense man. He is the gentleman who, on the last visit of the Minneapolis team to the Stadium, skated through the entire Shamrock layout to register the winning goal. Redding is the smallest defense man in the league.

Legionnaires Are Guests.

Members of Chipilly post, American Legion, the Advertising Men's post, the Stockyards post, Elmwood Park post, and Yarme de Vere post will be guests of the Shamrocks.

OBERHOF, Germany, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Ole Stenen, Norway, won the 50 kilometers (30 miles) endurance skiing race here today. Peder Vungli, Norway, was second, and Karl Lindberg, Sweden, third. The winner's time was 3:52:9.

INSULL ACTS AS LEADING MAN IN CIVIC THEATER

Has Stockholders for an Audience.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Something unique in the way of stockholders' meetings occurred in Chicago yesterday. They were the annual meetings of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities company, the two big investment concerns sponsored by Samuel Insull. Their combined assets exceed $400,000,000, and their capital was largely raised in Chicago and the middle west.

SAMUEL INSULL.

Unlike the usual meetings of stockholders of big corporations, which are sparsely attended and devoted to routine business, it required the Chicago Civic theater to accommodate the thousand-odd stockholders who attended the meetings of the Insull enterprises. And Mr. Insull, who presided, hurried through the formal business in order to invite and answer questions by the stockholders.

Answers All Questions.

And what questions they were! Some were clearly and precisely put, while others were in broken English and vague. But all were answered, even though at times Mr. Insull was a bit puzzled to understand them. However, he summarized most of the leading questions in cheerful vein and emphasized his optimism toward the future.

"Last year was not very satisfactory for business as a whole," he said, "but that general condition affected the utility business to only a very slight extent. The utilities that we are particularly interested in had a very satisfactory business so far as net returns to the stockholders are concerned.

"Now, I suppose it is a natural question to ask what is going to happen in 1931. We can only judge the prospects of the future by the experience of the past.

"Our people have got over the panicky feeling toward prices of securities and commodities and are adopting a far more sane point of view as to conditions. We have been saving, as a people, a great deal of money during the last year. As people find their money is unemployed, it is natural to assume there will be efforts in the direction of development and, consequently, the expenditure of capital during 1931 that was absent in 1930.

Domestic Development.

"Taking a world view of the situation, and seeing the troubles that other people are in, it is quite evident that if our country's business is to improve we must be satisfied with the business that can be developed within our own borders. And I see no reason why there should not be same development. Within our own borders we have all the capital that we possibly can require.

"I think the question of 1931 is largely that of caution, of courage and of effort to nurse existing enterprises. And it is important that our legislatures, whether national or state, should employ the same ideas of thrift that we preach to the individual and that every effort be made to conserve the capital of the country, and employ it in industries that will give work to our people and a return to those who invest their money."

At other times during the two meetings, Mr. Insull said that both corporations plan to sell additional securities this year in order to pay off large loans incurred in the purchase of additional securities for their portfolios. However, what form the financing will take has not been determined yet. He also gave assurance that both companies will maintain the annual dividend rate of 6 per cent on their common shares, payable in common stock.

And finally, several stockholders wanted to know what made both Insull stocks and others flutcaute in market prices.

Reflect Hysteria.

"The fluctuations of last year were the reflection of hysteria, a lack of appreciation of values on the part of people who threw their securities on the market," Mr. Insull said. "And the high prices of a year or so ago reflected the hysteria of those who thought a new era had come and that all kinds of securities were going to sell high irrespective of their value. It does not matter how successful a business is, if the whole country is intent on selling securities they will go down; then when they get over that hysteria, securities have a tendency to improve."

In response to other questions Mr. Insull explained that the companies didn't speculate in their own securities; that a splitup in stock of the Commonwealth Edison company isn't being considered; that federal regulation of utilities and municipal ownership are not to be feared, and that bringing of natural gas to Chicago by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company is likely to result in only slight reduction in rates.

N. Y. Exchange Seat Price Jumps $70,000 in Week

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Coincident with the bull stock market the value of a stock exchange membership has jumped $70,000 in a week to $295,000. That was the price a seat sold for today, an advance of $20,000 from the previous sale, and a new high for the year. At the turn of the year seats were selling for $189,000.

Show How Unemployment Proves Costly to Capital

BY SCRUTATOR.

Too many of the attacks on the problem of unemployment have lost a part of their effectiveness by a too heavy leaning on the humanitarian rather than the economic aspects; especially when the attempt is made to convince the employing classes that they are making a mistake in failure to furnish employment.

It is quite obvious that society in the mass is a loser when any large percentage of willing workers are out of work and have no rent money and perhaps no food money. It is more difficult to make men of interests see that unemployment, when it exists in their own plants, is so expensive to them personally that they can ill afford it.

This, of course, is not always true, but it probably is true in a great many more cases than forward looking men realize. Some general observations of an intelligent temper were made recently by a committee appointed by the governor of New York to investigate unemployment. These serve to show the costliness of unemployment. Better still, they include specific instances of companies which have improved their employment records without damage to their balance sheets.

Give Four Reasons.

At least four reasons are given why unemployment and full employment at rapid intervals are expensive to furnishers of capital.

First, unfamiliar hands require a period of training. The committee quoted manufacturers who asserted that new employés in their businesses were often less than 40 per cent efficient in comparison with the regulars for a period of six months. Second, idle machinery in shutdown or partly shutdown periods carries on its fixed charges just the same, and to meet peaks due to lack of regularized employment and production schedules there must be a surplus of such machinery in slack times.

Third, it is argued that companies with regularized employment obtain good labor at from 10 to 15 per cent below the wage levels that must be paid by the companies alternating between fits of activity and lethargy. Fourth, it is assumed that employés confident that their employment will last, are not unwilling to put forth full efforts, are not "afraid to work themselves out of jobs." On the other hand, the fear of approaching unemployment is declared an incentive for the worker to accomplish a minimum of work and lengthen out the job as much as possible.

Unemployment is seasonal, cyclical, technological, or chronic. The terms in a sense define themselves. Business concerns have made more progress against seasonal changes, due largely to changes in weather, than against the other types. One shoe company stimulated orders in the nonessential periods by offering to accept a certain price, to hold to it if the price went up and to give the customer the benefit if prices fell.

Build Year Round Demand.

Others have, by intensive advertising, built seasonal products into all year demand. Paints and soft drinks of well known makes are examples. Still other concerns making products so diverse as hats, safety razors, soap, kodaks, and table silver, have found it practical to work on annual schedules, turning their products into stock in the dull seasons and manufacturing at less than consumption rate in the peaks. It appears that costs of storage must not be too high to follow such a system. Obviously it would not do where style appeal of the goods is a quickly changing factor. Yet it seems to be established that many concerns gain by increasing storage space and cutting down on plant facilities.

Even some companies making seasonal goods have experimented successfully with additions of standard goods in the off seasons. Thus a manufacturer of men's clothing between the spring and autumn peaks, makes up standard garments for boys and a manufacturer of women's dresses makes a line of standard nurses' uniforms.

The most effective work against unemployment will come when it is demonstrated that even for individuals it pays no better than it does for the masses.

M. E. TRAYLOR OPPOSES OWEN D. YOUNG PLAN ON BANKING SYSTEM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Strong opposition to the proposal to set up one national banking system and require all state banks of deposit to become members of the federal reserve system was voiced before the senate banking investigating committee today by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

This suggestion recently was made by Owen D. Young, a director of the federal reserve bank of New York and chairman of the General Electric company.

"I believe such a proposal is fraught with more danger to our political and social life than any suggestion seriously proposed in my life time," Traylor asserted. He said he would prefer a system of state banking, which would provide a "substantial" minimum capitalization chartering requirement and branch banking within counties for perhaps five years and subsequently over the whole state.

"There also should be an absolute inhibition," he said, "against any bank in such state system if its capital is owned outside the state and no outside bank should be permitted to operate a branch in another state."

He said he personally did not believe small banks should be members of the reserve system because they have only a limted amount of paper eligible for rediscount and the responsibility of supervision would be too great.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Railroads were authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to revise within the next four months the general schedules of freight rates on petroleum and petroleum products throughout the northeast and from the midcontinent oil refining territory to all points in the east.

In addition, the carriers were authorized to make a similar revision of rates on gasoline moving within southwestern territory.

The decision indicated the commission intended to allow the railroads almost complete discretion in altering petroleum rates to enable them to meet increasing competition of new pipe line and highway transportation facilities for the petroleum traffic.

To guide the revision, particularly in so far as the eastern half of the country is concerned, the commission prescribed a series of maximum key rates which the carriers were instructed not to exceed in reorganizing the petroleum rates. Practically all provided for new schedules in excess of existing charges, but will not necessarily be adopted.

Fix Maximum Rates.

Maximum rates on petroleum products from southwestern and New Orleans refineries to Cincinanti were fixed at 50 cents per 100 pounds; at 58 cents to Detroit; at 62 cents to Pittsburgh; at 74 cents to New York, and at 77 cents to Boston.

For the southeastern territory the maximum to Nashville was fixed at 43 cents; to Louisville, 44; to Jacksonville, 52; to Raleigh, 61; to Richmond, 65, and to Norfolk, 68.

Proportionate amounts would be charged to unnamed southern cities and in addition rates from refining points west of New Orleans to southern cities would be given a graduated increase over the New Orleans schedules.

In the movement of petroleum products within eastern territory, carriers were instructed to fix rates not to exceed 32½ per cent of first class fresh schedules.

For southwestern gasoline the commission laid down a distance scale to govern interstate transportation charges, which began by allowing an 11 cent charge per hundred miles, and advanced by steps to 30 cents for 300 miles, 40 cents for 500 miles, 52 cents for 800 miles, with a limit of 60 cents for 1,000 mile shipments.

Independents to Open Drive.

The cause of independent oil producers for a limitation on petroleum imports today shifted to the house Republican steering committee as the opposition began testimony before the ways and means committee against the Capper-Garber bill.

The unofficial directors of the house program took no action, however, because the bill to limit imports during the next three years to 16,000,000 barrels annually must first be voted on by the ways and means committee.

North American Light's Earnings Rise in 1930

Both gross and net earnings of the North American Light and Power company were larger in 1930 than in 1929, according to the preliminary annual report issued last night. Gross earnings were $47,157,845, compared with $45,806,802 in 1929. Net income for 1930 was $5,409,955, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.79 a share on an average of 1,519,844 common shares outstanding during the year. Net income for 1929 was $4,676,114, or $3.18 a share on 1,118,765 shares.

The Pacific Western Oil company reported net profit for 1930 of $2,316,544, equivalent to $2.31 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,816,985, or $1.81 a share, in 1929.

New York, Feb. 16.—The battling bulls took high-handed charge of things today on the stock exchange. By keeping everlastingly at it they succeeded in piling a nice long array of good gains on top of last week's cumulative total. One to 3 points was about the average for the active list as a whole, but some of the favorite toys of the cut-up crowd fairly sizzled under the impetus of professional buying at times.

Auburn Auto was tossed up for a net gain of 19 points to an accompaniment of moans from squeezed shorts. Case Threshing Machine rose nearly 9 and the others of the demonstrative coterie, International Business Machine, Safeway Stores, Vanadium, and

MAJESTIC CO. COMBINES WITH GRIGSBY-GRUNOW

Will Issue $5,000,000 Bonds in Refinancing.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Acquisition by the Grigsby-Grunow company of its affiliate, the Majestic Household Utilities corporation, and a refinancing program calling for the issuance of $5,000,000 in convertible bonds against the assets of the combined company was approved at a meeting of directors of the two firms late yesterday.

Purchase of the Majestic business by Grigsby is conditional on the approval and subscription by stockholders of the proposed bond issue. The acquisition would be accomplished through a share-for-share exchange of stock. Special meetings of stockholders will be called for in a few days to vote on the program.

See Success of Plan.

Success of the plan is practically assured, according to officials. Creditors of Majestic are being asked to subscribe to approximately $2,000,000 of the bonds. As pointed out by B. J. Grigsby, chairman, Majestic is not in a liquid position at the present time. This was attributed to the investment of a great portion of the firm's capital in fixed assets. The Dec. 31 balance sheet of the company disclosed current liabilities of $3,687,927 as against quick assets of only $2,000,659.

Mr. Grigsby stressed the fact that the Grigsby-Grunow company is in good condition at the present time and the additional financing is expected to provide ample working capital to carry on the refrigerator business of Majestic when the companies are consolidated.

The bonds will be offered at 97½. During the balance of the current year the bonds will be convertible into common stock of the company on the basis of 12 shares for each $100 of bonds; in 1932 at the rate of 10 shares; in 1933, eight shares and thereafter five shares.

Grigsby and Majestic shares were quiet in the Chicago market yesterday. Yesterday's action of directors had been anticipated by a moderate upturn in the stocks last week.

The market as a whole was irregularly higher. Striking gains in a few of the specialties gave the list an appearance of strength which was not borne out by the market action of many of the active stocks.

Swift Shares Improve.

Issuance of a highly favorable report for 1930 by Swift International enabled that stock to push forward for a net gain of around 2 points. A flurry in Iron Fireman sent the price up over 2 points to 22 as rumors were revived that the firm may be taken over by larger interests. As far as could be learned there has been no change in the outlook in regard to such a deal. Persons in touch with the situation state that there is little likelihood that the present controlling interest will surrender any of its holdings.

U. S. Radio claimed attention again by running up over three points to a new high on a volume of sales exceeding 22,000 shares. With the favorable annual report previously discounted, Goldblatt shares eased moderately.

Southwestern Bell Telephone.

I received your letter. I made a mistake in the name. The company I am interested in is Southwestern Bell Telephone compahy. I am thinking of buying preferred stock of this company. Do you think it would be a good investment? Any information you can give me will be greatly appreciated.—M. N.

Southwestern Bell Telephone company is a unit of the Bell system. Practically all of its common stock is owned by American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Southwestern Bell was incorporated in Missouri in 1882 as Missouri and Kansas Telephone company. The present name was adopted in 1917, when the company acquired the property of several other concerns. It has had consistent growth and at the beginning of 1930 was serving, through subsidiaries and connecting companies, a population of more than 15,000,000 in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and a small territory in Illinois. It was operating 2,216,000 telephones and had interconnections with 2,625,000 other telephones in its territory.

Earnings have increased steadily, although the final figures for 1930 may show a slight decline from the peak of the year before. Preliminary figures published early in February showed a small increase in gross and a slight drop in net earnings, after taxes but before interest charges.

Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, was $13,344,092, equal to $61.25 per share on the preferred, against $13,650,571, or $62.66 per preferred share in the first nine months of 1929. This recession was due to a poorer showing in the first quarter of 1930. The second and third quarters were better in 1930 than in 1929.

At the close of 1929 the company's outstanding capitalization consisted of $51,590,300 funded debt, $21,785,500 of preferred and $155,000,000 of common. Application was recently made to the Missouri public service commission for authority to issue an additional $18,000,000 of common.

Preferred dividends have been regularly paid since the stock was issued in 1921. This stock is high grade.

Philadelphia Electric.

May I please have your opinion on Philadelphia Electric company 4s of 1971?—H. B.

Philadelphia Electric company first and refunding mortgage 4s, due Feb. 1, 1971, are well secured and earnings appear to be ample. In 1930 net earnings were more than 3.6 times interest charges. That the company should have been able to increase its gross revenues more than 4 per cent in 1930 is a favorable sign. These bonds are considered sound.

AMERICAN CAN SHOWS SLIGHT GAIN OVER 1929 IN ITS 1930 EARNINGS

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The tin can makers today turned in their credentials and stepped up alongside electric power producers, cigaret manufacturers, and others who have been able to fight off business depression and come through 1930 with little, if any, diminution of profits.

The American Can company reported 1930 net profit of $22,883,940, actually $159,138 more than it cleared in that banner year of 1929. This amounted to $8.08 per share of common stock outstanding, or six cents more than for 1929.

The Continental Can company cleared last year net profit of $8,738,094, which was about $229,000 less than its profit for 1929, but since it had retired its preferred stock during the year and had no preferred dividends to pay during the latter portion, it was able to report profit equal to $5.04 per share of common stock, or two cents more than for 1929.

American Can was able to carry more than $7,000,000 to surplus, despite the fact that it spent about $11,500,000 for new construction. Its total assets at the end of the year were carried at $198,422,360. H. W. Phelps, president, said: "Business conditions and prospects for 1931 do not invite prophecy, but we do not consider them discouraging."

United Carbon company and subsidiaries for the year ended Dec. 31 had net profit of $704,600, equal to $1.43 a share on 397,885 common shares, including 36,300 shares held in the treasury. This compared with net profit of $1,314,555, equal to $2.62 a share on 393,073 shares of common outstanding Dec. 31, 1929. Net for last year included $338,906 profit from the sale of properties, against a similar profit of $344,429 in the preceding year.

BUILDING FOR SIX WEEKS OF 1931 INCREASES

Shows Good Gain Over Same Period in 1930.

BY AL CHASE.

For the first six weeks in 1931 Chicago's construction program shows an increase of approximately $1,235,000 over a corresponding period last year, according to E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago. He adds that while the six weeks' gain is not as imposing as it might be the figures indicate a betterment in the present building and industrial depression.

"The building reports embody about the first optimistic signs that Chicago construction is pulling toward the road to normalcy," said Mr. Craig. "Basic forecasts, however, should not be made, as the industrial condition of the nation is undergoing a severe readjustment period and contributory conditions may alter, at least temporarily, our present optimistic opinion."

Contracts Let.

A tabulation of construction projects for which contracts have been let, involving more than $25,000, listed in the Chicago metropolitan area for the first two weeks of February, is as follows:

School, Hollywood and Mozart.	$ 500,000
Hospital, 1100 North Leavitt..	350,000

Apartments, 2644 Winona	70,000
Apartments, 5254 Wolfram ...	35,000
	$1,305,000

Mr. Craig stated that building permits issued during the first two weeks of February were $4,478,000, as compared to $640,000 for a similar period in 1930.

Walgreen to Enter Elmhurst.

The Walgreen company has leased the corner store in a building to be erected at the northwest corner of York and 1st, in Elmhurst, by I. Schuman. The lease is for fifteen years and will start on completion of the building. Plans are being drawn by Edward P. Steinberg. The site, 80x58, was purchased from the First National bank of Elmhurst, which formerly occupied it with its building. The Walgreen store will be 26½x53½.

Fritz and Ida Kelle have purchased the eighteen flat building at 1647-53 Addison street from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, for a reported $74,000, subject to $48,000. They gave as part payment a bungalow at 3006 Nagle avenue. F. D. Wrobke of E. A. Hastings & Co. represented the seller, and Theodore Eiseman of Harry C. Kastens & Co. the buyer.

Top yesterday, $8.90; average, $8.10.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 30,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep.

Supplies of cattle and hogs dropped below normal yesterday and prices were strong to higher, while sheep receipts were larger than usual and prices lowest in ten days. Cattle prices equaled the highest of the month, the top at $11.75 going back to Jan. 28 for a higher mark.

Top hogs reached the $8.00 line again for the first time since last Wednesday. Best lambs sold at $8.90, the first time they have been below $9.00 since Feb. 6.

Trading in hogs was not active at the 10@15c higher prices at the opening and most of the advance was lost before the finish. Light weights scored the sharpest gains, the top going up 15c at $8.00, while medium and weighty butchers showed the least improvement. The general average was 10c above Saturday's average at $7.05, but compared with $7.45 early last week and with $7.75 a month ago.

Today's Hogs Bid $8.00.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $8.00 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but no offers were made at that price. Light weights for the last half of the present month were bid $7.50 on the futures market, while March light were bid $8.00. April and May contracts were offered at $9.50. March mediums were offered at $8.00 and heavy at $7.60.

Salesmen were quick to take advantage of the smaller cattle supplies yesterday and bulk of sales of cattle listed at $9.00 and above showed uneven gains, while plainer kinds moved slowly on a "catch as catch can" basis. Fancy 998 lb yearlings went to Swift at $11.75 and 1,491 lb steers sold at $10.70.

Sheep Receipts Larger.

Sheep receipts at 21,000 were the largest for Monday since the middle of January. On top of last week's big supply, the accumulation proved too much for the market, resulting in a break of 15@25c soon after the opening yesterday.

Best selected went to city butchers at $8.90, while a good many medium weights sold for local slaughter at $8.50@8.60. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs sold at steady prices.

POTATO FUTURES LOWER

Heavy buying continued in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, another good advance coming in the various deliveries. Potato futures were influenced by a sharp break in the spot market and closed 3@5c lower. Egg futures continued firm and finished unchanged to ¼c higher. Sales: Butter, 149 cars; eggs, 23 cars; potatoes, 41 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 5 cars; eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

EASY CLOSE FOR LARD

Lard futures were bid up early yesterday in sympathy with the advance in hogs, but weakened toward the last with grains and on the slack in demand. May was up 13½c early, which was all lost later, and March and July finished unchanged, and May 2¼c lower. Bellies were unchanged to 5c lower, with practically no trade. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower.

Export clearances of lard for the week were 11,287,000 lbs against 10,112,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 5,062,000 lbs against 7,325,000 lbs last year.

WHEAT PRICES ON NEW CROPS ARE CARRIED LOWER

Old Crop Deliveries Are Mainly Unchanged.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in new crop deliveries of wheat yesterday due to scattered rains in parts of the southwest. Trade in the aggregate was not large, but sufficient pressure developed to carry the July off 1¾c from Saturday's finish to a low of 67¾c with a small rally later. Final trades were at net losses of 1¼c, with the July finishing at 68¼@68¾c, and September at 67¾c. Old crop deliveries were unchanged to ¼c lower with March 79¼c and May 82¼@82½c.

Strength in the Liverpool wheat market, which was ⅛@¼d higher for the day due to decreasing stocks of cash grain and a reduction of 30,000,000 bu in the Argentine crop from the preliminary government returns in January, had comparatively little effect in Chicago, as Winnipeg was weak and 1½c lower. No rain, however, was shown in the spring wheat territory. The forecast indicated a continued lack of moisture both sides of the international line.

Visible Supply Increases.

The southwest was reported as offering cash wheat to come here during the day but buyers were disposed to hold off as there is no material surplus of elevator room. Local stocks showed an increase of 401,000 bu for the week. The visible supply increase of 2,078,000 bu for the week was somewhat in excess of trade expectations and led to a little selling of futures. Total stocks are 194,503,000 bu, against 159,052,000 bu last year. Supplies on ocean passage increased 9,192,000 bu for the week and aggregate 51,416,000 bu against 40,720,000 bu last year.

Between the better weather conditions and the bearish construction placed on the statistical position, the average wheat trader is inclined to favor a lower level of values—temporarily at least. The reduction in the Argentine crop estimate by 30,000,0000 bu automatically reduced the exportable surplus to that extent.

Corn Nears Season's Low.

Persistent commission house selling of corn futures in small lots gradually filled buyers up, and with stop loss orders uncovered the May dropped 1⅞c to a low of 63¾c, or within ⅛c of the incide figure on the crop, while March at 61½c was ¼c under the previous low. Short covering and buying against bids checked the decline but the finish was at net losses of 1@1¼c with March 61¾c, May, 64¼@64¾c; July, 65¾@65¾c, and September, 65⅝@66⅝c.

Receipts of cash corn were liberal with the basis steady to ½c lower except on poor grades which were off 2@3c as compared with the M[illegible] The continued slow shipping demand, and hedging pressure is a factor in depressing the market as the trade sees it. The question of storage room has ruled. 71¾c.
